20,000 AT BOWIE AS THE HEATHEN WINS INAUGURAL

8-1 Shot Leads Field of 16 to Wire in $5,000 Race at 6 Furlongs.

TUTTI FRUTTI, CHOICE, IS SEVENTH AT FINISH

Night Life, Second, by 3 Lengths, With Mowlee in Third Place.

STARTER MILTON GETS FIELD AWAY IN LINE

East Celebrates the Opening of 1929 Maryland Racing Season.

The horses came to Bowie yesterday attended by 20,000 followers who heard the bugler's call from one of Prince Georges County's sandy hills sound the beginning of another racing season in the East. The 20,000 who saluted the return of the thoroughbred were recruited in the main from Washington and Baltimore, but New York and Philadelphia and other racing centers of the East poured their hundreds into the inclosure for the revival.

The prospect of an international contest in the $5,000 Inaugural Handicap was the chief magnet of the opening day's program, but the widely heralded Tutti Frutti, of Chilean breeding, failed to justify the favoritism that marked his debut in Eastern racing. C. S. Pierce's 5-year-old sprinter, The Heathen, led from flagfall to finish in the Inaugural, winning easily by three lengths over Night Life, with Mowlee third and the foreign invader seventh, far back, and at no time a contender.

The fans who had awaited with deep expectancy the performance of the Chilean invader saw a strapping but overrated 5-year-old, who was held the favorite at 3 to 2, outclassed in the field of sixteen. With one of America's premier jockeys, A. Pascuma, in the saddle, the Chilean failed to figure, unable to match the early speed of the sprinters in the field and unable to leave the ruck in the later going.

For the Inaugural sixteen went to the post, and that prevented making use of the stall machine. There was also a considerable delay for which Tutti Frutti was largely to blame when he would not go to his position in the line. Eventually Milton had an alignment to his liking, and the big field was dispatched to a good start.

The Heathen Jumps to Lead.

The Heathen, always a particularly alert horse, at once jumped into the lead, and Schaeffer made every use of that advantage by sending him along at a pace that soon opened up a gap in the field. Three lengths back of the leader came Clean Play, one of the Miami starters, and then Big Son of John was showing the way to the others, but in rather close quarters Night Life early found his way to a contending position, and Mowlee was closely lapped on him and circling

Wahibis Raid Bedouins; Kill 500, Say Reports

Jerusalem, April 2 (U.P.).—A new revolt in the Arabian desert was reported today with reliable advices from Amman, Transjordania, which said that 500 had been killed in a raid by Wahabi tribesmen on an encampment of Transjordan Bedouins at Jebelbeib. The report said that only five escaped.

Approximately 8,000 Wahabis, reported to have been led by the son of Ibn Saud, ruler of Arabia, were said to be concentrating to attack rebellious sheiks of the Nejd region, of which Ibn-Said is the sultan.

WIFE SLAIN IN DRY RAID AND FAMILY

Mrs. Lillian De King, who was shot and killed in a dry raid conducted by deputy sheriffs on her home in Aurora, Ill., pictured here with her husband, Joseph, and their son, Gerald, 12 years old. At a coroner's inquest yesterday both De King and his son testified, the latter telling the jury how he wounded Deputy Sheriff Smith after his mother was slain.

RAID KILLER IS HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

SON, 12, TELLS HIS STORY

Geneva, Ill., April 2 (U.P.).—The shooting of Mrs. Lillian De King, slain in her Aurora home during a "dry" raid—a shooting that has aroused Nation-wide controversy—was held to have been "unnecesary" by a coroner's jury here today.

Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, whose shotgun fire killed Mrs. De King, was ordered held to the action of a grand jury on a charge of manslaughter.

Smith, now in an Elgin hospital recovering from serious revolver wounds inflicted by Mrs. De King's son, Gerald, 12 years old, fired the fatal shot at the De King home March 25 last.

The jury's verdict attacked the legality of the warrant on which the raid was based, saying:

"We believe, from the evidence presented, that the warrant was the result of a false affidavit by Eugene Boyd Fairchild, an attache of the State's attorney's office."

The verdict ended a day of carnival performances in the city hall auditorium where the spectators cheered and applauded little Gerald De King and his father, himself wounded by the raiders, as they testified that their resistance was offered in defense of their home.

The crowd of 1,200 persons first stormed the circuit court room and then staged a foot race through two streets of this little town of Geneva competing for favored seats in the drama that has aroused Kane County's country-folk as nothing ever before.

The race followed announcement that because of the large crowd gathered at the courthouse, the inquest was to be shifted to the city hall, which afforded greater accommodations.

The verdict holding the deputy to the grand jury was greeted with cheers and loud handclapping. It appeared throughout the day that the audience,

CALLES SURROUNDS REBELS AT JIMENEZ

AMERICAN HURT AT NACO

Mexico City, April 3 (A.P.).—Announcement was made at Chapultepec Castle late tonight that bulletins from Jimenez said the rebels were evacuating the city and retreating northward.

It was said only a few rebels remained in the vicinity of the town and that federal aviators were attempting to cut off retreat of the army by bombing the rebel trains.

(Associated Press.)

A ring of federal guns yesterday pent up the main army of the Mexican rebellion in the straggling streets of the desert town of Jimenez with all rail lines of retreat cut, federal bombing planes dropping death from the skies and federal artillery reportedly master of the rebel machine guns.

Mexico City received this information from Gen. Calles, but rebel headquarters at Chihuahau City reported capture of 1,000 federal soldiers in an engagement south of Jimenez and declared the major battle between their forces and the federals was yet to come.

Wire communication between Chihuahua City and Jimenez has been cut.

The government described insurgent troops at "bottled within the railroad station and other small positions which they hold within a limited radius in the town." The rebels were said to have made desperate but futile attempts to break through the federal lines.

Fighting was hot, but full lists of casualties could not be procured. Gen. Calles said the federals had "lost 25 dead, but the enemy many more." Federals captured 50 rebels.

Gen. Almazan, commanding the attacking federals, estimated the insurgents were losing 300 men daily. "Each moment the rebels' demoralization increases." he added.

Gen. Escobar was reported to be personally in command of the rebel troops at Jimenez, but federal aviators sighted and pursued a rebel plane which rose from Jimenez in the morning and which Gen. Calles supposed to bear away some rebel leader fleeing the beleaguered city.

Gen. Almazan was constantly on the firing line from 5 a. m., when the federals began their attack.

Rebel airplanes were held on the ground, camouflaged under branches of trees, federal airmen reported.

A serious situation between the American Government and rebels was created when rebel airplanes, attacking the federal garrison of Naco, Sonora, bombed the American town of Naco, Ariz. The bombing was apparently unintentional, but spread terror in the Man, Facing Dry Law Trial, Kills Himself

Champaign, Ill., April 2 (A.P.).—Rather than face trial on a charge of selling liquor, C. F. Smith, of Mansfield, committed suicide today by cutting his throat an hour before his trial was to have been held.

Smith, who was custodian of the Mansfield town hall, was arrested Saturday night while in the act of selling liquor to patrons of a village dance.

Radio to Carry Capital's Pleas for Airport Tonight

MacCracken Will Press Urgency; Post Man Also to Speak.

America is taking to the air. Throughout the land, cities and towns are moving to attract and handle this new and fascinating traffic. Aero clubs are springing up everywhere; passenger, freight and sightseeing lines are doing an ever-growing business, and seemingly every city and hamlet is building or planning to build its own municipal airport.

Washington has no municipal airport, even though it is the Nation's Capital. However, it does have prospects for one. Within a short time a joint congressional committee will take up this question of an airport and submit its recommendations at the first regular session of the new Congress. It is hoped that the committee will recommend an airport that will be a model for the world.

POLICE WATCH IDLY AS LEGAL RUM ROLLS IN

PATROLMEN PASSED PAY NO ATTENTION

ONE SCOTCH BOTTLE BROKEN; NOT WASTED

Captain and Sergeant Here Receive—and Accept—Invitation to "Call."

Louis Jay Heath, of the Washington Bureau of the United Press, rode yesterday from Washington to Baltimore and back to the Capital in an Embassy car, bringing a consignment of diplomatic liquor. In the following story, he explains in detail just how foreign diplomats now go about getting their liquor under strict regulations recently instituted, which require that an authorized diplomatic attache accompany the consignment. Recently, a consignment for the Siamese Legation was seized by local police, but released. The new regulations followed this episode. Heath is the first newspaperman to witness the procedure.

By LOUIS JAY HEATH
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

As the guest of a foreign diplomat I rode a diplomatic liquor car yesterday from Baltimore to Washington and was given an opportunity to observe at first hand just what being a foreign diplomat accredited to these prohibition United States means in terms of hard labor. I was permitted to watch the procedure at customs house and warehouse under the new rules recently promulgated by the Treasury Department to insure diplomatic immunity since the passage of the Jones "five and ten law," and sat beside the diplomat while he brought the load through.

With 160 quarts of Scotch whisky, London gin, Italian vermouth and rare old sherry stowed away under green blankets in the tonneau of a diplomatic car, we rolled slowly through the congested traffic of Baltimore to the accompaniment of a million gurgles. Washington was 40 miles away, a 40-mile gamut of bootleggers, hijackers and police.

If the United Press correspondent, the first newspaper man to ride a load of embassy liquor from Baltimore to the Capital, was nervous, the diplomat at the wheel showed no signs of strain.

Cigar Did No Harm.

"No one will stop us," the smiling envoy declared as he piloted the load around a lumbering truck on East Pratt street within 3 feet of a stalwart traffic policeman.

"We look too respectable to be molested. That is why I drove my own car rather than a truck. After the recent experiences of the Siamese, British and Germans with police and photographers a truck has become too conspicuous for comfort."

The beginning of our journey was auspicious despite the fact that Government red tape and necessary precautions in this prohibition land had delayed the start more than an hour and a half. It was 10:30 when we backed the diplomat's car up to low, squat United States Storehouse No. 1, at East Lombard and Gay streets, Baltimore.

They gray-haired customs official behind the barred window was most gracious. He received the diplomat's credentials with a greeting which lost no warmth because of the 40-cent cigar that rode in under the grating on the top of the official red-sealed State Department note establishing the envoy's diplomatic immunity status. Accompanying the note was the yellow ship's manifest showing that five bales of liquor were consigned to the bearer.

Withdrawal Formality Begins.

A leisurely search of desk files revealed the necessary duplicate certificate from the Treasury Department which had been forwarded to the collector of customs when the diplomat filed his request with the State Department for permission to obtain his consignment.

Twelve minutes were consumed by the acting collector of customs in examining the necessary documents, making notations and signing papers The identification papers were returned to the bearer, together with a copy of the Treasury Department's letter certifying that "at the instance of the State Department you are hereby authorized to permit the duly accredited representative of the .... Legation to take into his custody without payment of duty the folllowing shipment of wines and liquors:

Numbers of cases, five bales.

4 ACCUSED OF KILLING IN ROADHOUSE CALLED TO TONIGHT'S INQUEST

Hauser, Wounded in Fray, Jailed in Marlboro as Aid in Death.

EARLY APPREHENSION OF SLAYER EXPECTED

Ruth Bradley, Arrested on District Warrant, Is Returning to City.

WOMAN HAS SOLUTION IN CASE, POLICE THINK

Attorney for Other Feminine Suspects Silent on His Plans for Hearing.

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

Elmer John Hauser, alias Joe Hauser, charged as an accessory to the murder at Green Gables roadhouse, is shown here en route to jail at Marlboro. Hauser, who was shot in the melee, is being guarded by Frank Prince, Prince Georges County policeman.

The inquest into the slaying of Wesley Poutra in the Green Gables Roadhouse will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the courthouse at Marlboro, Md., according to J. Frank Parran, State's attorney of Prince Georges County, Md.

Joe Hauser, who, last night was lodged in the jail at Marlboro following his arrest here earlier in the day; Emilio Torre, who police charge staged the fatal party, and Lucille Grisson and Evelyn Medcalfe, all of whom are charged with being accessories to the murder, are to be the principal witnesses at the inquest.

Wilson Ryon, Prince Georges County attorney, who will represent the two women at the inquest, said last night he would seek to have them released on bail following their appearance at the inquest.

Woman Being Returned.

Detective Sergt. Arthur Fihelly, who arrived last night in Florence, S. C., with warrants charging "Hot Shot" Ruth Bradley, alias Lynn Dalton, with the murder of Poutra and with the larceny of furniture valued at $1,300, is expected to return to Washington with his prisoner tonight at 11 o'clock. With the return of Miss Bradley, police feel confident she will be able to give them information which will enable them to clear up much of the mystery now remaining in connection with the fatal party.

There was considerable confusion last night in the minds of those summoned to appear at the inquest as to when it would be held. Although Parran and Ryon said it was to be held tonight, the coroner's jurors and county police officers said they understood the inquest was to be held at 10 o'clock this morning.

Ryon, who was retained to represent the two men by sisters of the prisoners, had not been permitted to confer with his clients up to last night and said he had not decided whether he would try to prevent the prisoners being questioned at the inquest. He said he had no other statement to make in con-

Hauser was taken into custody earlier in the day at Emergency Hospital, where he was recuperating from a bullet wound in his neck, and held at detective headquarters here as a fugitive until the arrival of Maryland authorities.

Hauser, who previously had made known a desire to "take care" of the person who shot him in his own way, waived extradition and expressed a desire to get the expected court action over with. He gave his age as 25, his occupation as that of a chauffeur and his home as Philadelphia.

Two Visit Women.

Miss Bess Dodson and Effie Martin, who said they were sisters of Lucille Grisson and Evelyn Metcalfe, respectively, were questioned for more than an hour yesterday afternoon when they went to the Marlboro Jail to visit the women, both of whom are being held without bond in connection with the murder. After questioning by State's Attorney J. Frank Parran, the two women were permitted to talk with the prisoners for a few minutes. They were driven to Marlboro by Miss Lillian

LIFE-FOR-PINT LAW REPEALER IS SIGNED

Gov. Green of Michigan Takes 120 Offenses From List of Felonies.

WILL COMMUTE SENTENCE

Lansing, Mich., April 2 (A.P.).—Michigan today revoked its famous "life-for-a-pint" law. Gov. Fred W. Green this afternoon signed the Watson House bill, eliminating 120 "minor" offenses from the list of crimes which draw the life penalty for fourth offense.

The amendment became effective immediately. Under a graduated system of penalties the dry law offender convicted of a fourth offense now is subject to a term of from seven and a half to fifteen years.

Gov. Green said he would commute the life sentences of Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, Channie Tripp, Tony Papich and others who are serving life sentences for liquor felonies. Such cases as that of Fred Palm, who was sentenced to life imprisonment when he was convicted of possession of a pint of gin but whose previous three convictions were for other felonies, will be investigated, the governor said.

Bank Pays $100,000 For Right to One Word

New York, April 2 (U.P.).—One of the highest prices ever paid for a single word was paid today when the National City Bank gave $100,000 for the name of "city" in New York.

The City Trust Co. recently became defunct and Jeremiah T. Mahoney, counsel for the State banking department, today asked Supreme Court Justice McCook to approve the sale of the title so that the National City company might have the name "city" exclusively Affairs of the defunct organization were transferred to the newly organized Mutual Trust Co

WOMAN SAYS MIND VAGUE ON SHOOTING

WAS IN POUTRA'S PARTY

Special to The Washington Post.

Florence, S. C., April 2.—Lynn Dalton, alias Ruth Bradley, 27-year-old woman, arrested by Florence police officers here Monday night on charges of murder in connection with the shooting of Wesley Poutra at a roadhouse near Washington, sat in her cell here tonight quietly awaiting the arrival of District of Columbia officers who are coming to carry her back home to face the several charges that have been lodged against her.

"I don't want to put them to any trouble," said the woman tonight, "and will therefore waive extradition. I am ready to go back and tell what I know about the shooting, but that is not much."

"I was in such a daze that I can't seem to remember anything about it," she said. "I did not even hear the shots. I remember being jerked into an automobile, in which there were lots of other people, and being whisked to S street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth, where I live. The next morning somebody telephoned me to look in the papers. I then saw what had happened."

"No," she said in answer to a question, "I was not drunk that I know of. There were lots of bottles, some of them under the table, at Green Gables, where we went to supper, and some drinks were poured. I took several, I think. I had a bottle of chartreuse in another room and drank some of that I remember asking somebody to have a drink with me, and whoever it was refused. I said, 'That's O. K Leaves so much more for me.'

"I was in the kitchen trying to get the cook to fix me a chicken sandwich when the shooting began. That is, I must have been, for I did not hear it

Col. E. M. House, Operated Upon, Reported Rallying

Confidant of President Wilson, at 70, Talks to Surgeon While Undergoing Ordeal; Wife and Daughters Wait Nearby; Condition Reported Excellent.

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—Col. Edward M. House, confidant of President Woodrow Wilson and one of the conspicuous figures of the World War, tonight was reported rallying from an operation for removal of a growth on the bladder, performed this afternoon

Col. House was able to walk from his home, in East Sixty-eighth street, to the automobile which carried him to the Harbor Hospital and on arrival there walked to the operating room and submitted to the surgeon with great cheerfulness and courage. He was given only a partial anesthetic, and it was said talked to the surgeon in the course of the operation, inquiring as to its progress.

Mrs. House and her two daughters, Mrs. Randolph Tucker, of Boston, and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, of New York, waited in an outer room while the operation was being performed.

The physician, Dr. A. R. Lamb, described the operation as being for the removal of a diverticulum of the bladder, where there was a capillary growth confined to one wall.

"This caused bleeding for 48 hours," he said, "which made an operation imperative. There was no evidence of malignant infiltration. The operation was done under spinal anesthetic. The colonel is in excellent condition."

The operation was performed at 2 o'clock this afternoon by Dr. A. Raymond Stevens, assisted by another surgeon.

Col. House is 70 years old. For many years he was active in State and national Democratic councils, but never ran for public office. He was the per-

Hauser, who said she was no relation to Joe Hauser.

Miss Bradley who left the Green Gables roadhouse the night of the fatal shooting in such haste she left her automobile and coat and hat behind, was arrested after being traced through a message she sent to the Grisson woman, which Lieut. Edward Kelly and Detective Serg't Joseph Waldron intercepted.

Local police hold a warrant charging Miss Bradley with the larceny of $1,300 in furniture, and announced yesterday they would not turn her over to the Maryland authorities until this case had been settled.

Fihelly is expected to return with Miss Bradley late tonight or early tomorrow.

Lieuts. Kelly, Waldron and other members of the homicide squad, including Detectives Thomas Sweeney, John Fowler, George Darnall and John Flaherty, are looking for a half dozen others wanted in connection with the Green Gables shooting, which occurred early on the morning of March 20.

BRADLEY GIRL READY FOR TRIP TO CAPITAL

I did go back to the kitchen and stayed there several minutes, trying to get my sandwich.

"When I came out everything was in an uproar; people were running this way and that, and somebody said to me, 'Come, let's get out of here. There has been trouble.' It was not a second, it seemed to me, before I was in a big car. I left my own car at the roadhouse. It had my fur coat and my registration certificate and permit in it. I do not know what became of the car. I thought Joe Hauser would call me up, but he did not do so.

"I went to Green Gables with Wesley Poutra, Johnny Bunny and Joe Hauser. We four were in the patry; their wives were not along. We were all friendly. I haven't seen any of them since the night. I went to Richmond and stayed there until Sunday, I believe it was, when I came on to Florence. Friends told me to look up Jeanette Horn, and naturally I went to her house when I got to Florence.

"It all seems like a dream or horrible nightmare to me. I just don't know anything about the shooting. I want to tell all I know and will be glad to get back to Washington. The man who shot Wesley Poutra ought to be punished. I wish I knew who it was.

"No, I wasn't drunk, because I did not feel sick the next morning. I felt all right when I got up and read the papers. I took a bath before I went to bed. I remember all of that. I was just in a sort of a daze."

While talking in her cell tonight the woman seemed to be making an effort to collect her thoughts. She did not appear to wish to hold anything back. She is confined in a cell on the ground floor of the jail and is not quartered with the other prisoners. When seen tonight she was reading The Washington Post and remarked that it seemed funny the papers should get her all mixed up with such an affair, as, she said, she did not know anthing about it all.

"This is the most aggravating thing I have every had to happen to me," said the woman, and she pitched the stub of a cigarette to the cement floor with a gesture of disgust. "Here I am in jail charged with murder, then with larceny and added to that, accessory after the fact of murder. What it's all about I do not know any more than you do."

Motorist, Who Dozed, Is Accused of Murder

Greenville, S. C., April 2 (A.P.).—C. M. Welch, of Asheville, was charged with murder in a warrant sworn out here today by Sheriff Cliff R. Bramlett, of Greenville County, in connection with the automobile wreck on the Buncombe road early yesterday morning, in which Mrs. Ben Lee Walton, of Pignal, or Toccoa, Ga., was killed.

Welch, who is in a Hendersonville, N. C., hospital, said yesterday that he remembered dozing at the steering wheel of his car, and the next thing he knew the car was careening down an embankment. Edith Walton, little daughter of the woman who was killed, was uninjured in the wreck, and escaped from the machine to summon aid.

Man Slightly Injured As Trolley, Auto Crash

Archie G. Owens, 61 years old, of 3817 New Hampshire avenue northwest, received minor injuries yesterday afternoon when the automobile he was driving was in collision with a Washington Railway & Electric Co. car at Wisconsin avenue and Newark street northwest.

Owens was taken to Georgetown University Hospital and treated for slight abrasions to the head. He later went to his home. The street car was operated by Motorman John G. Durham, of 4906 Forty-first street northwest.

HOUSE BEGINS TRIAL OF GOV. LONG TODAY

IMPEACHMENT IS UPHELD

Baton Rouge, La., April 2 (A.P.).—The question of impeachment procedure settled at least temporarily, the Louisiana House of Representatives decided tonight to start taking testimony tomorrow morning on the nineteen charges against Gov. Huey P. Long.

All day the legislators argued over procedure, supporters of the governor succeeding in delaying the hearing until Attorney General Percy Saint had submitted a written opoinion. This opinion sustained the governor's foes and witnesses have been subpenaed to appear tomorrow to tell what they know of the charges against Long, which include a plot to murder and eighteen other alleged offenses.

The report of a special subcommittee containing the attorney general's opinion was adopted, 64 to 23, after a minority report holding that a law of 1855 applied had been voted down, 60 to 34.

The 1855 statute would require an individual to file a sworn memorial with a list of witnesses with the legislature which would then appoint a committee to report to a subsequent session of the legislature.

With the House of Representatives primed for the State's first impeachment hearing against a governor, Representative Allen J. Ellender, of Terrebonne, arose, read from a law book, shouted that the present impeachment proceedings were illegal and demanded they be halted.

Leaders of the governor's foes called excitedly for recognition to prevent a break-up of their lines by this surprise attack. After a spirited debate, a compromise was reached by referring the point of law to the attorney general of the State for interpretation.

A recess was taken until 4 p. m., but the afternoon session lasted exactly one minute by the clock, another recess until 8 o'clock tonight being ordered when the attorney general sent a message saying he was not ready to submit his opinion.

Meantime Gov. Long's followers were making elaborate plans for an all-day mass meeting in the capital Thursday, whey they hope to hold a demonstration that will convince legislators that the governor still stands in the favor of the people.

At the rally the governor will deliver an address in which he expects to explain his side of the impeachment case and heap further abuse upon his enemies.

Debate in the House today centered on the question of whether the law of 1855 applied, requiring an individual to file a sworn memorial with a list of witnesses to the Legislature which should appoint a committee to report to a subsequent session of the Legislature, or whether the House has the power under the constitution to conduct an impeachment investigation against a governor under its own rules.

Representative Leon Law, of Sabine, declared he was convinced the impeachment proceedings were "a legal mess."

J. Y. Sanders, jr., of East Baton Rogue, whom Gov. Strong is charged in the impeachment with plotting to have murdered, wanted to know why "there was such an earnest desire that no investigation be made at this time." He pointed out that any action would be controlled by a majority of the House and said that during the impeachment of a State official in 1870, the law of 1855 was not followed. He declared the law in question dealt with an individual who was not a member of the Legislature, and had no bearing on the case in hand.

In the heat of the debate Representative J. E. McClanahan, of Caldwell, a former administration floor leader, issued a challenge to the impeachment forces to start a move for the recall of Gov. Long. There was no response, only a few of the members apparently hearing him.

The State Senate adopted a resolution, 24 to 9, demanding that Gov. Long either deny his charges of legislators being bribed by the Standard Oil Co. or refute his radio speech in which he is alleged to have made the accusations. The resolution asserted Gov. Long had ignored his radio charges in his message to the Legislature last night and dealt only with a circular sent out by him.

Crazed Man Murders Two And Shoots Self to Death

Persecution Complex of Jerseyite Also Results in Wounding of Three Persons, Including a Policeman; Killer's Wife Held in Jail for Questioning.

Newark, N. J., April 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—James Bell, 35, negro, who, last night got "consolation from the Lord," emerged from his five-room home here this morning and started shooting up the town. As a result of this frenzied attempt to work off a "persecution complex," two white men are dead, three are wounded, and a .38-caliber bullet lodged in the head of the negro himself has ended his "persecution complex" forever.

Julius Rabinowitz, 56, a salesman, according to the police version of the shooting, parked his car in front of the three-story frame house where Bell and his wife lived and went to their five-room apartment on the top floor to ask the woman to do his family washing. Louise Hooper, the landlady, watched him climb the stairs and heard him knock at the Bell's door. So did the Rev. W. R. Douglas, negro preacher, who came to the door of his second-floor apartment to find out who was calling on the man he had struggled to tear loose from the "persecution complex" last night.

Rabinowitz knocked. The door opened. And four shots, three in rapid succession, sounded from the third-floor landing. The body of the jewelry salesman came tumbling down to fall at the feet of the bewildered clergyman. And after the body came a bulky negro, his eyes red with hatred, his lips a bulge of anger, shotgun in his left hand, a revolver in his right.

Both landlady and clergyman darted back into their apartments. And out into Murray street came the man with the "persecution complex," fingers pulling at gun triggers, while windshield glasses tinkled and cars raced away from the madman and his barking guns. Elderly Charles Ramsperger, 61, on his way to work, fell before the barrage.

The cunning eyes of the man with the complex spied W. H. Bahrs, 47, a postal clerk, who, thinking the shots were explosions from an automobile exhaust, leaned out his window. A charge of buckshot sprayed the window, breaking the glass and killing Bahrs' pet canary in a window cage. Buckshot smeared Bahrs' face.

By this time Patrolman Thomas J. Hackett, 30, on duty a block from the shooting, came hurrying and tried to rush the negro. Bell beat him to the shot, knocking his revolver from his hand with a shotgun charge. Bell then ducked into an alley and reloaded his guns. Hackett hurried round the other side of the building to head him off, and when he came back into the street he saw the negro standing again in the middle of the street. He fired and the negro dropped, but witnesses say the negro already had placed his own revolver against his head and fired.

Killer Dies in Hospital.

Samuel Carbone, a truck driver, carried Bell and Ramsperger to the City Hospital in his car. Ramsperger died on the way. Bell died at 2:30, just five hours after he had shot Rabinowitz. Hackett was treated for gunshot wounds in both legs and arms. Bahrs also was treated.

It was later discovered that Louis Pollack, 43, who runs a vegetable store, had received a charge from Bell's shotgun in his left leg. He walked to Barnabas Hospital, where the wounds were dressed.

Police were able to get some insight into the mood which had possessed the negro when they talked with the Rev. Douglas.

"Bell was suffering from a persecution affliction for some time," he said. "Last night I felt he needed some religion, so I went up and knocked on his door. When he said, 'Who's there?' I said jokingly, 'This is the deputy sheriff, I've got a warrant for you,' and the door popped open terrible quick. He was excited, and said to me, 'For God's sake, parson, don't ever say nothing like that again; don't never do it no more. I might have killed you. I've been persecuted something awful, and I'm liable to kill somebody any time.' "

Wife Held in Jail.

"I tried to talk him out of this killing business," the clergyman continued, "but he kept a-strumming on it, and I sat up most of the night laboring with him and giving him consolation of the Lord."

The Hooper woman said when Bell dashed from the house he said, "Missus Hooper, please tell my wife I've killed a man." The wife, a Baltimore negress, was in jail tonight, held for questioning by the Newark police. Bell is said to have been in the neighborhood for the last few years, coming originally from Alexandria, Va.

Inspection of the room occupied by Bell revealed an arsenal which included two sabers, a knife with a long, curved blade, two blackjacks, sixty .38-caliber bullets of the kind used in Bell's revolver, a bag of buckshot, 100 shotgun cartridges and a flashlight.

Police at Alexandria, Va., reported last night that they have a warrant for a William Bell, colored, charging theft of brass from the Southern Railway, and believe that the man who ran amuck at Newark yesterday is the man they have sought. Bell, according to the police, left Alexandria shortly before the warrant was sworn out.

Henry Lamar Sues, Charging Desertion

Boxer, Former Washingtonian, Asks Divorce in New Hampshire Court.

Concord, N. H., April 2.—Henry Lamar, one of the dozen ranking heavyweights in New England and scion of a famous Southern family, has filed suit here for divorce from his wife of six years, it was revealed today.

Lamar, defeated by Jim Maloney, South Boston heavyweight, in a Boston ring last summer, has been residing in Bradford, near here, for the past year, and his suit has been filed in the Merrimac County Superior Court.

The divorce plea states that married life is injurious to the plaintiff's health and that his wife's actions have been abusive to him. Desertion is also alleged.

Lamar, formerly a Washington, D. C., schoolboy football star, married a daughter of Howard F. Moore, of Washington, in 1923.

The young heavyweight is understood to now be staying in Boston. His case is scheduled to come up this month.

Thea Rasche Will Try For Endurance Record

Curtiss Field, N. Y., April 2 (A.P.).—John Riley, secretary of the Crescent Aircraft Corporation, of Lindenhurst, N. J., announced today that Thea Rasche would attempt to establish a new woman's solo endurance flight record in the company's first plane, which was given its first test flight today by Clarence Chamberlin. The date for the proposed flight will be set next week.

Railroad Veteran Dies at Home Here

Charles Foley Stewart, 64 years old, manager of the troop movement section of the American Railway Association since the beginning of the World War, died unexpectedly yesterday at the residence, 2901 Sixteenth street northwest. Death was caused by heart disease.

Prior to coming to Washington, Mr. Stewart was general passenger agent of the Western Maryland Railway.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Phoebe L. Stewart, two daughters, three sisters, three brothers, and his mother. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow at St. Margaret's Church.

Street Car Strikes Boy; Skull Found Fractured

William Randolph, 11 years old, of Mount Ida, Arlington County, suffered a fractured skull yesterday afternoon when struck by an Alexandria-Mount Vernon Railway trolley car at the Mount Ida stop. He is at Alexandria Hospital, and doctors say his condition is critical.

Details of the accident were not learned by Arlington County police. They reported that the street car was operated by Motorman Travers and was in charge of Conductor Beech.

HOOVER TO OPPOSE BATTLE OF OIL MEN

PARLEY TODAY IS CALLED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover does not intend to yield to the oil producers in their efforts for an outright agreement to curtail production, it was indicated yesterday.

Attorney General Mitcheel has rendered an opinion on their agreement reached in New York several days ago, which would limit this year's output to that of last year, and although its nature was not disclosed there was every reason to believe that it held the agreement to be unlawful.

The oil men are coming down today to talk the matter over, but the indications are that unless they yield in their stubbornness for curtailment of production the situation will remain as deadlocked as it has been for the last several years.

Price Control Is Bar.

President Hoover has a way out for the industry, one that will bring about conservation, but the oil men's fight has been for curtailment of production, which naturally carries with it the suggestion of price control. But Mr. Hoover's attitude on both conservation and curtailment of production is unchanged. He will not be a party to the latter.

As a member of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, generally looked upon in fact as the board, he worked out a plan of regulation of drilling which would eliminate waste and bring about conservation. Instead of curtailing the present production it is insisted it would remain at its present level but there would be more profit, of course, for the industry.

Even this regulation of drilling he holds to be an intrastate matter. There was nothing the Federal Government could do at all, the oil conservation board found. Neither could it countenance the operators getting together and forthwith agreeing to curtail production, as this would be in violation of the Sherman antitrust laws.

Ordered Leases Rescinded.

In view of yesterday's development's there is considerable mystery as to how the oil men happened to go wrong the way they did. Mr. Hoover had hardly more than assumed the presidential chair when he issued his famous order withdrawing Government owned and controlled lands from the oil exploitation field. Not only did he order that no more permits for drilling on these lands be issued but the Department of the Interior set up machinery to recall as many outstanding permits as possible.

This was considered a big boost toward curtailment of production. It is probably what caused the operators to reach their agreement. Subsequent announcement of the agreement, in fact, caused no surprise.

The operators may have received a shock a few days later when Secretary of the Interior Wilbur announced that he had asked the Attorney General for a ruling on their action, but locally the tendency was to view this step as more or less of a formality.

Working in Accord.

It was generally assumed that the administration and the oil men were working in accord and to the same end. Evidence of this was given by the fact that Mr. Hoover's right hand man in oil matters George Otis Smith, head of the Geological Survey, sits in on these meetings of the operators. He was present at the Houston meeting of 1928, at which the preliminaries of the recent meeting were laid. There is no reason to believe, either, that he was surprised by their curtailmnt of production agreement. He is probably as much surprised as the oil men by Mr. Hoover's subsequent attitude

It is an old attitude. The question arises as to what caused anyone to think it had been changed. Some of his closest friends are prominently identified with the industry.

There are two different movements in the oil industry at the present time. One is for conservation and the other for a price war. The administration is determined that it will not get involved in the latter. Withdrawal of the public domain from the source of supply does not affect prices, inasmuch as no wells now operating are affected.

Price Boost Feared.

But a curtailment of production might easily boost prices, and the administration naturally does not want to be a party to anything like this.

It is emphasized at the White House that the oil men who are coming today are not coming to see Mr. Hoover. Their engagement is with the oil conservation board. Under the new administration it is composed of Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy Adams and Secretary of War Good. But, regardless of who they see, it will be Mr. Hoover's views they will receive. The gentlemen now making up the Oil Board can not be expected, of course, to be as expert on the subject as he.

PAROLE MEDDLING CHARGED BY SNOOK

Ousted Atlanta Warden Says Mrs. Willebrandt Tried to Dictate Policy.

FRICTION OVER TWO YEARS

Atlanta, Ga., April 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Unsuccessful efforts by Mrs Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, to influence recommendations of the parole board of the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, created the first friction that finally resulted in the resignation of John W. Snook as warden of the institution, it was revealed today by the former warden, who resigned Sunday.

"Meddling" with the parole board began more than two years ago, according to Snook, and speedily drew from the warden the declaration that he would be guided solely by his own discretion and his own conscience in matters pertaining to applications for clemency.

This was not at all to Mrs Willebrandt's liking, he said, and she manifested her dissatisfaction in various ways, finally bringing up a definite issue with the warden on the matter of espionage in the Federal penal institution.

The controversy, in which Snook protested vigorously against the planting of "under cover" Department of Justice agents in the penitentiaries under the guise of reguarly committed prisoners, finally resulted in the demand for his resignation. The parole board of the Atlanta Penitentiary is composed of the warden, the superintendent of prisons and the prison physician of the Atlanta institution. The board meets periodically to consider applications for parole, as filed by the inmates. Applications recommended by the board are forwarded to the Attorney General for approval. His jurisdiction is final.

Friction Began Two Years Ago.

"It became evident that Mrs. Willebrandt was attempting to interfere in the affairs of the parole board more than two years ago," said Snook. "Certain inmates of the penitentiary evidently wanted to testify in other cases and to furnish information regarding officials of other penal institutions. Sometimes there were apparently other reasons for her action. It is a fact, however, that she sent arbitrary instructions to me regarding certain applications for parole. She knew nothing of the facts and circumstances that entered into the consideration of those applications here.

"I let it be understood in no uncertain terms that, while I would obey every order from the department regarding the administration of the prison, I did not propose to take any dictation regarding parole matters. Those questions were matters of responsibility to be settled solely by my discretion and my conscience. That was the beginning of the difficulties between Mrs. Willebrandt and myself. All this controversy over the Earl Carroll case and the espionage system came after that original clash over her meddling with parole matters."

As indicative of Mrs. Willebrandt's methods, Snook cited the case of John Urbanowitz, an inmate of the Atlanta Penitentiary, who had previously served a sentence in Leavenworth. He said:

Details of Urbanowitz Case.

"Mrs. Willebrandt wanted Urbanowitz to testify against Biddle, warden of Leavenworth, to support charges that Biddle had accepted bribes from prisoners in exchange for special privileges and soft jobs. Urbanowitz talked to me about the case and admitted that he had taken money from prisoners, representing that he could get them special privileges, but he insisted that Biddle knew nothing of such transactions.

" 'If Biddle had known I was taking money from those birds he would have thrown me in the hole,' Urbanowitz remarked to me. By 'the hole' he meant solitary confinement.

"Urbanowitz was paroled and not long afterward was picked up in Ohio by a Department of Justice agent acting on Mrs. Willebrandt's orders. He was brought back to Atlanta and lodged in the penitentiary, although no charges were made that he had violated his parole. He immediately secured a lawyer, instituted habeas corpus proceedings, and Judge Samuel H. Sibley promptly released him.

"He went to Michigan and soon thereafter a Department of Justice agent called on him, stating that Warden Biddle wanted to see him immediately. Urbanowitz went to Leavenworth and was unceremoniously thrown into confinement, although no charges were made that he had violated his parole. Again he instituted habeas corpus proceedings and again he regained his liberty. That is just a sample of the operation in which I was asked to cooperate and which were repugnant to me."

(Associated Press.)

The Department of Justice does not intend to bring charges of any kind against John Snook, former warden of the Atlanta Penitentiary.

Attorney General Mitchell yesterday said that nothing was contained in the department files against Mr. Snook's integrity and emphasized that there was no thought of bringing criminal prosecution against him.

Army Truck Hits Car; Two Women Injured

Mrs. F. E. Wiler, 57 years old, of 118 Seventh street southeast, and Miss Elizabeth Conway, 17 years old, of 1432 South Twelfth street, Philadelphia, were injured yesterday morning at Sixth street and Maryland avenue southwest when their automobile was overturned in collision with a United States Army truck.

Both were taken to Emergency Hospital in an ambulance, where Mrs. Wiler was treated for lacerations to her nose and a fractured left shoulder, and Miss Conway for a cut on her right ankle. Albrook Jennings, United States Army, said by police to have been operating the truck, was not held.

Joffre's Health Found Good.

Paris, April 2 (A.P.).—Physicians told Marshal Joffre today that his health was good, but he must go carefully. The aged military leader sought their advice because of fatigue in the days after the funeral of Marshal Foch.

Judge Grants Default In $25,000 Ejection Suit

A default judgment was awarded yesterday to Miss Susan B. Davis against Jesse W. Nicholson, of Chevy Chase, Md., whom she sued on charges of forcibly ejecting her from a meeting of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League at the Mayflower Hotel on January 10, 1928, by Justice Frederick L. Siddons in the District Supreme Court. Nicholson's wife is president of the league.

Failure of Nicholson to answer the suit, which was filed on January 9, prompted the action of the court, which eliminates the defense from the suit altogether. Miss Davis must now go before a jury and state her claims. In her suit she petitioned damages of $25,000. She claimed in her suit filed through Attorneys Howard F. Ralph and Joseph Fitzgerald, jr., that she had a right to attend the meeting, which was addressed by Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, and was ejected without cause or provocation at the conclusion's of Heflin's remarks.

WEALTHY CLUBMAN DIES AFTER QUARREL

Widow of A. R. Pierson, Jr., Verifies Nurse's Story of Row at Palm Beach.

JURY VERDICT WITHHELD

Palm Beach, Fla., April 2 (A.P.).—Withholding a verdict until it receives an autopsy report, a coroner's jury here investigating the mysterious death early today of A. Romeyne Pierson, jr., wealthy Palm Beach and Glen Ridge, N. J., clubman, recessed tonight until tomorrow.

Pierson, 42 years old, was found dead on the floor of his bedroom at his estate, Manlatan, near Boynton Beach, by a nurse, who was summoned to the home yesterday by his wife when he complained of illness.

The nurse, whose name was not made public, testified at the inquest that Pierson, under the influence of liquor, had an altercation with his wife in her room for more than an hour late last night and finally was persuaded to go to his own room. When he neared his bed, she said, Pierson stumbled and fell.

Unable to Lift Him.

Mrs. Pierson and herself, the nurse said, attempted to carry him to his bed, but were unable to lift him. Mrs. Pierson placed a pillow under his head, the nurse testified, and then told her "not to worry," that it was "not unusual" for her husband to be "under the influence of liquor" and to "let him lie there until he sleeps it off."

The nurse testified she went to Pierson's room about 1 o'clock this morning and found him still on the floor, apparently in a deep sleep, but that when she returned four hours later he was not breathing.

She said she summoned a physician who, after an unsuccesful effort to revive Pierson, called in three other physicians.

Wife Admits They Quarreled.

Mrs. Pierson testified that her husband had been drunk and verified the nurse's statement that they had quarreled last night. She said she could furnish no clew, however, as to the cause of his death.

Belief was expressed by authorities that Pierson may have died from alcoholism. Officers said they were dissatisfied with statements made by the nurse and ordered an autopsy before Pierson's body was taken to a mortuary.

Pierson and his wife, whose fashionable estate is on Ocean boulevard near Boynton Beach, several miles from here, were well known in society circles in Palm Beach, New York and New Jersey. They have one daughter, Dorothy.

Inman Asked About Dancer As Sued Wife Fights Back

Testimony Indicates Girl Visited Him at Apartment.

Reno, Nev., April 2 (A.P.).—Testimony in behalf of Mrs. Helene Garnet Patton Inman at the trial of the contested divorce suit of her hsuband, Walter P. Inman, of New York, opened in District Court here today with the questioning of Inman regarding his alleged intimacy with Juva Marconi, dancer.

Testimony indicated that the dancer had been a visitor at the Reno apartment of Inman, son of Mrs. James B. Duke, widow of the tobacco magnate. The defense attorney also inquired about a visit to San Francisco on which the plaintiff is said to have accompanied Mrs. Marconi.

On three different occasions today the trial was interrupted while Mrs. Inman, the daughter of an Indiana clergyman, regained her composure. Tears filled her eyes as her sister, Mrs. Irene Schloss, told of the Inmans' marital difficulties.

WALKER P. INMAN.

For more than two weeks the testimony has been devoted to Mrs. Inman's alleged drinking habits and love affairs with John Steele, vaudeville singer, and other men.

Inman's attorneys completed their case this morning by calling W. Lee Baldwin, secretary to Mrs. Duke and to Inman, to the stand. He was questioned as to the value of Inman's property. Inman is contesting his wife's demand for a $250,000 property settlement.

WETS TAKE EARLY LEAD IN WISCONSIN

CLIMAX OF BITTER FIGHT

Milwaukee, Wis., April 2 (A.P.).—First returns from Wisconsin's dry enforcement referendum tonight indicated a close race.

With a only a few metropolitan precincts heard from the wets held a lead of about 2,000 on both the question of repeal of the State enforcement act and that of removal of penalties for the manufacture and possession of home brew.

The precints heard from were mostly those of Milwaukee, conceded to be a wet stronghold. Even there the drys apparently were putting up a much stronger fight than had been anticipated.

Returns from 506 precincts out of 2,759 on repeal of the State prohibition enforcement act showed yes, 50,666; no, 41,939. On removal of the home brew penalty, yes, 48,149; no, 40,467.

While wets were optimistic as the result of the early margin the dry forces interpreted the first votes as a harbinger of victory for their camp.

The strong showing of the dry forces in the metropolitan centers was more than had been anticipated, prohibition leaders declared. They predicted that huge margins would be piled up when belated returns are received from the dry rural sections.

Returns trickled in slowly due to the storm of Sunday which demoralized telephone and telegraph lines.

The vote followed an intensive campaign of organized wet forces, who urged repeal on the plea that the "way to national repeal is through State repeal." The drys combined a plea that Wisconsin "refuse to yield its right as a Commonwealth to govern itself with a contention that the gesture was futile."

Some Republicans appealed to voters of the State, which was carried by Hoover, to "stand by the President."

The result of the election will have no direct effect on prohibition enforcement. Senator Thomas Duncan, Milwaukee, Socialist, author of the resolution, has introduced a bill now pending in the Legislature to repeal the Severson law and wets have contended that if the repeal is approved by the electorate that the lawmakers will accept it as a mandate.

In addition to the question of repeal, the voters answered by a "yes" and "no" vote the question of whether the State law should be amended to eliminate the penalties for manufacture, sale and possession of 2.75 beer. Duncan, author of the referendum which was authorized by a Republican-controlled Legislature said the modification question was designed to aid "home brewers."

WOMEN GIVE CLEWS IN DEATH OF M'CRAY

Pretty Divorcee Said to Have Tormented Estranged Wife of Oil Man.

SLAYER STILL UNKNOWN

Tulsa, Okla., April 2 (A.P.).—Evidence declared valuable by county authorities who are investigating the mysterious death of William S. McCray, wealthy oil operator, was obtained today from two women.

A comely divorcee, Mrs. Annett Abrams, 39, who recently came here from New York City, told prosecutor W. S. Coffey she had telephoned the oil man's estranged wife and "tormented" her by suggesting her husband was involved in "several affairs," the prosecutor said.

Another woman whom officers have questioned since McCray's death last Saturday is Mrs. M. A. Dickerson, mother of Mrs. Norma Smallwood Gilcrease, "Miss America" of 1927.

McCray died in a hospital here from injuries received mysteriously in his room at a hotel the night of Sunday, March 24.

Mrs. Abrams admitted that she called Mrs. Jeanette McCray at her home and "tormented" her by saying that she knew of a clandestine affair her husband was having. The divorcee explained this action on her part by saying "she believed she might have had a drink too many," Coffey said. On that occasion Mrs. Abrams was at Mrs. Dickerson's apartment, she told the prosecutor.

When Mrs. Abrams offered her blood to save McCray's life in a proposed transfusion Friday night, she said she did it solely as a humanitarian act. McCray was suffering from abdominal injuries. He also had a black eye, skinned knees and facial bruises. Before he died, McCray made two statements, saying he had been attacked by a man whom he could not identify.

McCray and his wife separated last September.

County authorities said they had learned that the oil man had been harassed by threats of blackmail.

Six Injured in Panic At Tunnel Collision

Philadelphia, April 2 (U.P.).—Six persons were injured and hundreds of others were panic-stricken for a brief time tonight after a street car collision, followed by fire, in an underground tunnel near the City Hall.

One car had slowed down for the motorman to see the signals when the second car struck it from the rear. The 500 passengers became frantic as fire broke out and filled the tube with smoke, but the flames soon were extinguished by track walkers and the passengers led to safety. Traffic was delayed for some time by the accident. John Kelly, the most seriously injured of the passengers, was taken to a hospital with a sprained back.

customs, where there was more formality.

Back to the warehouse again. The storekeeper received the papers with apparent relief.

"Are you going to take the entire shipment?" he asked.

"No," said the diplomat, "I drove my own car. I can only take three bales. I will be after the remainder later."

"Why don't you take it all?

"I haven't room."

The old storekeeper regretfully shook his head.

"You seem to want to get this stuff out of here," I suggested.

"I certainly do," he replied. "This diplomatic liquor worries me. There are too many bootleggers in this town and if they make up their minds to get this liquor in store here, they are going to do it."

"Does it make you thirsty, too?" I asked.

His eyes twinkled.

"I am not a dry congressman," he replied.

"We will have to open these bails and repack some of the contents in suit cases," the diplomat announced, peeling off his overcoat and hat.

Two grinning negroes armed with hammers, hatchets and nail pullers appeared as if by magic out of nowhere. They fell upon the burlap covering of the first bale without further instructions, rent it from top to bottom and stripped it off, revealing five wooden cases of Scotch whisky of twelve quarts each, stacked one upon the other and bound with band-iron hoops.

Spilt Scotch Retrieved.

Hatless and coatless the diplomat worked with the huskies. As the bottles were passed to him he packed them carefully in the waiting suit cases. Before the third case was filled perspiration beaded the brows of all.

Then the first accident happened.

The negroes worked too rapidly for the perspiring envoy. They began to place the bottles on the stone floor One slipped, the bottle of scotch hit the stone floor. There was a sharp clink. A thin stream began to flow across the warehouse floor.

Two negroes forgot their work. Hammers and hatchets fell with a clang.

"Oh boy! Dat's busted."

One negro produced a tin tomato can. The other scurried off to return a moment later with an empty milk bottle. The broken bottle was placed neck down in the tin can and propped carefully against a nearby case to drain into the container. The huskies resumed their work. There were no expressions of regret over the accident

A truck driver who had driven many a load of diplomatic liquor into Washington dropped by to watch the procedure.

Police Pay No Attention.

"You won't have any trouble now," he predicted, "since the Siamese liquor was held up by the Washington police and the new rules issued, everything is 'jake.' No trouble. Every cop along the way has been told to lay off."

In an hour and a half we were on our way, the tonneau piled full of wooden cases and covered with blankets, leaving a clearway for the diplomat to see through the rear window where a watch might be kept on the road behind.

It was noon when we left Baltimore crawling down South Gay street with warehouse employes waving us good by into the dense traffic of East Pratt. One block away at Linght street we encountered our first policeman directing traffic. We passed unnoticed. At every street intersection on the route out there was another officer. I counted nine policemen before we rolled out into the Washington boulevard and pointed our course toward the Capital. They paid no attention to our passing.

Every speed sign along the way was scrupulously observed by my diplomatic host.

"I never speed," he volunteered. "It attracts attention. I do not carry diplomatic tags on this car, either, for the same reason."

We passed four Maryland State policemen on the 40-mile run to Washington. None of them gave us even a passing glance.

Courteous Invitation Accepted.

We entered Washington by the "back door" and proceeded to the envoy's home. We met one motorcycle policeman cruising along Monroe street. He did not see us We met no more in the journey across town.

"We parked for ten minutes in the Northwest Section.

"I will give you a thrill now," said the diplomat, "by leaving you alone in charge of the load while I telephone."

He did A policeman strolled past swinging his billy. He was interested in a housemaid sweeping steps across the street He did not look at me.

The diplomat returned. We continued our uneventful journey, arriving safely at our destination. By 2 o'clock the last case was unloaded.

The final thrill came as the last case was being placed on a hand truck. A police captain, accompanied by a sergeant, appeared suddenly upon the scene. They read the labels on the boxes. The diplomat introduced himself.

"Come in and see me some time," said the diplomat.

"We'll do that little thing," replied the enforcers of the Jones law, patting a case of gin carressingly.

"And they will, too," said my genial host as I bade him good-by with many thanks for the "rum-cart ride."

POINCARE WILL PAY TRIBUTE TO HERRICK

STREET TO HONOR ENVOY

Paris, April 2 (A.P.).—The French people tonight looked forward to the tribute that their greatest living orator, Premier Raymond Poincare, will pay to the memory of one of their greatest American friends, Ambassador Myron T. Herrick. The premier, who only a week ago was called upon to express the grief of France at the death of one of her own countrymen, Marshal Ferdinand Foch, will represent this government in services to be held for the late ambassador at the United States Embassy Thursday at 10 a. m.

It is impossible for the family and government to accommodate more than an infinitesimal part of the thousands who want to witness either part of the ceremonies. Only a few hundred can be admitted to the house and grounds of the embassy. Premier Poincare's eulogy will be followed by those of Gen. John J. Pershing, for the United States, and Spanish Ambassador Quinones de Leon, for the Diplomatic Corps.

Thousands Want Each Seat.

Three-quarters of the seating capacity of the American Procathedral (Trinity Church), where the religious ceremony will be held, will be taken up by government officials, the embassy staff, representatives of different societies and friends of the family. The late ambassador held the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor and for that reason detachments of all branches of the army will attend the funeral. There have been 1,000 applicants for each available remaining seat.

The body will be taken from the church through troop-lined streets to Montparnasse Station. A special train will carry it during the night to Brest, where military honors with an artillery salute will be rendered during the embarkation.

The new and fast cruiser Tourville will start its voyage of honor on Friday morning and should arrive in New York on April 9 or 10.

Street to Be Called Herrick.

The City of Paris will honor the memory of Mr. Herrick by giving his name to a street or square in the quarter in which he lived so long. Resolution to that effect was introduced today in the city council.

Hundreds of persons continued today to sign the registers at the embassy or simply to walk past with uncovered heads. Mme. Nungesser, mother of the aviator who lost his life in an attempt to reach America by air, was one of the most affected callers. Gen. H. J E. Jouraud, as soon as he returned from London today, went directly to the embassy to express his condolences.

Former Secretary of State Kellogg today radioed from the liner Ile de France to Parmely Herrick:

Kellogg Sends Message.

"We grieve with you in the passing of your dear father and our loyal friend."

The flood of telegrams delivered today included those from Secretary Mellon, President Guthrie of the Franco-American society, Gov. Allen of Massachusetts, Arthur Balfour de Wart, of the New York Sun; the Irish Free State Minister to Washington, National Commander McNutt, of the American Legion; J. P. Morgan, Paul Boncour, president of the foreign affairs committee of the Chamber of Deputies, and Mrs. C. A. Robinson.

Count Charles de Chambrun, now Ambassador to Turkey, telegraphed from Angora to Parmely Herrick:

"The death of your beloved father was a great loss to our own two countries. As an ideal representative of our historic links, he belonged to both France and America. He was yours and ours and stirred our sentiments for himself and for his noble country.'"

Doumergue Expresses Sorrow.

(Associated Press.)

President Doumergue of France, in a telegram to President Hoover yesterday expressed his sorrow on the death of Ambassador Herrick, "who, in the course of his long career in France, gained through his noble character the esteem and affection of all." President Doumergue's message continued:

"His passing causes universal and most sincere regret on the part of all the French nation, who will never forget his numberless acts of friendship which he manifested on all occasions, as well as the constancy and effectiveness of his devotion to the common interest of our two countries.'

Replying, President Hoover thanked the President of France for his message, and asked him to convey to the French people the American Nation's heartfelt thanks for their deep sympathy.

"Mr. Herrick had endeared himself to his fellow countrymen," said President Hoover, "not only as a statesman, but as a truly noble character. I shall always remember him as a loyal and constant friend. His influence toward peace and justice won the love of the French people and will be an inspiration and example to our two countries."

together with the Board of Trade, propose to arouse Washington and the country at large to the need of a real air terminal here.

Beginning tonight at 7 o'clock, a comprehensive series of half-hour radio talks will be broadcast over station WRC, a series which not only will point out the need of a municipal airport, but which by bringing out the romance in flying will foster air-mindedness here and help the airport program on Capitol Hill.

Tonight's speakers will be William P. MacCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, and George Rothwell Brown, writer of the Post-cript column in The Washington Post. Each will talk for about fifteen minutes.

In his newspaper career, Mr. Brown has seen a vast amount of aviation history unfolded, ranging from the early experiments of Prof. Samuel Langley off Wide Water, Va., on the Potomac, in 1903, to the triumphant return from Paris of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. His talk will strike the keynote of the series.

Assistant Secretary MacCracken has won the praise of the entire aviation industry for the aid his department has given flying. Since he has been at the head of the aeronautics division of the Department of Commerce American aviation has enjoyed its greatest boom.

Always a strong advocate of a model municipal airport for the National Capital, Mr. MacCracken tonight will tell why there should be one here, and at the same time will give some interesting facts about American aviation in general.

Among those who will speak on succeeding nights will be famous fliers, Government officials in charge of aeronautics divisions and well-known civic leaders.

In offering the use of WRC for the series of talks, Frank M. Russell, vice president of the National Broadcasting Co., said last night that he regarded the establishment of an airport here as an outstanding civic need, and he promised that his company would do its full share toward bringing about the construction of one.

Smuggling Denied After Guilty Plea

Merchant Admits Bringing In Diamonds; Says No as Witness.

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—James S. Steel, Boston lace merchant, who pleaded guilty this morning to diamond smuggling, appeared later as the Government's first witness against former Traffic Policeman John T. McIntyre, on trial charged with participating in the smuggling of diamonds into this country on the liner Berengaria.

On the stand Steel admitted he had pleaded guilty to the indictment against him, but denied he had smuggled diamonds or engaged in a conspiracy to do so. After this denial, an argument between lawyers arose, and the apparant inconsistency in his statements was not cleared.

Steel and McIntyre are two of seven persons named in the indictment. Besides Steel, three others have pleaded guilty: Garnet Shapiro, Steel's partner inthe lace business; Morris Landau, New York jeweler, and William Bailyn, former chief steward of the Berengaria. The others are Landau's son and daughter, Sidney and Frances Landau. Steel testified that he introduced McIntyre to Shapiro and Landau.

Leopold's Father Near Death After Operation

Chicago, April 2 (U.P.).—Nathan Leopold, sr., father of one of the slayers of little Bobby Franks, was reported near death at Michael Reese Hospital tonight. Leopold, a wealthy manufacturer, was reported to have lapsed into a state of coma after a major operation, although attendants refused to give out any statement.

Nathan Leopold, jr., who, with his chum, Richard Loeb, kidnaped and murdered the Franks boy several years ago, is serving a life sentence in Joliet Prison.

Man Confesses Killing Wife With Ax; Is Held

Walla Walla, Wash., April 2 (A.P.).—George Schneider, 50, was held here today after confessing that he killed his wife, Betty, 24, with a meat ax.

Schneider said he became enraged when his wife avowed her intention of going out in response to a telephone call which he believed was a summons to meet an old sweetheart.

THOMPSON MEN WIN AT POLLS IN CHICAGO

Only Two of Mayor's Adherents Meet Defeat in Run-Off Election.

BALLOTING IS ORDERLY

Chicago, Ill., April 2 (A.P.).—The voters of eleven Chicago wards cemented the city council more firmly in Mayor William Hale Thompson's grip today, electing nine of his adherents to aldermanic seats. Two administration candidates met defeat.

The run-off election attracted only 60 per cent of the registered voters and was one of Chicago's most mild-mannered, the slugging of a policeman being the sole untoward incident.

The sitting aldermen carrying Thompson colors who were defeated were John W. Chapman, of the Fortieth Ward, and Aaron K. Mose, of the Fiftieth. Elsewhere the mayor's followers were victorious. The additions to his city council contingent gave Mayor Thompson a working majority of 35 to 40 of the 50 aldermen.

The balloting was regarded as the most quiet and orderly in the city's recent history. Polls in the several wards where violence had been anticipated were heavily guarded, however.

Whether Mayor Thompson would retain control of the city council was the chief issue at the election, the Municipal Voters and Civic Safety League opposing the reelection of aldermen known to adhere to Thompson's policies. The run-off was necessary because no candidate in these eleven wards was given a majority in the regular election in February.

The run-off campaign was waged bitterly especially in the Forty-second and Thirty-sixth Wards, where spasmodic outbreaks were reported during the campaigning. In the Thirty-sixth, Alderman E. L. Nusser, Thompson supporter, was opposed by Leonard M. Rice, and in the Forty-second, Alderman Dorsey Crowe, another Thompson follower, was opposed by Richard Prendergast.

The weather was ideal for the election, but general interest was lacking.

DEATH CHARGE ASKED IN DRY RAID SLAYING

representative of Aurora, Elgin and Geneva residents, was composed largely of those whose sentiment was on the side of the De King family. They cheered the evidence and replies that favored the De Kings.

When little Gerald told of how he fired at the deputy after his mother cried out: "Help! I'm shot!" they applauded. When Pete De King, the boy's uncle, engaged in a sharp argument with State's Attorney George D. Carbary, and denied heatedly a previous statement attributed to him, the crowd cheered.

The audience obviously had come to "see a show," and, despite the repeated warning of a bailiff, who had forgotten his mallet in the excitement of the day, cheered and applauded when they wished.

Some Bring Lunches.

Some brought their lunches which they ate from bags and newspapers in the auditorium during the noon recess that they might not lose the choice seats they had acquired. The jury, witnesses and attorneys for the State and family sat upon the stage and the applause that broke forth occasionally was nothing short of what could be heard in a theater.

Little Gerald was the center of attention. The bright-eyed boy took the stand and told in a clear voice the story of seeing his mother and father fall to the floor, of bullets whizzing near his head and how he took a revolver from his father's hip pocket and fired a shot into Deputy Smith's leg.

"I saw my mother run around the table and fall to the floor, crying 'Help! I'm shot!'" Gerald testified "I picked up a gun which lay on the floor near my dad, and fired.

Washed Father's Face.

"I got him somewhere I think it was in the leg. I ran and got a wet rag and wiped the blood from my dad's face, and told him 'I got him, daddy; I got him.'"

The boy had described how the officers made two visits to the home on the night of March 25. He told how his father had grabbed one of the officers on the occasion of the first visit, saying, "Show me your warrant or get out."

"Dad pushed Treadwell, one of the officers, out of the house," Gerald continued. "They were gone about half an hour when I told my dad 'Here they come again.' He was standing near the door when Smith came in At first I was not going to let Smith in the door. He had a gun and I didn't want to get shot, so I opened the door.

Mother, Shot, Cried Out.

"He came in and knocked my daddy down. Then a shot was fired Some of the bullets whizzed near my head and then my mother fell to the floor crying. 'Help! I'm shot!'"

Then he recited his shooting of Smith and seeing a tear bomb come crashing through a window of the home from the outside.

"They threw something in the house. I think it was a tear bomb" the boy said. "I told Stafford, 'There's something sizzling over there,' and he threw it out. They took dad outside later. One of them said, 'Let's hit the blankety-blank over the head again.' Uncle Pete said, 'No, you won't.' I went to Uncle Paul's an dstayed there until late that night, when they came and took me down town, where I made a statement."

Mother Was at Telephone.

In cross-examination, Gerald said his mother had been sitting at a telephone when De King was knocked down, and that she ran around the table and fell

"My mother did not have a gun in her hands," he added.

His testimony was contradicted in the deposition taken from the wounded deputy in the Elgin Hospital earlier in the day. Smith said that Mrs De King picked up a gun from the floor when he fired, intending to knock the gun from her hands.

Eugene Boyd Fairchild, so-called "mystery investigator," because of his disapparence the day after the shooting, was the first witness. Fairchild signed the affidavit on which the raiding warrant was issued by Magistrate John A. Weber.

Tells of Buying Liquor.

He told of how he had met Philip Johnson, referred to previously as the "mysterious stranger," in Batavia on the afternoon of the alleged "buy" of moonshine. He asked Johnson where they could get a drink and Johnson told Fairchild to drive to De King's.

"We pulled up in the driveway near the filling station," Fairchild said "I gave Johnson a $5 bill and he went in the direction of the De King home When he got back in the car he gave me three $1 bills, the pint of moonshine having cost $2. He told me he bought it from a woman. From the description I judged the woman was about 50 years old."

Attorney Albert J. Kelley, representing the De King family, asked Fairchild if he didn't think his affidavit was false when he said he had made the moonshine purchase.

"No, because I figured I had purchased it, using Johnson as my agent," Fairchild replied.

Police Seize Man In Fire Death of 2

Nephew of Aged Woman, Burned to Death in Home, Accused.

Newark Del., April 2 (A.P.).—Edward Smith, 35, of Pleasant Hill, Md., was arrested here tonight in connection with the death of Mrs. Annie J. Mahoney, 82, and her son, Edward Mahoney, 56, who were burned to death in their home at Pleasant Hill Saturday.

Smith, a nephew of Mrs Mahoney, was taken into custody when he alighted from a Philadelphia train. He was accompanied by a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Scarborough, of Philadelphia Mrs. Sparoorough was questioned at length, but was not arrested. Smith was held without bail for Maryland authorities. later, formal charges of murder and arson were placed against Smith.

Police said that Mrs. Mahoney kept large sums of money in her home and are working on the theory that she and her son may have been slain by robbers, who then set the house on fire in an effort to conceal the crime.

MAIN REBEL FORCE CAUGHT IN JIMENEZ

Calles Tells Capital Retreat of Insurgent Cut Off Following Battle.

ENEMY CLAIMS VICTORY

town, damaged buildings and wounded an American citizen. Troops were on guard on the American side of the border.

In the west coast campaign the federals claimed a victory in which the insurgents lost 100 killed, 50 wounded and many prisoners. The rebels were beating a retreat in disorder northward.

Gen. Escobar telegraphed to the rebel agent at El Paso another attack on Ambassador Morrow, whom he accused of being a representative "of the powerful house of Morgan."

Calles Forecasts Victory.

Mexico City, April 2 (A.P.).—The tide of furious battle which for two days has surged back and forth through the shell-torn streets of Jimenez, Chihuahua, was declared by the government this evening to have set in definitely against the rebels. The insurgents were described in official reports from the front as encircled by a ring of fire and fighting desperately to retain positions in the railroad station and a corner of the city.

"The extermination of the traitors' forces is now merely a question of hours," declared Secretary of War Plutarco Elias Calles in a telegram to the president at noon. "I greatly fear that those most responsible for this brutal military uprising are personally safe many kilometers away from the battle."

Federal commanders at the scene of battle estimated that the rebel losses had been about 300 men on each of the two days of fighting. About their own casualties they said little, in fact the only mention since the battle began was made to the press this afternoon. It was said that 25 men of the column lead by Federal Gen. Eulogio Ortiz had died in withstanding three cavalry charges launched in rapid succession, beginning at 4 o'clock this morning, by 1,300 insurgent troops.

After turning back these waves of attackers, Gen. Ortiz was reported to have launched a counter offensive and to have gained considerable ground.

The attacks on the position of Gen. Ortiz were described by Gen. Calles as a rebel attempt to cut their way out of the trap. The struggle raged for four hours before the insurgents gave up their effort and retired to new positions, leaving the field strewn with dead and wounded.

Gen. Calles said that simultaneous and later fighting in other sectors had given the loyal troops possession of the major part of the city. The enemy was confined to the railroad station and a small section around it.

Gen. Juan A. Almazan, commanding the federal army, was on the firing line in person throughout the day. The headquarters of Gen. Calles was at Bermejillo, about 100 miles southeast of Jimenez.

The insurgents were reported to have several airplanes, only one of which made a flight today. It sped rapidly northward, and several federal planes immediately started in pursuit. The other rebel aircraft remained in a field behind the insurgent lines covered with tree branches as camouflage, while federal aviators endeavored to destroy them with bombs.

Generals Are Casualties.

Jimenez, for which the armies are battling in what the government considers the life-or-death struggle of the revolution, is a straggling town of about 30,000 population. It is at the junction of the Mexican National and Jimenez-Paral Railways and is bordered on the south, east and west by the Florida River, which makes a curve around it. The river bed now is almost dry, but it becomes a torrent in the rainy season.

Rebel Gen. Jaimison, who surrendered, said that among the rebel casualties were Gen. Luna and a Gen. Guiffrez (either Luis or Eulalio) and that the insurgents had suffered a real "disaster" in the repulse of their attack this morning. He reported that Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, commander in chief, was personally leading the insurgent forces.

The next stage of the battle was believed to be an impending clash between rebel cavalry and that of Gen. Serrato near Camargo. It was stated that the federal infantry had not gone into action as yet, being held in reserve while the cavalry, artillery and air forces carried on the attack.

Several rebel trains were reported to have left Jimenez today, but it was not known whether they carried troops.

American Hurt By Bomb.

Naco, Ariz., April 2 (A.P.).—Injury of an American citizen in the bombing of American soil by a Mexican rebel aviator today in an intended attack upon federal fortifications at Naco, Sonora, opposite here, created a tense international situation.

Two bombs landed on the American side of the international line in this city and exploded. Harry Baker, 25, of Alliance, Ohio, a motion-picture cameraman's assistant, was struck in the head by a steel fragment from one of the bombs. His injuries are not serious.

The second bomb injured no one, and, with the exception of shattering windows, did little property damage.

Brig. Gen. Frank S. Cocheu, in command of United States troops on the border, arrived here from El Paso, Tex., and immediately announced his intention of conferring with Gen. Fausto Topete, rebel military chief in the State of Sonora. Gen. Cocheu would not discuss the nature of the representations he intended to make to the rebel general but it was intimated he might give a warning that rebel planes crossing the border and endangering American lives would be fired on.

While Gen. Cocheu prepared to go into Mexico through the rebel port of Agua Prieta, Sonora, Maj. Charles B. Hazeltine, commanding a detachment of infantry here, conferred with civil officials to keep sightseers out of the danger zones.

The bombs struck 116 and 168 feet within the American line, one of them exploding near a string of box cars topped with sightseers. The town was thrown into wild confusion

Two other bombs from the rebel planes struck on the Mexican side near federal fortifications, but did no damage.

Probability of a graver military situation between the federal forces, across the line from here and the rebel forces encamped some 5 miles to the south, was seen in the arrival at Naco, Sonora, of two federal bombing planes and the pilots' report that they had successfully bombed rebel troop trains today.

Federal Planes Retaliate.

Calexico, Calif., April 2 (A.P.).—In retaliation for the bombing of Naco, Sonora, this morning by rebels, two Douglas bombing planes of Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez' air squadron flew over the rebel camp southeast of Naco, at noon today and dropped explosives, the aviators reported by telephone to Rodriguez' headquarters at Mexicali, Lower California, across the line from here.

The message said the bombs had done great damage in the rebel camp.

Lieut. Col. Armando Castrejon, chief of Rodriguez' air squadron, with Capt. Del Campo as observer, manned one plane, while Capt. Cruz Rivera and Capt. Manuel Proto were in the other.

The Pan-American Federation of Labor yesterday made public a proclamation issued by the central committee of the Mexican Federation of Labor condemning the present rebellion and offering the aid of the labor organization to the Mexican federal government.

The proclamation referred to the warfare as a "rebellion of various military chiefs," which "we condemn," adding that "nothing justifies it."

"We do not consider," the statement said, "that the differences between the federal government and the Mexican Federation of Labor are an obstacle at the present moment to prevent our doing our duty and lending our modest cooperation in the way that may be required."

Senor Gerzayn Ugarte, head of the diplomatic mission sent here by the Mexican rebel forces, took notice last night of two bombs from a rebel airplane falling in Naco, Ariz., in a statement which said:

"If, as reported, two bombs were, through an unfortunate circumstance, dropped on the American side of the border town of Naco, by an airplane in the service of the revolutionists, and as a result an American citizen has been injured or private property damaged, the provisional government of Mexico, which I have the honor to represent in Washington, will most sincerely lament the regrettable occurrence and will promptly proceed to make effective amends. Inasmuch as since the very inception of the present movement its leaders have exercised the utmost diligence and scruple in the humanitarian protection of civilians, both Mexicans and foreigners alike, they will deeply deplore any untoard accident of this character."

Fiancee Greets Lindbergh on Arrival In Mexico City

Anne Morrow Waiting at Valbuena Field as Famed Flier Completes Hop From California; Lone Eagle Refuses to Answer Questions; Is Hurried to Embassy.

Mexico City, April 2 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh tonight was at the United States Embassy with the family of his fiancee, Miss Anne S. Morrow. It was to be only a brief visit, two days, it was reported, but the public that followed his rapid flight from California, hoped that it would result in the naming of the day and place of the wedding.

The aviator left California yesterday and with the briefest possible stops in Texas sped on to his second meeting with Miss Morrow here since their engagement was announced. Col. Lindbergh covered the 475 miles from Brownsville in five hours and ten minutes and set his plane down on Valbuena Field here at 1:55 p. m. As always, his first thought was for his ship and he spent ten minutes or so in a careful inspection of it.

Then Miss Morrow appeared on the field with her family.

"Hello," said Anne.

"How are you?" responded the colonel.

There were smiles and handshakes all around before the party entered an automobile to drive to the embassy. Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and Elizabeth Morrow, with Col. Alexander Macnab, United States Military Attache, had accompanied Anne.

Col. Lindbergh met Ambassador Morrow, who had not gone to the field, at the embassy residence. He had a late lunch with the family, and then he and Anne planned to spend the afternoon together, walking in the embassy garden and perhaps taking an automobile ride in the cool of the evening.

The flier refused to answer questions, even those bearing on his flight today. The embassy staff was not aware that Lindbergh was flying here until they were shown an Associated Press dispatch saying that he had hopped off from Brownsville. It was said that their own private information was that the colonel might fly here within a few days.

Whether Anne herself had been told by her fiance of his plans for today was not revealed. If she did know, she did not permit the information to go beyond her immediate family.

This was the fifth flight that Col. Lindbergh has made to Mexico City. His first was his famous nonstop flight from Washington at the start of his Central American tour, the second was last November in continuation of a hunting trip, the third was his recent visit to Miss Morrow and the fourth was in inaugurating air mail service from Brownsville.

It was during his last visit that Lindbergh injured his shoulder and Miss Morrow was shaken up when the plane in which they were returning from a picnic trip overturned as the result of a forced landing on one wheel.

The colonel today wore a parachute for the first time in any of his flights to Mexico City, but wore no flying suit. The parachute was strapped on over a dark business suit and after landing he simply slipped it off and exchanged his helmet and goggles for a gray felt hat. His only baggage was a black hand bag and a brief case.

He flew a two-seater open cockpit, blue and gold Curtiss Falcon biplane and brought it to a pretty landing before the group of newspaper men and the few officers and mechanics stationed at the field.

Officials tonight said that the borrowed plane, City of Wichita, which the colonel flew here on his previous visit and which was cracked up, still was in the repair shop. They did not seem to know whether it could be put in shape to be flown back to the United States.

Bremen Pilot Returns; Plans New Ocean Hop

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—Col. James Fitzmaurice, copilot of the transatlantic plane Bremen, arrived today to act as technical advisor to a company building an airport on Long Island and announced that he hoped to make a round trip flight over the ocean some time this year. If his plan matures he will fly a seaplane from Europe to a landing near the Statue of Liberty, and, after rest and refueling, fly back to Europe.

The colonel, who recently resigned from the Irish air force to enter commercial aviation, was informally received at city hall by Mayor Walker. They recalled Fitzmaurice's first visit here with his two planemates, Capt. Herman Koehl and the late Baron von Huenefeld, and both paid tributes to the baron.

U. S. FEARS REBELS MAY FORCE ACTION

Attempts to Compel Intervention Foreseen Should Federals Gain.

AIRPLANES, TROOPS WAIT

By ALBERT W. FOX.

According to latest information reaching President Hoover, the Mexican government has now succeeded in confining the revolt to the two northwestern provinces of Sonora and Chihuahua, with the rebels still controlling part of Sinaloa. But the critical stage of the fighting is now approaching, in so far as the direct interest of the United States is concerned, because of its proximity to the boarder and because of efforts which the rebels may deliberately make to involve the United States.

The dropping of bombs from a rebel airplane on the American side of the boarder at Naco, Ariz., has served as the first symptom, or warning, of possible future trouble. Immediate steps to protect American lives and properties are already under consideration and Maj Gen. William Lassiter may order American Army planes to be held in readiness to cope with further Mexican incursions over the line.

There is an American Infantry contingent stationed at Naco. American planes may be sent from Kelly Field in sufficient numbers to discourage any further air raids in United States territory. It is not assumed here that the Mexican pilot intentionally dropped the four bombs on the American side of the line, but the danger to American lives and properties is not lessened by mistakes in location which Mexicans may make.

Rebels May Get Desperate.

It is also realized here that a campaign of desperation on the part of the rebels may include deliberate attempts to force American intervention in one form or another. Past experiences with Mexican revolutions have demonstrated that last-minute efforts are sometimes made to involve the United States with the hope that American interference in Mexican affairs may bring about a reaction unfavorable to the government of Mexico. Precautionary measures on the part of United States authorities are nearly always required at the final stages of internal trouble in Mexico, especially when the fighting draws close to the boundary line.

It is noted here that Gen. Escobar, in command of the revolutionary troops, is now deliberately broadcasting a series of newspaper attacks against American Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow. The reason for these attacks is linked with the usual last-minute efforts to make some outstanding feature of American policy a target.

The retreat of the rebels into Sonora also may be expected to involve a request by the Mexican government to be permitted to dispatch federal troops over railways in United States territory in order to reach Sonora. The federal forces coming up on the west coast from the south may not be sufficient in number to handle the situation in the rebel northwestern strongholds. In the past the United States Government has usually permitted Mexican federals to travel over United States territory when such action appeared necessary to stamp out remaining sparks of revolt.

Conform to Regulations.

The federals enter American territory without their arms in hand and otherwise conform to stipulated regulations. But the mere fact that the United States permits federals to use American territory is usually used by the rebels as a means of attempting to excite anti-American sentiment.

Meanwhile, the proverbial uncertainty as to what may happen in Mexico during any 24-hour period makes it impossible for officials here to forecast with any accuracy whether the revolt is really nearing its end, or whether it is merely serving as the starting point for more trouble of an even more serious and far-reaching nature.

BUS FIRM BONDING URGED BY CHAMBER

City Organization's Directors Also Advocate Brake and Headlight Tests.

HESSE AND PRATT LAUDED

Legislation providing for bonding of all motor transportation companies handling passengers or freight was urged last night at a meeting of the board of directors of the Washington Chamber of Commerce. A bill will be drafted by the committee on law and legislation.

The board of directors again urged the testing of brakes and headlights, authorized its police and fire committee to inspect regional police stations to determine whether they are comfortable and sanitary, and adopted a resolution recommending that not only new drivers but veterans be examined to determine the condition of their eyes. Another resolution was approved praising Edwin B. Hesse and Henry G. Pratt, who succeeded him as major and superintendent of police.

Daniel J. Callahan was named a delegate to the next convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Walter C. Balderson was made a member and counsel of the executive committee and also of the industrial exposition committee. Harry M. Bedell was appointed to represent the chamber on the joint traffic council, and Charles J. Stockman was appointed chairman of the committee on police and fire protection and public safety, succeeding President Charles W. Darr.

Goshen, Ind., April 2 (U.P.).—Walter A. Huffman, of Indianapolis, former State representative, and Paul E. Metzler, Galien, Mich., former bank cashier, pleaded not guilty in Circuit Court here today to charges of embezzlement of $49,000.

AGRICULTURE HEAD TO TESTIFY TODAY

Secretary Hyde Confers With Hoover Prior to Going Before Committee.

WILL GIVES VIEWS ON BILL

(Associated Press.)

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde will make his first appearance before a congressional committee as head of the department today when he goes before the Senate agriculture committee to give his views on the new farm aid measure.

How far the new Secretary will go in revealing the attitude of the administration beyond the general principles that were laid down by President Hoover during the campaign still is a matter of speculation. The Secretary conferred with Mr. Hoover late yesterday after his return from Kansas City, and in view of his appearance today before the committee it is believed they discussed the matter.

Meanwhile both the Senate and House committees proceeded with the taking of testimony yesterday, and a new method of approach to the surplus problem was suggested by G. L. Coulter, president of the State Agricultural College of North Dakota.

Coulter declared that the surplus of farm crops in the world other than that in the United States was causing distress to the American farmer. He suggested that the tariff law be extended so that the American market would be preserved for the farmers of the country.

Approves Farm Board Idea.

Coulter also approved the proposed creation of a Federal Farm Board with price stabilization corporations to handle the domestic problems that arise in the marketing of different agricultural commodities. He added that many farmers, basing their activities upon a belief that the problem of farm aid would be worked out at the special session, were preparing to plant larger crops this year.

Before the Senate committee, Carl Vrooman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture in the Wilson administration, proposed an acreage limitation plan under which an educational campaign would be made to induce the farmers to limit production. In conjunction with the plan he proposed reforestation to utilize many lands that are poorly adapted to farming.

Would Control Seed.

Many of the other witnesses before the two committees duplicated testimony that previously had been given, although one additional new angle was brought before the House committee by Robert Amory, of Boston, representing several cotton manufacturing concerns.

Amory said the manufacturers were interested in the success of the farmer and proposed that the Federal Government eradicate the boll weevil on Southern farms as a means of lowering the cost of production to cotton farmers. He also suggested Federal control of cotton seed planted to improve the quality of the staple produced.

Bid Time on Cruisers Postponed by Adams

The opening of the bids for the construction of two of the fifteen light cruisers authorized by Congress has been postponed from May 25 to June 5, Secretary of the Navy Adams announced yesterday.

The opening of the bids was postponed to give the builders more time, he said. Estimates invited from navy yards for the construction of the three other light cruisers to be built during the first year of the three-year program will be returnable also on June 5.

Scout Fleet Practice Will Be Seen by Adams

Secretary of the Navy Adams will be absent from Washington for ten days on his visit to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where he will witness scouting fleet practice.

Secretary Adams' itinerary calls for him to leave Washington Friday for Miami, where he will embark on the destroyer Bainbridge for Guantanamo. When he arrives Monday at Guantanamo or Gonaives, he will board the U. S. S. Wyoming, flagship of the scouting fleet, to witness the force practice. After inspecting the vessels, watching the destroyer division practice and making a visit to Guantanamo, he will return to Miami on the Detroit. He expects to return to Washington April 14.

FILM Dulls Teeth

It is a constant danger

You merely think your teeth are dull, "off color." The new dental way amazes–it combats serious tooth and gum disorders, too

DENTAL science knows what robs teeth of brilliant whiteness. It is film. Film, too, is known to be the basis of decay, the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Film forms constantly on teeth and clings so stubbornly that ordinary ways fail to remove it successfully. To do that a dentifrice called Pepsodent has been compounded under high dental supervision.

Film—why it's dangerous

You can feel film with your tongue — a slippery, viscous coating. It clings to teeth and gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs stains from food and smoking to turn white teeth "off color" and cloud their brilliance. Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, plus tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

To remove film, dentists prescribe the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film so that brushing easily removes it in gentle safety to enamel.

In a few days teeth grow whiter and begin to sparkle. They continue to improve for months. Start today. Get Pepsodent at any drug counter or write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

TAX CUT FROM HUGE SURPLUS IS OPPOSED

Administration Chief Would Use $100,000,000 Margin to Reduce War Debt.

1930 SHRINKAGE FEARED

(Associated Press.)

Administration leaders at the Capitol said "No" yesterday to suggestions for slicing a tax reduction from the $100,000,000 surplus melon ripening at the Treasury. As a result, unless present plans should be upset, the margin piling up in the Treasury from unexpectedly large tax returns will be applied to the Nation's war debt of more than $16,000,000,000, which already has been pared down in the last year by $600,000,000.

Chairman Smoot of the Senate finance committee, one of the authorities in Congress on tax matters, declared against any tax revision such as has been suggested in various quarters as a result of the size of March income-tax collections.

The senator said a $100,000,000 margin would be consumed to a considerable extent during the next year by increased appropriations authorized at the last session of Congress.

Fears Deductions Next Year.

Moreover, he said, the increased volume of income-tax collections could be attributed largely to profits made by the public on the "rising stock market." Warning that what goes up is apt to come down, he declared that the Government next year might find these same profit takers making deductions in their income-tax returns for losses.

While he does not believe tax revision will be possible during the next year, the Utah senator, like Secretary Mellon, believes a cut in the rates applying on earned income should be given first consideration when revenue legislation is considered.

Figures ma' public yesterday at the Treasury showed an increase of almost $86,000,000 in income tax collections for March, compared with a year ago. In March the bulk of the first quarterly payments on income taxes are paid.

Collections from income taxes for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, totaled $1,686,564,000 on April 1, compared with $1,624,174,000 for the some period a year ago.

In addition to the surplus which will be applied to the war debt, this load on the Government was reduced on March 31 to $16,808,711,272, compared with $17,492,000,237 a year ago. The peak of the war debt was $25,478,592,113, reached in August, 1919.

Democrats in Congress in recent years have contended that a measure of the huge sum going to reduction of the war debt each year might be applied to immediate tax reduction, thus spreading over a longer period the burden of the national debt retirement.

While the minority party leaders were not here to speak yesterday, it is believed any attempt on their part at this time in this direction could not get very far in view of the large Republican majorities in the new Congress.

Increase May Reach $250,000,000.

There is a feeling at the Treasury that the total increase in income tax collections this calendar year over last will reach $250,000,000. This is calculated on the basis of the $86,000,000 increase noted yesterday in the returns for the first quarter.

Other Government revenue-producing sources shared in the increased returns last month. Customs receipts were $55,000,000, or about $7,000,000 more than in March last year, while the miscellaneous internal revenue items yielded $50,000,000 last month, a slight increase over a year ago.

Powerful New Drug Found; First Pure Vitamin Isolated

New York Scientist Tells Institute About Ergosterol, Many Thousand Times as Potent as Cod Liver Oil, Extracted From Common Fungus.

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—A drug, which is "many thousand times as potent as the well-known cod liver oil," was described tonight by Dr. Alfred F. Hess, of Bellevue Hospital, before the American Institute..

The powerful substance is ergosterol, after it has been exposed to ultra-violet light. Ergosterol is an extract of a common fungus named ergot, that until recently attracted little attention. Today ergot is considered as perhaps a part of every animal and vegetable cell, which makes it one of the important constituents of the human body.

But the vital factor in energizing ergosterol is not the lowly fungus. Instead it is the exposure to ultra-violet light, which is called irradiation. This process, said Dr. Hess, when applied not only to ergosterol but to oils, milk, cereals and other foods, makes the eating of them equivalent to taking ultra-violet rays internally. However, in the case of ergosterol, at least, the exposure to the invisible rays does something more. It creates vitamin D with special effectiveness and gives the drug a remarkable property which both prevents and cures rickets.

"It is the first vitamin," said Dr. Hess, "to have been isolated in a pure state and to have been prepared in the laboratory. It is one of the most potent substances known and probably exerts its action by means of stimulating one of the several glands of internal secretion of the body.

"Its dosage has not yet been fully established, and we must wait for its therapeutic application."

Press Club Waiter Charged With Theft

Former Employe Is Accused of Taking Quantity of Silverware.

Justice Ezra Roberts, 28-year-old colored waiter, of Winston-Salem, N. C., was brought to this city last night by Detective Sergt. Curtis H. Trammell to face charges of grand larceny in connection with the theft of approximately $800 worth of silverware from the National Press Club, where he was formerly employed.

Julius Reiners, steward-manager of the club, complained to the police about six months ago that a quantity of silverware was being periodically stolen. Roberts, however, denies taking more than $200 worth, which was recovered when he was arrested, police state.

Roberts was sent to the Fourth Precinct station last night, and will be arraigned in court tomorrow morning. Trammell was assisted in his investigation of the case by James E. Kane, newly-promoted detective sergeant who has been assigned as Trammell's partner to take the place of Lieut. Richard Mansfield, who has been transferred to the Fifth Precinct.

Federal Bar Group To Support Hoover

Pledges Aid to Purposes, Policies and Plans to Uphold Law.

The Federal Bar Association, at its regular meeting last night at the Interior Department Building, pledged unanimous support to President Hoover in his "purposes, policies and plans for the faithful execution of the laws of the United States."

At the suggestion of Charles William Freeman, the association authorized the president, William R. Vallance, to appoint a committee to confer with President Hoover and the Attorney General with a view of determining how best the association can cooperate.

Chief Justice Fenton W. Booth of the United States Court of Claims was the principal speaker of the evening, and made an instructive address on "The History, Jurisdiction, Organization, Pleadings and Practice of the Court of Claims." President Vallance appointed a committee on nominations and elections to handle the annual election of officers, scheduled for May 13.

LA GUARDIA TARGET, HELFAND, INDICTED

ANOTHER JUDGE ACCUSER

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—A bankruptcy attorney who was identified as having received the judicial favor of Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow, whose resignation was announced yesterday, was indicted for embezzlement today while a congressional subcommittee was organizing to begin inquiry into the administration of Judge Grover M. Moscowitz of the Federal court in Brooklyn.

A few hours after Marcus Helfand was indicted for alleged irregularities in the accounts of the defunct Equitable Radio Corporation, the subcommittee of the House judiciary committee selected the attorneys to represent it at the Moscowitz investigation which opens next Monday. Judge Moscowitz, who was accused of judicial irregularities in bankruptcy cases by Representative Andrew L. Somers, of Brooklyn, has retained John W. Davis as counsel.

The indictment against Helfand charges that he illegally drew checks for $12,500 against the defunct corporation, although after an investigation into bankruptcy conditions was started, authorities said, he and his secretary returned the money to the credit of the corporation. Helfand pleaded not guilty and was held in $3,000 bail.

Helfand was mentioned in the House by Representative Fiarella H. LaGuardia, New York, as having boasted that he could obtain special privileges from Judge Winslow, and on this charge and others Congress authorized the investigation of the judge's work. The jurist resigned, however, a few hours before a special committee was to have opened its inquiry, and it is believed that the case in so far as Winslow is concerned is closed.

The committee to investigate the Moscowitz administration will have for chief counsel Howard C. Dickinson, former assistant district attorney of New York County, who will be assisted by Kenneth F. Simpson, who represented the Government in the trial of Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, and Harry M. Daugherty, former Attorney General.

If the evidence obtained by the committee warrants further action, Representatives Somers said, it would be referred to the Federal grand jury, and any attorneys involved would be cited before the grievance committee of the Bar Association.

"There will be no hesitation in taking all necessary measures to insure an adequate and at the same time an impartial investigation," Representative Somers said.

U.S. Bribery, Says Briton Due to Women Teachers

London, April 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—One English schoolmaster's conviction that America is "loaded with bribery because school teachers in the United States are women" was expressed at Leicester today during a debate at the annual conference of the National Union of Schoolmasters.

Supporting a motion that women should not teach boys in English schools, C. Freeborough declared, "Women manage boys by a system of bribery and corruption. Out of the six leading nations in the world the nation in which bribery and corruption are most rife is the nation in which women are teachers. America is loaded with bribery in its very vitals, its parliamentary, its muncipal, its commercial and financial life. It is more than a coincidence that in that country teaching is feminine."

The resolution opposing women as teachers was passed unanimously.

Hearing in I'm Alone Case Again Held Up

U. S. Attorney's Request for Delay Until Next Tuesday Is Granted.

New Orleans, April 2 (A.P.).—A preliminary hearing for the captain and crew of the Canadian rum ship I'm Alone, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, was continued today for one week by reqeust of government attorneys. An hour before the hearing was scheduled to begin, Edmond Talbot, United States District Attorney, appeared before the United States Commissioner and asked continuance until next Tuesday. No reason for the delay was given, which was the second reqeust.

The Commissioner immediately reset the case for hearing next Tuesday. Capt. John Thomas Randell, Canadian skipper and his crew of seven did not appear.

Coast Guardsmen sank the I'm Alone March 22 when Capt. Randell refused to let them search his vessel for contraband liquor. The ship went down in the Gulf of Mexico with 2,400 cases of liquor.

Capt. Randell and his crew were released Tuesday, the captain on $500 bond and his crew on their own recognizance. Since then they have remained in New Orleans awaiting disposition of the case which has caused international complications. A Frenchman lost his life in the sinking and the captain contends he was not within the jurisdiction of the United States. Coast Guardsmen, however, insist the ship was within the 12-mile limit when the chase started.

Spanish Ocean Fliers Arrive at Montevideo

Montevideo, Uruguay, April 2 (A.P.). The Spanish aviators, Capts. Jimenez and Iglesias, who left Rio de Janeiro this morning, landed here this afternoon. The aviators recently completed in two hops a flight from Seville to Rio de Janeiro. They were invited to visit Montevideo by the Uruguayan government on their way to Buenos Aires.

The Spanish fliers made the 1,200 miles in eleven hours. They flew at a high altitude and were sighted only intermittently along their route.

Prisoners Obtain Rum in Jail Cell

Feminine Visitors Are Not Searched, Because of Lack of Matron.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., April 2.—Every now and then Sheriff Scott Kline of Washington County notices one or more of the Federal prisoners in the local jail has gone on a spree, but there is nothing much he can do about it. Most of the liquor obtained by those bootleggers who are vacationing in the Hagerstown Jail, he believes, is brought in by their wives or other women who visit them.

Sheriff Kline has to let them walk right in with it, too, even when he has his suspicions, as there is no matron attached to the jail, and the sheriff wouldn't think of searching the feminine visitors himself.

The officer revealed this in commenting on the case of John Borodi, who was held in default of $500 bond on a charge of illegal possession of liquor by United States Commissioner Thomas Anderson at Cumberland. Borodi, whose home is in Baltimore, was caught last week by Sheriff Kline as he was attempting to smuggle a pint of whisky into the jail for the use of a fellow Baltimorean.

Trade Board to Name New President April 10

A new president of the Board of Trade will be elected at the April meeting of the organization April 10 at the Willard Hotel. Edward J. Murphy, first vice president of the board, is said to be the favorite candidate for the place.

A new board of directors will also be chosen at the April meeting to fill vacancies created by the expiration of the terms of ten members. Seventeen have been nominated for the ten places. They are: John T. Bardroff, George Plitt, Claude W. Owen, Luther Linkins, George Miller, E. C. Brandenburg, Walter A. Brown, Edward F. Colladay, Frank Hight, Joseph A. Burkart, C. J. Gockeler, Stephen E. Kramer, John B. Larner, Robert F. Beresford, Edwin W. Bayly, Charles F. Crane and Harry Blake.

A TIP TO BIG BUSINESS.

The Federal Oil Conservation Board will receive a delegation from the Petroleum Institute today to discuss the question of limitation of production. It is a thorny subject, because any proposal to promote limitation by national legislation will run afoul of the antitrust law. President Hoover is opposed to legislation that would have a tendency to regulate or fix prices, either by the Government or by a combination in the industry, and it is safe to say that Congress will share his view.

As the law stands it is a dangerous step for oil operators to enter into agreements to limit production. They are likely to be prosecuted under the Sherman act. The inevitable consequence of limitation of production is the fixation of prices, and usually this is immediately followed by increased prices. The public will not stand for such combinations even if the first effects should be conservation of oil. If the operators have in mind a scheme to bring about a price-fixing monopoly under the guise of wholesome cooperation to conserve the supply they are doomed to disappointment. Conservation for monopoly purposes is not the kind of conservation the Government and the people are seeking.

There is apparent throughout "big business" a tendency to take unfair advantage of the public tolerance of consolidations and mergers designed to effect economies. After some of these consolidations have been consummated the prime movers have not been able to resist the temptation to go a step further and try to cinch the public by fixing and boosting prices. The arguments against "destructive competition" are very plausible, and some of them are well founded, but the public willingness to give big business a chance to effect economies and avoid ruinous competition by judicious and fair cooperation must not be abused. Certain public services must be in the nature of monopolies, in which case they must submit to public regulation. Other necessities, such as petroleum, need not be monopolized in order to serve the public requirements, and the antitrust law must be held over the heads of corporations engaged in such big businesses, in order to insure competition and prevent price-fixing.

The enforcement of the law prohibiting monopolies is as necessary as enforcement of the law prohibiting liquor traffic. Long experience has shown that interests capable of effecting monopolies can not be trusted to cooperate without abusing their privileges. Above both natural monopolies and artificial monopolies must stand the Government, with a sword in its hand.

POORLY PAID ENVOYS.

The resignation of Mr. Houghton, Ambassador to Great Britain, and the death of Myron T. Herrick, Ambassador to France, create vacancies in the diplomatic service that will not be easily filled. There are American diplomats who can fill them capably and to the credit of their country, but the posts are notably "expensive," and no one not possessing a private fortune can afford to accept either appointment.

The salary schedules prevailing in the diplomatic service are a shame to the country. American Ambassadors receive a salary of $17,500 a year—about enough to pay their rent. The program for construction of embassy and legation buildings abroad will help to relieve the tax upon private purses, but even when the Government provides the embassy or legation the envoy will be unable to maintain himself and his family on a scale commensurate with the dignity of his position, to entertain in the manner he is called upon to entertain, and take his place on an equal footing with the representatives of other countries without digging deeply into his private funds.

The diplomatic representatives of practically all countries fare better financially than those of the United States. Congress should be called upon to correct this condition. The first step in foreign service reorganization, a project said to be under consideration by the President, should be general revision of the salary and expense allowances, so that the highest posts would be open to the best men, without regard to their wealth.

LET THE DEAD STAY DEAD.

Senator Howell, of Nebraska, is trying to drag the equalization fee again into the farm relief measure which will be submitted to Congress at its extra session. He proposes that a Federal farm board be created and that it be authorized to apply the equalization fee to a single crop to see how it would work. He anticipates that an injunction would be issued to withhold the plan from operation and that the issue would be taken before the Supreme Court. If the court should decide that the equalization fee is constitutional, he points out it could be applied without waiting several years for a judicial test of the entire law.

Mr. Howell's plan is evidently based on the belief that the opposition of the administration to the equalization fee arises solely on the question of constitutionality. This is, of course, a false supposition. The equalization fee has been repudiated because the Government does not intend to subsidize agriculture. It is not enough that the McNary-Haugen bills should have been vetoed by President Coolidge, and the equalization fee definitely repudiated in the last campaign with the overwhelming approval of the electorate. A few die-hards are still trying to foist it upon the country through the medium of a Supreme Court decision.

Senator Howell admits that it is impractical to base the farm relief measure upon the principles of the equalization fee. The very fact that he is seeking to have the constitutionality of the principle tested betrays the grave doubts in his mind on that score. But the constitutionality of the measure is beside the question. The only thing that needs to be considered is that the equalization plan has been decisively turned down, and is a dead issue. Congress can not evade the promises of its majority party to the farmers by any experiment with this discarded plan.

The scheme to revive the equalization plan is a disingenuous attempt to force upon the country legislation which can not be obtained through the regular channels of law making. It is not to be supposed that the Senate agriculture committee will pay heed to any such scheme. Injection of the equalization issue into the extra session would defeat the purposes of the farm bloc, since it would only hinder the adoption of a relief program. Those who insist on dragging this uneconomical scheme into every plan for the benefit of agriculture should realize that they are standing in the way of constructive farm legislation.

TREASURY ON EASY STREET.

Danger of a deficit in the Federal budget has disappeared with the compilation of income tax returns showing an increase in the March payments amounting to $80,000,000. The Treasury estimates that there will be a budget surplus of more than $100,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year. The total receipts in March were $595,000,000, and it is indicated that income taxes for the fiscal year will bring the Government more than $2,000,000,000. This will be the largest amount collected since 1921, when the rates were considerably higher.

The returns are gratifying to the country at large, and especially to the administration, because they indicate that the extensive governmental program outlined for the next few years can be carried on without increased taxation. The increase that marked the March payments is expected to continue through the other three income tax payment periods. Bankers, industrialists and business statisticians recognize the improvement in conditions over last year, and forecast excellent prospects for the remainder of 1929. The Department of Commerce anticipates a substantial advance in foreign trade, and there are prospects for improved agricultural conditions.

Increases are noted in practically all sources of Government revenue, in addition to the income tax. Customs receipts total $7,000,000 more than in March last year. The national debt has been reduced to $16,808,000,000, compared with $17,492,000,000 a year ago, and is at the lowest point since the termination of the World War.

The increasing revenues with the same rate of taxation, and the diminishing public debt led Secretary Mellon to express the hope of further reduction in income taxes. But because of the extensive financial responsibilities the Government has undertaken, and will undertake at its next session, it is not likely that further reductions can be made in the near future. Senator Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, has issued warning that a move for further reductions is not timely just now. Appropriations authorized by Congress at the last session will almost consume the $100,000,000 surplus, and large sums needed for farm relief, flood control, Black Canyon dam, construction of cruisers for the Navy, increase in salaries for Federal employes and many other undertakings will be a heavy drain on the Treasury.

But there is no basis for the fears of Senator King and other Democratic leaders that an increase in taxation will be necessary to meet the ever-expanding appropriations. Taxation has been decreasing steadily since the war and this fact has brought the Republicans an untold number of votes. It would be an excellent piece of political strategy if the Democrats could force an increase in taxes on the administration, but there is no indication that the majority party will permit any such thing.

MEMORIALS OF ROOSEVELT.

The Roosevelt Memorial Association has issued its tenth annual report, showing its accomplishments in perpetuating the memory of this great American. A fund of $1,750,000 has been raised through contributions from approximately 1,000,000 citizens, and the report indicates that it has been wisely administered.

The Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Park has been developed at Oyster Bay, New York, at a cost of $850,000. The park has already been dedicated and the work is practically completed. To call public attention to the work of distinguished Americans who are developing and applying Col. Roosevelt's ideals, the Roosevelt Distinguished Service Medals have been established. President Hoover and Col. Lindbergh are among those who have received these awards. The association has taken a 999-year lease on the western half of the restored birthplace of Roosevelt in New York City, and a museum and research library has been established there. A library of Roosevelt motion pictures has been collected, research has been made into every phase of his career, and a Roosevelt bibliography is to be published soon. Use is also being made of traveling exhibits to keep the memory of the rough-riding colonel fresh in the minds of American citizens.

The part of the report most interesting to Washingtonians is that dealing with plans to erect a monument to Roosevelt in this city. The site has been selected, and the architect chosen. The association has appropriated $1,000,000 from its fund for the erection of the monument. Architectural designs have been submitted to Congress for approval, but no action has been taken. It is to be hoped that Congress will find time to give the matter attention at the next regular session, so that there will be no further delay in the erection of a suitable Roosevelt memorial.

Another worthy task for science is isolation of the impeach germ which has afflicted Oklahoma for years and in now attacking Louisiana.

Two times of recent weeks an inmate of the Hagerstown jail has swallowed razor blades and bits of broken electric light bulbs. Hard tack for a tough customer!

President Hoover, following less than a month in his new job, takes a vacation, which may explain why so many little boys aspire to the Presidency.

A Chicago economist predicts that in a few years women will control the entire wealth of the world, which is confirmed by the fact that Argentina goes ahead with plans to levy a tax on bachelors.

A WESTERN PROTEST

By HON. C. S. THOMAS,
Former Senator from Colorado.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your comments upon the protest of Western governors against the repeal by Executive announcement of a statute of vital consequence to the needs and welfare of an extensive cluster of States and communities can not be sustained by a brief review of conditions compelling the remonstrance.

Let it be asserted at the outset that the oil scandals of the recent past had their genesis in the naval act of 1920. The leasing act of that year recently thrown into the administration waste basket is in nowise responsible for them. It was designed to relieve a situation due to Executive withdrawals of public oil lands from the operation of the Federal mining laws and was the result of several years of discussion and controversy. It conferred certain rights upon citizens, particularly the right to apply for permits and leases upon the public lands and the right to have them disposed of by the departmental authorities after due investigation. It clothed these authorities with the duty to judicially determine whether to grant or to deny these applications as an enlightened discretion might require, each application to be disposed of upon its own merits. Under the administration of this law substantially 34,900 permits had been granted, a few of them ripening into leases prior to March 4 last. The proportion of leases to permits is approximately one-fifth of 1 per cent of the whole. In the effort to discover oil and gas upon the lands covered by these permits, millions of dollars have been expended with little profit to the permittees but immensely so to the communities and States comprising the permits, while the oil and gas produced pay royalties which enrich the Federal Treasury, the reclamation fund and the State road and school funds.

The gross oil production of the public land leasing system is a little over 3 per cent of the whole. It is the only production which is subject to rational regulation. The flow from the new wells is balanced by the decreasing flow of the older ones, and the effect of the shut-off now under way upon national production is nil. Meanwhile the revenues of the public land States are seriously affected, development throttled, and the right of the people under the law to this unlimited enjoyment of the resource is denied them, the statute to the contrary notwithstanding. Yet this law expressly declares that the domain which it embraces "Shall be subject to disposition to citizens of the United States."

A spokesman for the President has recently notified us that if we don't like the situation we can appeal to the courts. That is comforting to the inhabitants of a vast section of the country, especially when it is remembered that the owners of the 34,900 permits are individuals, the great bulk of them unable to bear the cost of litigation or to hope to get very far in a contest with the all-powerful Government. Personally, I can conceive of no irony more complete than official denial to an individual of his right under the law than to be coolly informed that if he doesn't like it he can appeal to the courts.

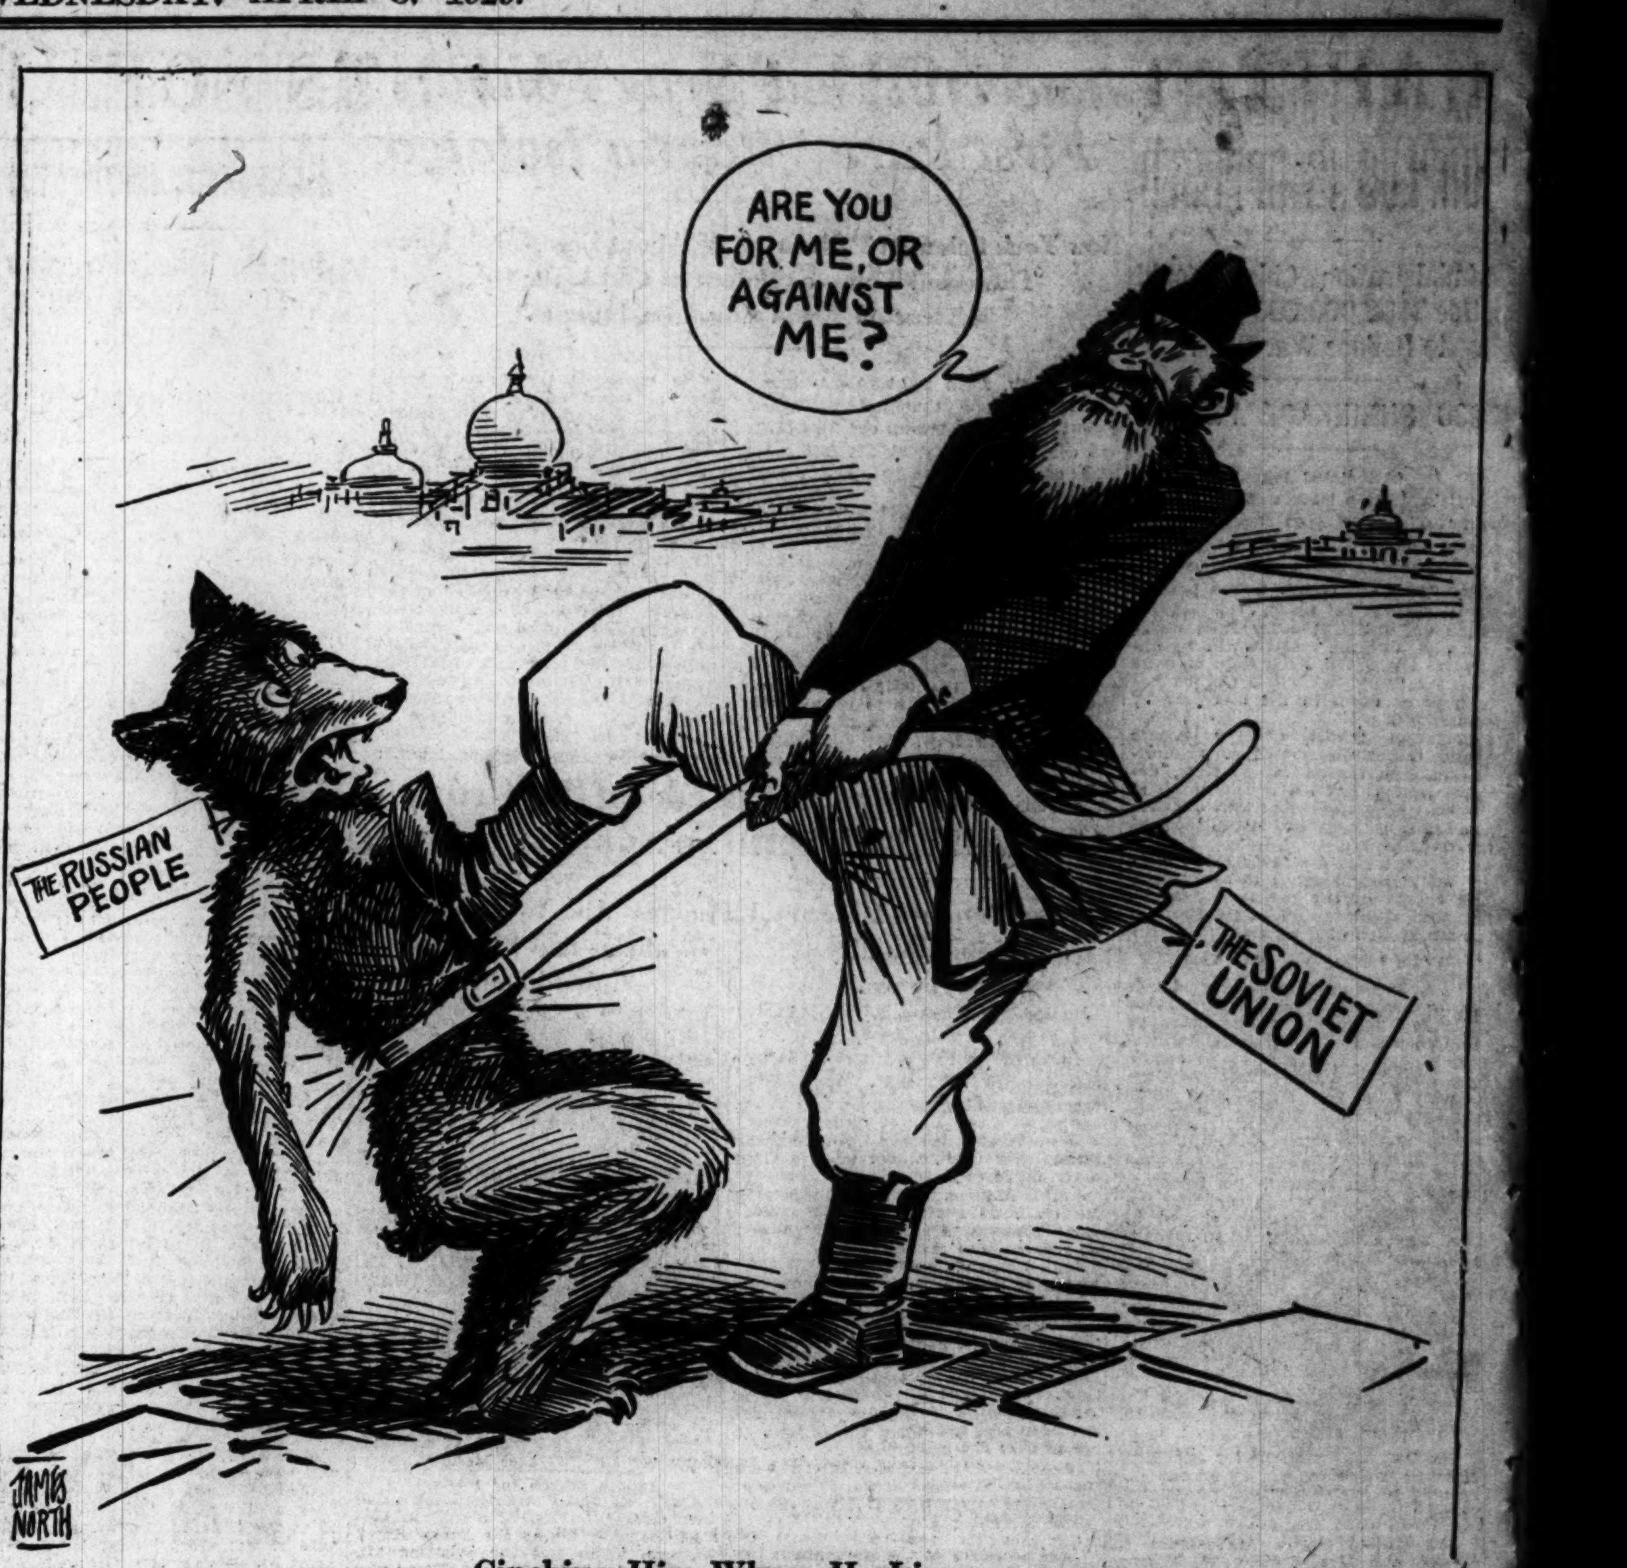
You say that "the law authorizes the issuance of permits and leases but does not direct the Secretary to make them." That is true as far as it goes. But it also authorizes the citizen to apply for them, and the Secretary to consider and pass upon his application. He is not empowered to arbitrarily reject them all and certainly not by refusing to the citizen his right to file them. If I am correct as to this, please tell us where the limit to such conduct is to be found.

You attribute ulterior motives to our protests and call us Western politicians. We are accustomed to this. But we are only "bent upon" craving the law as it is, and nowadays it is not much out in the public domain States, presumably sovereign but actually provincial. If, for example, a third of the lands embraced in Pennsylvania belonged to the Federal Government, controlled and administered by it, exempt from State jurisdiction, and taxation, most of it withdrawn from purchase or occupation, all of it under the supervision and control of inspectors, superintendents, examiners, foresters, bureaucrats, and other irritating taxeaters, making and applying rules, regulations and resolutions having all the force of law, but permitted to ask for permits and leases upon small parts of this territory, I imagine the citizenry of that great Commonwealth would protest against being deprived of the latter privilege even though they were dubbed politicians trying to exploit the public lands regardless of consequences.

Indeed I have often heard the people of this district contemptuously called politicians, inspired by ignoble designs whenever they or any of them complain of their disfranchisement and demand the right of suffrage. They very justly resent it. But when they have had some of our experiences, beginning with a wise and well-wrought plan of granting the public domain to the people, under the homestead law of nearly a 100 years ago, and finally evolving in a system of absentee landlordism and subject to executive repeal of statutes deemed undesirable, they will realize that the right to vote is of comparative inconsequence. With us a protest against such action subjects to the reproach of trying to take unfair advantage of the Government. Shall we then humbly accept the infliction of our ills as we do "the acts of God?" We do not think so. We may lose our fight as you assure us. But we have no other recourse whatever the outcome. Perhaps attempted resistance will only serve to make our lot the harder. That has been our past experience, under less capable administrations. All of them, whatever their politics, regard us as the stepchildren of the Republic and treat us accordingly.

Mr. Coolidge has very recently told us that "it is a great advantage to a President and the major source of safety to the country for him to know that he is not a great man." Only a great man can so declare, who has consistently recognized the assumption by acting upon it. Let us devoutly hope that he did not carry this "source of safety" with him to Northampton.

C. S. THOMAS.



Cinching Him Where He Lives.

A SUNSHINE COLOR.

It is passing strange that blue should ever have been associated with melancholy, observes the Providence Journal. It is distinctly a sunshine color. Indeed, it is the complement of sunshine. One who looks out in the morning glow sees the shadows of the trees as a blue network and the shadows of the houses as great block print surfaces of blue. It is a living blue; indeed, it seems almost palpitating. With blue as the color of the sky, of the sea in sunlight, and even of the shadows on the snow, it can fairly lay claim to cheerfulness. But it goes even further.

The great Claude Monet in his famous flower garden at Giverney experimented with masses of living color. One problem that troubled him was to find a color appropriate for spaces under trees or in other shady places. He discovered this to be blue, so he filled these spots with blue flowers.

The poets revel in the color blue. The world remembers the "mantle blue" of Milton's shepherd, which, by the way, Tennyson appears to have borrowed for his Europa. There are few lovelier ballad lines than Longfellow's "Blue were her eyes as the fairy flax," a line which a countryman, seated next to Longfellow in a street car and realizing that he was with the poet, repeated with great gusto and slapped the poet's knee in token of his approval. Dennis McCarthy has the charming line, "The blue of Irish eyes is the blue of Irish skies."

But blue is not merely the conqueror of shadow. It triumphs over night itself. Thoreau concludes one of the greatest of his prose poems, "Night and Moonlight," with this assurance: "Nevertheless, even by night the sky is blue and not black, for we see through the shadow of the earth into the distant atmosphere of day, where the sunbeams are reveling."

The Pup Taught to Fear a Club Won't Attack the Burglar Who Has One

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE "inferiority complex" that fills the earth with cringing failures is another curse resulting from the ignorance of parents.

The normal child fears noise and nothing else. It is endowed with a capacity to respect itself. And if it is given opportunity to develop normally and never is burdened with imaginary terrors it will learn to face the world as calmly as a lion looks upon a king.

With the exception of the few abnormal creatures doomed by nature to tremble in constant dread, as small wild creatures do, all men are indeed created equal in the sense that all are disposed by nature to regard their fellows as equals.

Respect for authority, fear of power and awe of wealth are lessons learned in a hard school, and are no more natural to man than fear of a whip is natural to a dog.

The failure usually is a man whose spirit was broken in childhood.

He was taught to fear a lash, taught to dread the wrath of teachers, taught to scorn his own faults, taught to be ashamed of poverty, taught to revere and envy riches, taught to endure wrong rather fight tooth and nail for his rights and the preservation of his self-respect.

Children need praise—as grown-ups do. It may swell their heads, but that is a temporary affliction easily cured by an unsympathetic world.

If they are scolded and ridiculed and burdened with shame until they learn to feel inferior to others they will cower through life as certainly as a whipped dog carries its tail between its legs.

And though native ability may enable them to climb high and accumulate wealth they never will outgrow the feeling that other men are superior and they never will stand firm in a crisis.

Conceited people are happy people. The poet fondled by foolish women, the spinster pedagogue whose little pupils are awed by her learning, the rural preacher whose flock regards him as a prophet, the country doctor flattered by the worship of inferiors—all these endure poverty without loss of pride because praise has blinded them to their insignificance.

Too much self-respect is a fault, but the youth who respects himself too much will go farther and travel more happily than the youth who respects himself too little.

Parents who stifle independence and frown on free opinion and punish pride may please their own vanity, but they thwart the normal development of their children.

The boy whipped for defending his rights will in later years submit to greater wrongs because he is afraid of men no greater than himself.

They won't try to elect candidates on their records as public servants, he says, but drag in prejudices and personalities. Well, he didn't for a moment expect that a Constitutional amendment would change human nature in a decade, did he?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Two Washington Memorials.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The papers say the Washington Anniversary Commission desires suggestions.

I have waited in vain to see men of prominence bring forward two measures which I would consider the best tributes to Washington:

First—Open the 300-foot wide vista between the Capitol and the Washington Monument. This feature, the most imposing element in the L'Enfant plan, was approved if not instigated by Washington 140 years ago (1789).

Second—Complete the Washington Monument, started about 100 years ago, by building the dignified base recommended by the Park Commission, our foremost experts, 27 years ago (1902).

GLENN BROWN.

Do Dry Lawmakers Drink?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The letter of E Pluribus Unum, in The Post of April 1—very appropriate date! —is excellent evidence of the fact that no statement is too fallacious or absurd for a prohibitionist to make.

Speaking of certain congressmen alleged to have imported or attempted to import liquors, the gentleman says: "These congressmen are all drys; is it reasonable to suppose that they would break the laws for which they voted?" Certainly it is reasonable to believe this. The "dry-voting, wet drinking legislator" is notorious; and some of these gentry have already served terms in prison for the violation of that "high moral, sacred and precious law" for which they sanctimoniously voted. Law-makers are sometimes the worst of law-breakers.

In my little book of Mother Goose parodies I find the following verse, which may possibly amuse your readers:

Sing a song of sixpence,
A bootleg full of rye,
Four and twenty "statesmen"
(All voted dry):
When the booze was finished,
These birds began to sing:
"The dry-law is for common folks,
The liquor's for our ring."

HUGH B. ROSSELL.

Heavy Opium Imports.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was much interested in your article of today's date, the narcotic drug problem. I notice that you advocate solving the problem by the strict limitation of the manufacture of drugs to medicinal needs, and you further suggest that this Government should enter into international agreements with other governments to this effect. Limitation of manufacture is, of course, the only solution, but before we begin negotiations with other governments, why not begin with our own? We would be in a stronger position if we first cleaned our own doorsteps. The legal importation of raw opium into this country is highly significant. Thus:

1923	5,120 kilograms
1924	39,697 kilograms
1925	45,667 kilograms
1926	48,971 kilograms
1927	64,602 kilograms

One thousand kilograms equal one ton. Ten tons of raw opium will make one ton of morphine. The year 1927 gives us a potential output of over six tons of morphine.

1924	5.5710 grains
1925	6.4043 grains
1926	6.8672 grains
1927	9.0586 grains

These figures relate solely to the legal import for legal manufacture and sales. They have nothing to do with the illicit traffic. Only it would seem that 9 grains of opium per person, for a population of 110,000,000 is a trifle excessive.

Concert Will Aid Refugees in Sofia

Mrs. H. F. Dimock Sponsor of Affair to Establish Hospital and Asylum.

A concert for the relief of Russian refugees in Sofia, Bulgaria, will be held this evening at the home of Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, 1301 Sixteenth street northwest, at 9:30 o'clock.

Paul Dougereau, 20-year-old French pianist, will make his debut in Washington on this occasion. Maxim Karolik, Russian tenor, also will be heard. He will be accompanied by Mme. Marie Zalipsky, a refugee who chose this city as her home.

According to reports from L. E. Feldman, recently appointed to lead the relief work in Sofia, this has been an exceedingly bad year, due to widespread disease, which followed a severe earthquake and drought. The climatic conditions have also affected the harvest, making it almost impossible to reap any of the crops. Funds from the concert will go toward establishment of a small, general hospital and orphan asylum.

Officer to Be Transferred.

Col. William H. Tschappat, now on duty in the office of the chief of ordnance here, will be transferred the middle of this summer to Manila, it was announced yesterday.

Wife of Commerce Chief Brings Gowns From Paris

Mrs. R. P. Lamont Hunts Home Preparatory to Busy Social Season.

EMMA PERLEY LINCOLN.

Although Mrs. Robert Patton Lamont, wife of the new Secretary of Commerce, arrived in Washington last week with trunks full of beautiful new Paris gowns, she has not had time to wear many of them so far. She is industriously house-hunting, and for this arduous program, on which she sets out from the Hay-Adams House where she and the Secretary are stopping, at an early hour each morning, she chooses to wear an ensemble of black kasha, with a brimmed hat of black felt and silk having a silver kid ornament at the side. As the mornings are chill, Mrs. Lamont wears a silver fox two-skin neckpiece.

Incidentally, it has been rumored that the Lamonts will purchase a home far out on Massachusetts avenue, as they are accustomed to living in a country setting, in spacious grounds, and that they will entertain extensively while in the Capital.

Finding time to join some friends for tea yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Lamont wore a beige ensemble which breathed Paris in every line. A slight figure, a little below medium height, Mrs. Lamont effects one-color costumes as a rule, leaving the combinations of prints and varicolors to her taller sisters.

MRS. ROBERT P. LAMONT.

On the occasions when the Secretary and Mrs. Lamont have dined as the guests of friends, since Mrs. Lamont's arrival, she has worn black evening gowns, appearing one evening in a long frock of black lace and another time in black velvet, severely made.

Black is not her only choice for evening, however, as she has worn a slate blue lace, fashioned with long sleeves and worn with satin shoes in the same color.

Mrs. Lamont is said to wear beautiful jewels and handsome furs, so the feminine contingent of official society here is anticiptaing with pleasure the date when she will assume an active role in her duties as wife of the Secretary of Commerce.

Copper Companies Enjoy Prosperity

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—Further evidences of prosperity in the copper industry, in the way of higher earnings and dividends, made their appearance in Wall street today.

Vice President F. H. Brownell, of the American Smelting & Refining Co., however, said in the report to the company's annual meeting of stockholders that he did not expect the price of copper to go substantially higher than the present price of 24 cents a pound, domestic delivery, which compares with an average of about 14¾ cents for 1928.

Cerro de Pasco Copper Co. directors raised its anunual dividend rate from $4 to $5 a year.

Miami Copper Co., which raised its annual dividend rate from $2 to $4 yesterday, today published its annual earnings report, giving the background of the increase. Net for 1928 equaled $1,842,379, or $2.46 a share, against $1,142,459, or $1.53, in 1927.

Mr. Brownell estimated that American Smelting earnings in the first two months of 1929 were at the rate of $9.65 a share, compared with $8.24 a share earned in 1928.

"Consumption has increased tremendously," he said, "but time can only tell how much is an actual increase and how much is due to anticipatory buying."

Damaged British Ship Makes Port.

Bordeaux, France, April 2 (A.P.).—With its bow damaged above the water line, the British steamer Cloadoald, which rammed the steamship Ceyland amidship Sunday in clear, calm weather, arrived here today. Its captain averred he was unable to explain how the accident occurred.

Eight Persons Injured In Fire at Birmingham

Birmingham, Ala., April 2 (A.P.).—Eight persons were injured and several hundred were routed from their rooms scantily dressed early this morning by fire that destroyed a group of three-story buildings in the downtown section of Fourth avenue. Loss was estimated at $250,000.

The more seriously hurt were Mrs. A. C. Elder, 45, of Pulaski, Tenn., who was said to have jumped from a moving elevator in a hotel; J. W. Whittaker, 24, a fireman; Assistant Fire Chief A. Brown and Capt. J. E. Grizzard, who were overcome by smoke.

Chancellor's Illness Grave.

Berlin, April 2 (A.P.).—The gravity of Chancellor Mueller's illness, a bilious affection, has increased with the setting in of kidney and liver complications. The chancellor has been indisposed for about a week, and it had been hoped that he would be able to resume work after Easter.

The physical welfare of the child is being given much attention by school authorities.

Failure to keep up with class work and absence from school is probably due to nervousness and a rundown condition that may be largely attributed to a deficiency in red-blood-cells.

Do you not marvel when thinking of the inward physical workings of your child—bone, flesh, muscle and brain growing each day—building onward toward manhood or womanhood?

Rich, red blood builds and sustains

Of course it is the blood stream which carries the millions of tiny red-cells to all parts of the body. And it is the healthy, rich, red-blood-cells that does this building, warding off disease and making for strong and healthy bodies.

When a child's appetite wanes or he loses weight, the complexion becomes sallow or pimples and boils appear—then you instantly know that the inward mechanism is not working properly—that a good blood tonic is required.

In such cases S.S.S. is the proper tonic. It is made from fresh vegetable drugs—therefore will not harm the most delicate system. It improves the appetite and restores the red-blood-cells to normal; lost weight is regained; skin eruptions clear up and color returns to the cheeks.

S.S.S. builds sturdy health

Give your child the right chance to develop. You will not regret it in later years.

For more than 100 years, S.S.S. has been helping children and their elders regain strength and vitality.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

The seasoning and aging process, used in the manufacture of S.S.S., makes it pleasant to the taste.

CUSTOMS OFFICERS ADMIT BOAT SEARCH

Discourtesies and Display of Guns Are Denied in Fish Yacht Case.

SHOTS WERE FIRED IN AIR

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—Officials of the Customs Enforcement Bureau acknowledged today that Stuyvesant Fish's yacht Restless had been boarded and searched for liquor by an inspector from a customs patrol boat, but denied that there had been any discourtesy.

Fish, a wealthy sportsman and broker, complained to Washington that men he believed to be members of the Coast Guard halted his yacht near the Statue of Liberty by firing their revolvers, and then one man searched the Restless while others pointed their pistols at Fish and his family.

At first the Coast Guard, the customs and the marine police all denied knowledge of the incident, but shortly after Rear Admiral Billard, of the Coast Guard, arrived from Washington to make an investigation, the Customs Bureau announced that it had been learned a customs boat had been the one to stop the yacht.

Deputy Collector of Customs McGill, who made the announcement, said pistols were fired in the air when Fish failed to stop on a whistle signal, but that after that there was no gun display. He said the boat was stopped because it was a new boat in the harbor and a fast craft such as is sometimes used to run liquor.

McGill said Fish showed no displeasure during the search, and exchanged courtesies with the inspector who searched the boat and, after finding nothing, permitted the Restless to proceed.

(Associated Press.)

E. W. Camp, commissioner of customs, announced last night that he would investigate the searching by customs officers of the yacht of Stuyvesant Fish in New York harbor last Saturday night if a complaint was made to him.

Commissioner Camp said that no report of the incident had been forwarded, and none was expected unless the customs representatives in New York City felt that the incident was one which demanded his attention. He said that in case a report was made he would look into it, and added that he had not yet received any complaint from Fish.

URUGUAYAN FLIERS CRASH ON U. S. HOP

Plane Destroyed by Flames After Forced Landing in Ecuador Wilds.

MECHANIC'S LEG BROKEN

Bogota, Colombia, April 2 (U.P.).—Their airplane destroyed by fire in the wilderness of northern Ecuador, three Uruguyan aviators who had attempted a 15-stage flight from Montevideo to New York, arrived in Tumaco at 8:30 a. m. today after a 40-hour journey by canoe and afoot down the Guyapa River.

Their plane caught fire in the air from an unknown cause, and they were forced to "pancake" it in the dense brush at noon Sunday, in a region described last year by the veteran French aviators, Joseph le Brix and Dieudonne Costes, as holding forth "an atrocious end" for daring fliers.

Dagobert Moll, mechanic of the Uruguayan plane, received a severe injury to one leg when the plane crashed and was taken to a hospital at Tumaco immediately after he arrived.

Except for minor scratches and burns, the other two members of the expedition, Lieut. Col. Cesario Berisso and Maj. Roget Otero, were uninjured.

"We noticed motor trouble five hours after leaving Paita," Col. Otero told the United Press. "Over the Guyapa territory we were forced to bring the plane down in the middle of the jungle. Fire destroyed the plane immediately and we had some difficulty getting away from it.

"Carrying our mechanic, whose leg had been injured, we set out at once for the river, which was not far distant. There we secured a canoe and Sunday afternoon started the most difficult journey down the river."

The aviators left Montevideo on March 17, and the stages of their projected flight thus far had taken them to Buenos Aires, Santiago, Antofogasta, Lima and Paita. Saturday they took off from Paita for Tumbes, a Peruvian town on the south end of the Gulf of Guayaquil, but returned to Paita when they found that there were no adequate landing facilities at Tumbes. Early Sunday morning they took the air again, fueled for a flight direct to Cali, Colombia.

The plane was sighted over Guayaquil, Ecuador, Sunday and observers expressed the opinion that Col. Berisso was somewhat off his course. When their arrival at Cali or any other city was not reported Monday, the governments of Ecuador and Colombia prepared for an extensive search by air and land.

SAFETY—a matter of first importance in fuel . . .

You can go away and forget a hard coal fire burning in your furnace.

You know for certain that the house won't catch fire.

Safety is one of the cardinal advantages of hard coal.

Ask any fireman if he ever heard of a house set afire by hard coal.

And in addition to this safety factor is the ease of handling Anthracite.

When you have filled the fire box with good old hard coal you have a fire bed that will stay where it belongs and keeps going for hours. No need to rush home for fear the fire may go out. For an all-around fuel you can't beat Anthracite.

SAFE—LONG LASTING—CLEAN BURNING—WORKS PERFECTLY WITH AUTOMATIC CONTROL—ECONOMICAL.

The undersigned companies pledge themselves to ship only Anthracite (hard coal) that measures up to highest standards. So they call their coal Certi-fide Anthracite.

CONGRESS MAY CURB BANK RESERVE BOARD

FISH DEFENDS MITCHELL

Organization of the House committee on banking and currency during the special session of Congress, became a possibility yesterday, suggesting either investigation or legislation dealing with the Federal Reserve System and its method of dealing with speculative transactions in the New York Stock Market.

The Senate committee, not compelled to reorganize, is meeting, with disposition to act on the question of financial legislation, although Chairman Peter Norbeck, for the present, is sitting on the lid.

At the same time, the Federal Reserve Board, in conference with the governors of the twelve reserve banks of the country, reached tentative decisions dealing with the situation growing out of the New York Stock Market situation and with the recent defiance of its decision by President Mitchell, of the National City Bank.

Glass and Fish in Tilt.

Another phase of the developing situation here was an interchange of criticisms between Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, and Representative Hamilton Fish, jr. (Republican), of New York, and a further reply by Senator Glass to the recent statement by former Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma.

For the present, the Federal Reserve Board will not attempt to make use of its power to raise the present rediscount rate. The reports brought here by the governors of the Federal Reserve banks indicated general objection to such an increase, because of its possible disastrous effects upon business generally. The lure of the stock market for money already makes it sufficiently difficult, it is explained, for legitimate business to obtain its requirements.

There will be no disciplinary measures used against President Mitchell of the National City Bank. It appears the action of the New York bank in preventing a stock market smash has met with tacit approval by the visiting bank governors.

Speculation Still Target.

However, there will be no let-up in the attempt to curb speculation. Moral suasion is to be used among the member banks to prevent further use of money for speculation.

The governors of the various banks are to return with this message, and from every angle the continued pressure of the powerful Federal Reserve System is to be used to bring about a stabilization of stock market conditions and a discouragement of money for purely speculative purposes so far as it can be done.

Organization of the banking and currency committee, suggested as a possibility by Floor Leader Tilson after a conference with President Hoover before leaving for a brief vacation trip, is being encouraged by the cooperative organizations of the country. They have demanded an enlargement of the intermediate credit system, involving a revolving fund of $300,000,000 to be loaned to cooperative organizations. This measure will demand action by the banking and currency committee, rather than the committee on agriculture, although advanced as a form of farm relief.

Fish Defend's Mitchell's Action.

The controversial side of the stock market situation and the relation of the Federal Reserve Board to it was precipitated by a statement made by Representative Hamilton Fish, which promptly drew the fire of Senator Carter Glass.

Mr. Fish said that the attack by Senator Glass upon President Charles E. Mitchell, of the National City Bank, "for coming to the rescue of the market" last week when the call money rate reached 20 per cent was not warranted by the facts. "The spontaneous action of Mr. Mitchell," he continued, "helped to save the market from a panic that would have seriously affected business generally and might have impaired the credit of the Federal Reserve System."

Mr. Fish said the quick action of Mr. Mitchell should have been commended, instead of being condemned by the author of the Federal Reserve bill. He added he was confident that the Federal Reserve Board did not want to produce a panic, and that it ought to be thankful for what Mr. Mitchell did.

Caustic Toward Glass.

"The board," he concluded testily, "does not need the assistance of Senator Glass to discipline prominent New York bankers for rendering a public service in time of real emergency."

Replying to the statement of Mr. Fish, Senator Glass intimated Mr. Fish is the spokesman for the stock speculators.

Replying to the recent statement by former Senator Owen, he said:

"Whether or not the Federal Reserve Board should have removed Mr. Charles E Mitchell, a Class A director of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, for his open defiance of the full board's authority, and his avowed attempt to frustrate its administration policy, is, of course, a matter of opinion It was my conviction, and still is that the board should have taken that action.

"This should have been done promptly, not so much, perhaps, for the offer by Mr. Mitchell's bank of $25,000,000 to a dangerously extended speculative market which the board was trying to curb, as for his dramatic assertion of a superior obligation to the stock speculators against his obligation to the Federal Reserve system, of which Mr. Mitchell is a sworn officer. He was well aware of the policy pursued by the Federal Reserve Board, nevertheless he set out with apparent deliberation to thwart it and to bring the authority of the board into contempt. In this he succeeded."

NO MORGAN LIQUOR SEEN, SAYS TUTTLE

REPORT MADE TO CAPITAL

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle announced today that no liquor had been "found, seen or handled" in the baggage of Representative William Morgan of Ohio, when he returned from Panama last week, and that the baggage had been passed unopened

Mr. Tuttle's statement was issued at the conclusion of an investigation of published reports that the Representative had acknowledged to customs men the possession of four bottles of liquor, but had demanded and had been granted free entry. When the reports first were published, Mr Morgan emphatically denied the whole story, and said he had never had a drink in his life.

During the investigation the United States attorney called seven custoums men to his office for questioning.

Inspector Louis E. Crawford, who made the original charges against Mr. Morgan, today said he had told Mr. Tuttle that Mr. Morgan had freely admitted having the liquor in his baggage, and that he had so reported to the collector of the port. Mr. Tuttle said he understood all of the reports of the customs agents on the case had been forwarded to Washington.

Mr. Tuttle said that on the representative's assertion that he had been in Panama on an official mission he was granted free entry and none of his baggage was opened. No bottles of liquor being "found, handled or seen" by the customs men

"The statements of all the customs officers," Tuttle said, "come down to a talk between themselves and Mr. Morgan."

Informed of Tuttle's findings in Washington, Representative Morgan said they were correct and corroborated the statement that his baggage had not been searched From the first publication of rumors that he had brought liquor into the country the representative had emphatically denied the truth of the whole story. He is an ardent dry and voted for the Jones law.

Tuttle said that the written statements of customs officials he questioned would be sent to Washington and the impression was general at the Federal building that the incident was officially closed here. The Federal attorney issued his statement, he said, only to correct erroneous ideas which had gained currency and declined to make any other comment on the case, at least until further study of the written report.

(Associated Press.)

Concerning the announcement by United States Attorney Tuttle in New York that no liquor had been "found, seen or handled" in his baggage on returning from Panama last week, representative Morgan, of Ohio, issued a formal statement last night which said:

"I have been confident at all times that the official reports of the customs inspectors would show that the entry of the baggage of my wife, daughter and myself from the steamer Cristobal at the port of New York was in full compliance with the law. The mental distress and humiliation which we at first suffered from the publicity due to the occurrence was mitigated by a clear conscience and our firm belief that right would eventually prevail We are indeed grateful to United States District Attorney Tuttle for his promptness in making the investigation and his fair and impartial statement in the press today."

Shipping Board Sells 3 More Cargo Vessels

(Associated Press.)

The Shipping Board yesterday authorized the sale of three cargo ships and at the same time announced that bids would be asked on five tankers and eight other cargo steamers, the latter comprising the Gulf-West Mediterranean Line.

Two of the ships sold, the West Cherow and the Westland, went to the Shepard & Morse Lumber Co., Boston for $117,000 and $132,000. The third the George E. Weed, was purchased by the Flood Lines, Inc., of San Francisco for $20,000 cash. This boat is now laid up at Philadelphia. The West Cherow now at Norfolk, and the Westland, now laid up at Mobile, along with the Westbrook, bought by the Boston concern last week, will be placed in the intercoastal trade.

Black Diamonds, Worth $30,000, Lost in Crash

Dixon, Ill., April 2 (A.P.).—Disappearance of $30,000 worth of commercial black diamonds in the wreck of the mail plane near here March 22 was revealed here today by Robert J. Pollitt of New York, insurance adjuster, and Walter J. Olson, postoffice inspector, of Rockford, Ill.

The package containing the diamonds to be used for drill points was believed to have been destroyed by fire, which consumed the plane following the crash. Ashes of the plane and the top soil nearby have been sifted without revealing trace of the gems.

The ashes have been sent to New York for more scientific examination.

Artilleryman Is Killed When Auto Hits Train

Fayetteville, N. C., April 2 (A.P.).—Harold R. Thompson, 22, of Richfield, N. C., a soldier of the Fifth Field Artillery at Fort Bragg was instantly killed here early today and Frank A. Miller, of Sandersville, Miss., received internal injuries which it was believed would prove fatal when the car in which the men were riding ran into a freight train at a street crossing.

The record of Thompson at Fort Bragg lists A. C. Thompson, of R. F. D. No. 2, Richfield, his father, his nearest of kin, while that of Miller gives a sister, Mrs. George R. Huddleston, of Sandersville, Miss. Both men were privates in headquarters battery, combat train.

Republican Group Drafts Tariff Bill

Speaker Longworth Says Farm Schedules Are Not Yet Prepared.

Practical completion of the writing of the 1929 tariff bill by the Republican members of the ways and means committee was announced yesterday by Speaker Nicholas Longworth. The Speaker returned to Washington two days ago and since then has been in conference with the members of the committee and with other House leaders who are here.

Mr. Longworth said the bill was completed in almost every detail, with the exception of the farm schedules, which are being delayed, pending action of the agricultural committee, the tariff being part of any farm relief bill that may be written.

The bill, the Speaker explained, will make few changes in the present Fordney-McCumber law, with the exception of the farm rates. He declared also that the present system of valuation would be retained. This, with the exception of some items in the chemical schedule, is based on European values for the purpose of assessing ad valorem duties.

Girl's Home Officials On Trial for Murder

Albuquerque, N. Mex., April 2 (A.P.). Miss Bertha Lips, former superintendent of the New Mexico Girls' Welfare Home, and Dr. Evelyn Frisbie, former medical adviser, went on trial here today charged with second degree murder and manslaughter for the death of Helen Haskew, 18, of Portales, an inmate of the home.

The charges grew out of the verdict of a coroner's jury, that the Haskew girl's death resulted from an injection of "twilight sleep" as a sedative, together with a lack of proper food and water.

At a legislative investigation the two defendants said Miss Haskew and five other girls were given "twilight sleep" because they were hysterical and were disturbing the other inmates of the home. The six girls had just been returned to the institution after an escape.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you may know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is often the extravagant price of self-neglect—false teeth. Here's the reason and the way to help safeguard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the hands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums . . . the dentifrice designed to help firm gums and keep them sound, thus protecting them from the attack of disease.

Use Forhan's regularly. You'll be delighted with the way it makes your gums look and feel. In addition, you'll notice that it effectively and safely cleans teeth and helps to protect them from decay. Get a tube of Forhan's—today!

NEW FLOOD THREATS APPEAR IN MIDWEST

Many Streams Already Over Banks and Mississippi Levees Are Guarded.

VOLUNTEERS AID MILITIA

Chicago, April 2 (United Press).—Rivers and lakes, swollen and whipped by Easter Day gales and rains, gave new threats of floods in the central part of the United States today.

Streams in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Missouri were threatening to overflow their banks. Lake Michigan still was beating against the crumbling sea walls along the Chicago waterfront. The great Mississippi was rising again and required constant guard of levees in Illinois and Iowa.

With communication systems damaged by storms repaired, the toll of Easter Day storms increased to an estimated 50 injured and 2 dead. Damage to Chicago's sea wall alone was estimated at $1,000,000, while the Southwest, swept by tornadoes, reported heavy property damage.

Shipping on Lake Michigan was interrupted by the lashing lake waters which for a time threatened to wash away the city water works at St. Joseph, Mich., and the Coast Guard station off Lincoln Park in Chicago.

Between Hannibal, Mo., and Fort Madison, Iowa, 1,000 volunteers aided State militia in the battle against the rising Mississippi to prevent it from sweeping away dikes and levees and flooding thousands of acres of rich farm lands. Some of the levees are in such a condition that breaks are expected momentarily, reports said.

It was estimated that the various levees along the river protect approximately 300,000 acres of valuable farm land.

At Quincy, Ill., the river stage was 19.8 feet. River men predicted the flood crest would be reached tomorrow. Despite efforts of guards several small holes and "boils" were appearing in the levees.

The Skunk, Fabius, Iowa, Rock and Henderson rivers, tributaries of the Mississippi, also were reported near flood stage. Levee district dwellers were prepared to evacuate their homes.

Hannibal and Canton, Mo., reported many homes surrounded by water. Factories and business establishments have been closed.

Green Bay, Wis., recovering from a damaging sleetstorm Sunday was threatened by rising bay waters and overflow of the Fox River.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Washington, Tuesday, April 2—8 P. M.

Forcast for the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Fair Wednesday and Thursday with slowly rising temperature; moderate southwest winds.

The storm that was central over southeastern Ontario Monday evening has moved to Belle Isle, 29.24 inches, while pressure is low and falling over the western Canadian Provinces. The Pas, Man., 29.48 inches, with a trough of low pressure extending southwestward to the Plateau region. Pressure has risen over Alaska and Yukon. St. Paul, Pribilof Islands, 30.62 inches, while the high-pressure area that was over the middle Mississippi Valley has moved to the Atlantic coast, Norfolk, Va., 30.48 inches. During the last 24 hours there have been rains or snows in portions of the New England States and the Canadian maritime provinces, and light snow in portions of the Lake region. Elsewhere the weather has been mostly fair. The temperature has fallen considerably along the Atlantic seaboard, while there has been a reaction to higher temperature over much of the remainder of the country.

The indications are for mostly fair weather in the Washington forecast district Wednesday and Thursday, except that there will be increasing cloudiness Thursday, probably followed by showers near the lower Lakes. The temperature will rise slowly over much of the district except the Southeastern States.

Having prescribed "Dr. Gordshell's Salve" for more than 40 years, and having knowledge of same for more than 50 years, I wish to say that I have found it an excellent preparation in the treatment of Boils, and similar eruptions.

We have sold it in our drug store for the past 50 years, and have had good reports of its effects.

I write you this letter, feeling that physicians should be more thoroughly acquainted with its merits.

Very truly yours,

The Return of OLD KING BRADY

Revived by MERLE W. HERSEY

Old King Brady to the Rescue.

In the fourth chapter the governor receives another threatening letter; Old King Brady keeps the governor's tryst and rescues a woman who is being choked to death. She turns evidence and promises to aid Old King Brady to recover the child.

ONCE again Old King Brady proved to be right. On the morning following their conversation Gov Strong received a letter bearing a Chicago postmark. He took it directly to the Bradys. It read thus:

"Governor:

"You have deceived us. Beware!

"When or how we shall kill your granddaughter we shall not say, but it shall be done and the letters published unless you act in our favor at once. Show this letter to the Bradys if you dare! Remain at the hotel. Before the day is out information will come to you.

"THE COMMITTEE."

"Don't lose heart," said the old detective. "We know who our enemies are and I should despise myself if I failed to round them up."

"But your advice, man! Your advice!" cried the governor impatiently.

"Is for you to disguise yourself as me and let me disguise as you, and then leave matters in my hands."

They accordingly made the disguises and separated.

"And now," said Harry, "we can get busy, Alice. I'll start shadowing that fellow while you look up Mag."

On the opposite corner stood a well-dressed Italian whom Harry had decided was a spy of the enemy. As for Alice's mission it grew out of a bunch of love letters the Bradys had found among Riffaldi's effects, all signed "Your loving Mag." Alice had located the address given. Old King Brady felt that sooner or later Riffaldi would visit his "loving Mag."

Meanwhile, Old King Brady made himself comfortable at the hotel Late in the afternoon a card was brought up to him bearing the name, "Mrs Crispino."

He at once descended to the parlor A lady sitting over in one corner raised her hand slightly. He went up to her, saying "Mrs. Crispino?"

"Yes. You are Gov. Strong?"

The old detective seated himself beside her. "Yes."

"I have called to see if you have anything to say for publication in the Italian newspaper published at St. Louis. I am the editor's daughter and he telephoned me to get an interview."

"I don't know that I have anything to say. But go ahead and I'll answer your questions."

Mrs. Crispino rapidly wrote down in abbreviated long hand his ambiguous replies to her questions. She extended the pad to the old detective saying, "Read it over and see that I have reported it correctly."

Old King Brady read it through, and then he understood. The last lines ran thus "Tonight at midnight. Clark street bridge the full amount or the child dies. Come alone or you will not see us. No other chance will be offered you."

"It is quite correct, Mrs. Crispino. I will follow the instructions."

"Fooled again," muttered old King Brady.

Midnight found the detectives on the Clark street bridge. There were many people coming and going; presently a woman brushed by and lightly laid her hand on his arm. He followed her.

Mrs. Crispino led the way, covering the trail which Young King Brady had traversed in the morning. Old King Brady felt satisfied that he was being shadowed. His wagon stopped. He started again — the wagon started "They'll get me sure if I follow them to their destination," he thought. "I must give them the slip."

The old detective suddenly dodged into an alleyway. Here he quickly changed his make-up. He was again Old King Brady.

The wagon had stopped up the street and a man was talking to Mrs. Crispino. They were evidently puzzled. Old King Brady had accomplished his purpose—he was now in the enemy's rear.

"That might be Tony Pitato," reflected the old detective, although he had never seen him.

The man and woman went down the street and entered a tenement. Old King Brady passed, noting the number carefully. He was uncertain just how to proceed. Suddenly he saw Mrs. Crispino appear at one of the windows. She seemed to be trying to defend herself. An instant later a man came into view and seized her by the throat, dragging her out of sight.

A Desperate Quarrel.

"A quarrel! He is going for her because she lost her man," thought Old King Brady. "I think I'll take a hand in that little family jar and get that fellow."

He hastily crossed the street and entered the tenement. He heard a scream. Reaching the door he threw it open. Mrs. Crispino lay on the floor moaning. The man stood over her with a wicked-looking knife raised above her breast.

His attention was attracted by the opening of the door and he turned. Quick as a flash the old detective struck the hand that held the knife into the air, while with his right foot he tripped the fellow up.

"Alla right, boss! Don't shoot. I giva up!" whined the man.

"Stand up!" ordered Old King Brady. The fellow rose, made a rush for the old detective and tried to grab the revolver. Then he darted through the door and ran down the stairs. The woman still lay moaning on the floor.

"Was that your husband?" demanded Old King Brady.

"No, oh, no" she replied. "It is lucky you came when you did or he would have killed me." She rose slowly to her feet. "We are far from being safe here, sir," she continued. "He will surely return and do us both up."

"Then, come with me, if you are able, and I will see you safe wherever you want to go."

They descended to the street and walked on in silence. The woman kept eying him slyly. Finally, seeing she was evidently afraid to speak, the old detective asked, "Do you want that man arrested?"

"Arrested!" flashed Mrs. Crispino. "I should like to see him hung! He will never live to raise his hand to me again."

"Don't make threats, Mrs. Crispino If that man should be found dead some day it might result in you being hung yourself."

She gave a violent start. "Who are you?" she demanded.

"I am a detective. It is my business to know things," said Old King Brady.

She was silent.

"You fear others besides that fellow," said the old detective. "Let me prove to you how much I know. You were at the Palmer House this evening playing reporter and pretending to interview Gov. Strong."

She gave a slight scream and started to run.

"Stop!" ordered Old King Brady. "Don't do that or you will force me to arrest you."

She halted instantly.

"Now be sensible if you want your revenge. It was by my advice that Gov. Strong gave you the slip. If you will come over to my side your revenge is certain. Of course, your common sense ought to tell you that Gov. Strong will never turn over $100,000. The demand is ridiculous."

"That's what I said in the first place," she muttered. "Will there be anything coming my way if I do?"

"I can guarantee you $1,000 if you will fix it so that we get the child."

"And that without me giving him away?" she asked quickly.

"Ah, I see! You love him still."

"I hate him!" she cried fiercely, "but I fear his friends."

"Fix it so that we can get little Mabel Ray and you get your thousand."

"I'll go you," said the woman. "You have alreday mentioned the name of the man who tried to choke me."

"Ha! So! Then his name is Tony Pitato."

She was silent.

"Will you tell me where you are going?"

She gave a number on Fulton street.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

UNNOTICED.

They never interviewed him. By the camera and pen
His deeds were not recorded to be read by other men.
He was never in the papers, front or second page or third.
Of his labors in the vineyard only those who knew him heard,
For his life was very simple. Many kindly things he'd done,
But in dealing with his fellows he had never used a gun.

He was useful in his business and of money made enough.
He was honest, he was decent, but was not good copy stuff.
He kept a little garden which he tinkered round at night,
And he gave away the blossoms to his neighbors, left and right,
But the papers made no mention of his presence in the town,
For he never was a gangster of unsavory renown.

The poor who knew him loved him for the pity in his smile;
He had helped them bear their burdens over many a rugged mile;
But there wasn't much reporters could relate about his life,
For although he'd made some money he'd stayed faithful to his wife.
So he lived and died, unnoticed, just a toiler in the rank,
Who had never shot a rival and had never robbed a bank!

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE BANANA CRISIS.

Panama and other Central American countries are stirred by the proposal for a higher duty on bananas. Their newspapers ask what they are to understand when a country professes good will with one hand and tries to smack the banana industry with the other.

• • • •

Feeling is running high in Latin America over the matter, and diplomats fear a possible severing of relations or, as it were, a banana split.

• • • •

Shall the banana go? That seems to be the question.

• • • •

Is this noble fruit to become a luxury? Is it to be made so difficult to obtain that it may eventually be obtained only from speculators? Is America to put the seal of indorsement on banana prohibition?

• • • •

Those are fair questions to which the answer "Who want to know?" will not suffice.

• • • •

The banana has come to occupy a high place in American life. It has become endeared to people in all walks of life. What would a fruit basket be without one? How about the shoebox lunch for the Sunday outing? What would the church picnic, the Ford excursion, the children's party be without bananas? What? And again what?

• • • •

What would the suitcase lunch, the sideboard fruit dish, the pantry or the corner fruit store be if it had no bananas? What would vaudeville humor be without them? What would bananaless newspaper columns be like? Where would the popular song business of 1923-24-25 have been?

• • • •

Bananas have been symbols of life and laughter. They have meant spring and hand-organs and picnics and jokes about policemen. They have been Little Willie's reward for bringing in the wood and Sister Sarah's compensation for sticking to her piano lessons.

• • • •

And now it is proposed to levy such a high duty on them that it may be necessary to smuggle them into the country and handle them through banana bootleggers!

• • • •

The time may come when a man will take you to a closet, unlock it, point to a case in the corner and whisper in elation, "Real Central American bananners, just off a boat."

• • • •

Something should be done. Write your congressman now!

ARE THERE ANY SMITHS AMONG THE SMITH BROTHERS?

Now the Lofts have been forced out of the Loft Candy Corporation. Coming so soon after the ousting of all the Childs from the Childs Co., this looks as if the country were having a series of Oust the Founders Weeks.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, has lived the past year on a meat diet. This is the first time it was generally known he was that wealthy.

Mr. Stefansson says his experiment proves that, provided you get plenty of exercise, a meat diet is okay. The exercise one gets looking for a good steak is ample.

Word comes from any number of prison wardens that in case any of those congressmen are convicted under the Jones law, they will be very glad to give them "free entry."

McDonald Plans New Arctic Trip

Chicago Radio Man to Accompany McMillan North in June on Allegro—Comes to City in Luxurious Yacht.

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

Paying a visit to Washington on his new seagoing yacht Allegro, Commander E. F. McDonald, jr., Chicago radio manufacturer and Arctic explorer, said yesterday that the biggest radio production era is just ahead that the country has ever known.

"The reason for this," Commander McDonald explained, "is that everything which was built in the way of a receiving set up to a year ago is now obsolete with regard to tone quality. Sets made during the past year and at present embody the new tone effects.

"Every one will want the new type of receiver and speaker. However we have now reached a standard which we did not have before. In the past it was necessary to change a set every year to keep step. Today a person buying a radio set is buying a permanent fixture and like a piano hereafter it will not need to be changed every year.

"The improvement we are going to see in the future is going to be in the program and perfection and balance of orchestras rather than in a change of receiving set."

Commander McDonald said that he had bought the Allegro, which was docked at the navy yard yesterday morning between the Mayflower and the Sylph in order to accompany Commander Donald B. McMillan this summer on the latter's trip to the Arctic. Commander McDonald went north with MacMillan in 1923 as a member of the crew and in 1925 in command of the Peary, of which expedition Commander Byrd was also a member.

There was a striking difference between the modern Allegro and the Mayflower and the Sylph, both of which had seen their best days and a few hours later started for what may be their last resting places.

The Allegro, the twenty-third boat which Commander McDonald has owned, is driven by 2,800-horsepower Diesels, is 185 feet in length, is of 590 tons' displacement, has a cruising speed of 15 knots an hour, with a maximum speed of 17 knots, and carries a crew of 27.

It is one of the most handsomely furnished yachts seen in these waters in some time. There are eight staterooms, the baths of each of which have salt as well as fresh water. For the sake of saving space the baths, rather than being full length, are sunk deeper in one end than another, a well within a bathtub, as it were. Otherwise in spaciousness, regular beds instead of berths, the staterooms have the appearance of luxurious hotel suites. That guests may not be subjected to outdoor rigor a full-lngth inside passage runs the length of the boat.

Just as a cobbler's children are supposed to be without shoes the yacht of Commander McDonald, who is the president of the Zenith Radio Corporation, at the moment is lacking in radio equipment.

"We have everything aboard excepting a radio and a piano," Commander McDonald said laughingly. "We, of course, have a direction finder and standard radio ship equipment, but as soon as we get to New York I am going to put aboard a new radio set for entertainment purposes and short-wave apparatus for use in the Arctic."

Commander McDonald, who is a bachelor, tall and slender, with jet-black hair and who on his looks any day could get a job as a leading man in the movies, has always had a maritime bent and a most unusual avocation.

It is to don a diver's suit and prowl around the bottom of the Great Lakes. When the Favorite, an excursion ship, was struck by an unusual puff of wind and blown over a year ago last June on the Chicago waterfront Commander McDonald was among the first to arrive upon the scene. He quickly jumped into a diving suit, descended into Lake Michigan and proved himself a hero among the rescuers. The ill-fated boat was loaded with women and children and about 30 lives were lost. As a result of his work that day Commander McDonald received a vote of thanks from the Chicago city council.

Because Commander McDonald must go back to Chicago he has turned the Allegro over to his friend, Representative Fred Britten, of Illinois, here for the next week. Upon his return to Washington Commander McDonald will take the yacht to New York, where he will pick up his mother and sister who are now crossing the Atlantic, and the boat will then proceed via the northern route to Chicago.

Once there, Commander McDonald, who, because of his exploration accomplishments, was made a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, will proceed to fit the yacht up for the MacMillan trip to Baffinsland.

"In the North we propose to map some territory which has never before been mapped," Commander McDonald said. "Under the British law no one who is not a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society can name new territory or affix names that will be accepted, but since Commander MacMillan and myself are both fellows we are all right on that score."

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

APRIL 3.

MARGARET ANGLIN, one of the most famous actresses of modern times, was born this day, 1876, in Ottawa, Canada, where her father was speaker of the House of Commons.

Thousands of American theatergoers felt the power of her superb ability in such roles as Roxane in "Cyrano de Bergerac," with the late Richard Mansfield, and as leading lady with Charles Frohman. Her acting as star in "The Great Divide," with Henry Miller, created a veritable sensation in the dramatic world. Audiences in England Australia and Egypt received her with enthusiasm equal to that of Americans. Her more recent plays include "The Electra," "The Woman of Bronze," "The Trial of Joan of Arc" and "Iphigenia in Aulis."

Other noted women born this day include Mary Carpenter, English educator and social reformer, 1807; Olive, Princess of Cumberland 1772; Harriett Elizabeth P. Spafford, American author, 1835; Augusta Huiell Seaman, American author, 1879, and Lulu Case, photoplay writer, 1876.

Post Writer To Speak on Air Tonight

Carlisle Bargeron Talks on Politics Over WRC at 7:45 — "Young Wife" Drama on WMAL at 8. "Jolly Scot" Over WOL.

"The Political Situation in Washington Tonight" will be discussed at 7:45 o'clock from Station WRC by Carlisle Bargeron, political writer for The Post. Mr. Bargeron is a member of the House and Senate Press Galleries and vice president of the White House Correspondents Association. He has been associated with The Post for more than five years. During the political campaign last fall he traveled with both President Hoover and former Gov. Smith. He also made an independent survey prior to the election which carried him to more than 25 States.

Songs of old Spain, the heritage of California frontiers from singing Conquistadores, will be broadcast by the Sunkist Serenaders at 8 o'clock. Julian Oliver, Spanish tenor, will appear as the vocal soloist with the native string orchestra.

The Utica Jubilee Singers will be guests during the third national program of the Happy Wonder Bakers at 8:30 o'clock from WRC.

The Ipana Troubadours will begin their fifth year as regular radio broadcasters at 9 o'clock tonight. The Troubadours will celebrate their birthday this year by featuring the newest composition of the authors of "Smiles," the number with which the Troubadours have opened and closed each of their programs since the initial broadcast of April 8, 1924. J. Will Callahan and Lee Roberts, who wrote "Smiles," have collaborated on "Out of the Mist" and the Troubadours have chosen this new fox-trot as an appropriate feature for their birthday celebration. S. C. Lanin, who has directed the Troubadours during their entire radio career, will wield the baton as they enter the fifth year as purveyors of happy dance music.

Fritz Kreisler's "Tambourin Chinois" will be played by a symphony orchestra as the classical eature of the Palmolive hour to be broadcast at 9:30 o'clock from WRC. Under the direction of Gustave Haenschen, the orchestra will also play a new transcription of "St. Louis Blues." Paul Oliver and Olive Palmer, vocal soloists, will present as their duet this week, "Whip-poor-will" from "Sally."

Lois Lorraine, contralto crooner, will appear as guest soloist in the Gold Strand Orchestra program at 10:30 o'clock. Fred Vettel, tenor, will also appear as assisting soloist, offering Del Riego's "Homing" and the gypsy song, "Roses of Romany."

The program of slumber music to be heard at 11 o'clock includes overture "Jolly Robbers," von Suppe; "Vineyard Idylle," Didier; "Venetian Serenade," Luzzatte; selection from "Dollar Princess," Fall; "Frische Geister," waltz by Strauss; prelude to act two of "Cyrano de Bergerac," Damrosch; "Devotion," Herbert, and "Dream," Wagner.

"The Young Wife," a drama in four acts, will be the next offering of Hank Simmons' Show Boat at 8 o'clock, from WMAL.

A medley from "The Broadway Melody," currently showing at the Columbia, will be featured in the hour that WMAL will present at 9 o'clock. A quartet will contribute "Chlorinda" and "Way Down South in Heaven" during the same broadcast.

The Kolster Radio Hour will present the following: "Marche Heroique," Saint-Saens; "Arioso," Bach; "Valse Caprice," Rubinstein; theme and variations from Piano Quintet, Opus 114, in A Major, Schubert, and "Butterfly Etude," Chopin.

"Old Rosin, the Beau," famous song of the nineteenth century, will be featured in the program that Daguerreotypes will present at 10:30 o'clock from WMAL. Other outstanding songs of yesteryear include Paul Dresser's "If You See My Sweetheart," Mrs. Osgood's song, "Call Me Pet Names, Dearest," and "Frankie and Johnnie."

Hook Kennedy, "The Jolly Scot," needs no introduction to the radio audience. He will present a fifteen minute program from WOL at 7 o'clock this evening. Mr. Kennedy will be accompanied by Grace Stanley Stevens. Dorothy Seamans will be heard during the program in a violin solo or two.

James Keane, an old stage star, will appear before the microphone for the first time tonight, in a group of songs and recitations of special interest to the older of the radio listeners.

The Wardman Park Orchestra will broadcast a two-hour dance program starting at 10 o'clock.

The Hawaiian Melody Boys will be on WJSV for a half hour at 9:15 o'clock, followed by Fran Trappe, and a group of "Old Time Tunes." The Hilo Boys and the Manassas Trio are also scheduled during the early evening.

What Today Means to You

April 3.

"ARIES."

IF April 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you today are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 3:45 p. m. to 5 p. m.; the danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Today's planetary aspects do not indicate anything of a startling character. Rather do they counsel the "sticking to the last" policy, and an ordinary routine promises the fewest difficulties. In the evening the influences will be serene, and favorable to those who feel constrained to exchange those vows which bind two hearts together and make them one.

The child born today will be full of vim, endowed with a saving sense of humor and gifted with a cheerful and optimistic disposition. It will have its outbursts, but they will be of brief duration, and it will never sulk. Intelligent, practical and industrious, it will make its mark at school and, in its maturer years, will attain considerable success.

You are doubtful of yourself and have the "if" habit very badly. Not much success awaits you until you can replace this by the "will" habit. You are exceptionally intelligent, and your mediocre standing is entirely attributable to your attitude of mind.

Circumstances may contribute to your failures, but you should remember that "determined men and women alter circumstances." If you were to take this as your motto and abandon defeatist catch phrases that are merely the lame excuses of the self-pitying, you could achieve much and travel far. There is only one place for "if" in the language: "I can do it—if I will."

You are too disposed to trust to others to do things for you, rather than do them yourself. The world may owe you a living, but it is your job to go out and collect it.

Your disposition is not a very cheerful one, and you always show a tinge of envy of those who have succeeded when you have failed. You take yourself altogether too seriously; laughter blows away life's cobwebs; grumbling leaves them there.

You are not very fond of outdoor activities, and if you could cultivate a liking for these, your outlook on life would be changed for the better. Your home promises to be placid, but lacking in thrills.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

NEW YORK, April 2, 1929.—Cloth of straw, as soft and supple as silk, is the next thing you may find yourself wearing. After two years of experimental work a French textile firm has succeeded in producing a fabric, woven of palm-leaf fiber, which is so flexible that it can satisfy the famous test of the "ring velvet" of grandfather's day—it can be passed through a lady's ring!

The idea came from French Africa, where the natives weave their scanty costumes of the same fiber.

• • • •

As a matter of fact, it is there that the fabric is being made, but after being taken to France it undergoes a lengthy treatment to make it suitable for use, in which it is sterilized to remove possible germs, boiled to remove the oiliness, and bleached. It is then dyed or printed, and passed between heavy rollers under a considerable temperature to make it absolutely smooth.

In keeping with its French colonial origin, the fabric is usually printed or embroidered in motifs taken from primitive Congo art, which have received so much attention in art circles in recent years.

It is not only light and soft, but is absolutely waterproof. It is being employed for afternoon coats, sports wear and even evening gowns.

• • • •

It takes just a little thought and attention to careful planning to dress your Petite Adorable in the smartest and cunningest styles.

Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet which is full of new spring dresses for Wee Mamzelle—and the directions for making them.

There is a little black velvet princess dress, a little flower-petal frock for dancing school, a new kind of lingerie, which solves the problem of the smart and so-short frocks, a little spring bonnet—and a lot more!

The importance that jeweled ornaments play in the evening mode is illustrated in one Worth gown of pale pink satin, on simple lines—with jeweled shoulder straps worth 10,000 francs ($400).

A large oblong imitation diamond rests on the shoulder, from it drop two narrow strands of eight diamonds cut on the old-fashioned rose pattern, then a large emerald, then continuation of the double row of diamonds, terminating in a two-branched ornament combining emeralds and diamonds.

• • • •

Rodier's first kasha with gold woven stripes was a failure, simply because the kasha was supple and gave, and the threads didn't, and broke. But as soon as this was ascertained, a remedy was found—and today some of the most beautiful Rodier fabrics have gold or silver threads successfully woven into them.

In the ensemble from Jenny that I sketched for you today, the coat is of a pale green woolen fabric with woven gold threads, and is trimmed with gold stitching on the ends of the scarf collar. The dress is of matching green crepe de chine, trimmed simply with gold buttons, and the collar is stitched with gold threads.

Visits in South America.

II. PERU

PERU was the chief home of the ancient Inca race, and you will still find remains of those Indians. The remains include roads, wooden bridges and carved rocks.

The Spaniards conquered Peru four centuries ago, and made slaves of the Incas, so far as they could. Thousands of the Indians labored in mines, bringing forth gold to be shipped to Spain.

Peruvian boys using carved rock as a toboggan. (Near Cuzco.)

A large part of the Inca race died out in the course of harsh treatment, but some lived through it all. There are "pure-breed" Indians to be found in Peru today, along with great numbers of half-breeds.

The capital of the Inca empire was known as Cuzco, and there is a city by the same name on the spot today. It contains about 20,000 persons; in the days of the empire it was far larger.

Near Cuzco are interesting carved rocks, which include images of Inca gods. Round about those rocks boys of Peru have sport, sliding down steep places. They get along very well in that sport if they do not wear holes in their trousers.

The modern capital of Peru is Lima, a city with a population of a quarter of a million. Lima is a dreamy place, blessed with a great number of palm trees. It contains the oldest college in either North or South America. The college has grown fairly large, and is now called the University of San Marcos. It was started in 1551.

There is a market place in Lima where active trading goes on. Men come to it from the country with donkeys loaded with fruits, flowers and vegetables. Sometimes a trader arrives the night before market day in order to secure a good place, camping on the sidewalk all night with his donkey. A widely used coin of Peru is the sole, which has a value of about half a dollar.

South opened the bidding with a Spade; West overcalled with Hearts; North helped the Spades; and South eventually obtained a Spade contract.

West, not wishing to lead from a tenace suit which East had not supported, led originally the King of Diamonds. When that card won, he led a small Diamond which East won with the Ace and returned the suit. South trumped the third Diamond and led a trump. East won and led a Club. South won, exhausted the adverse trumps, led his last high Club and, scorning the Heart finesse the safety of which was practically assured by the bidding, made game by discarding his two losing Hearts on Dummy's good Clubs.

What did somebody overlook?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

With the Diamond Ace in his own hand, East could infer that West led from King-Queen; with seven Diamonds in the North and East hands, it was probable that South had only two; therefore the winning of two Diamond tricks by East and West seemed likely, the winning of more than two unlikely. East was sure of his trump Ace and could make the game-saving fourth trick if a Heart should be led after he (East) had parted with his singleton and before he lost all his trumps.

East might have saved game as follows:—Trick 1, East overtake West's king of Diamonds; trick 2, East leads his Heart singleton up to Dummy's Ace-Queen. (Winning trick 2, North would lead a trump.) Trick 3, East wins with the Ace of trumps; trick 4, East puts West in with a Diamond; trick 5, East ruffs West's inevitable return of a Heart.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Mother or Mother-in-Law."

DEAR Miss McDonald—I am a constant reader of your column and think the advice you give is very enlightening to everyone who reads same. I, for one, wouldn't miss one article you have in the paper.

I am 25 years old and my mother has been a widow for seven years. I have had a high school education which was made possible through the hard work and efforts of my mother, and let me say right now that no daughter was ever more proud of or loved her mother any more than I do mine. Mother has a fairly good position.

I have a good position, too, now, but have always gotten up at 6 o'clock in the morning and helped around the house before going to work, and clean the entire house by myself every Sunday, as I have to. I work all day Saturday, I have spent most of my money that I could have saved or spent foolishly on furniture, &c., for the home. Grandfather owns the house in which we live and lives with us, and—it isn't a palace, so to speak, but I am very proud of it.

I have been going with a young man for two years, being childhood chums, and we now want to be married. Mother is very fond of him, too. He is a doctor. We don't want to go by ourselves just yet and both of our parents want us to live with them. At my home there is not room. There is plenty of room at my friend's house and he now has a large room to himself and his mother is just as anxious for us to live there as my mother is for us to stay at my home. Besides there is room for his office in the house.

The thing that has "gotten" me is that mother, who rooms with me wants us to live at my home and take my bed room, and is willing to pile up the rest of the family. She says she is afraid I won't get along with his mother, but I am easy to get along with and don't think I will have any trouble with her. I have spent quite a bit of time with his mother and we always get along together and she is very fond of me—having known me from a child.

Also, sister and I don't get along so well, as she is an irresponsible girl, a typical flapper, and never helps with the work at home—which does annoy and irritate me beyond endurance.

My husband-to-be has made the request that as long as I work after we are married and continue to live at his home that I give my mother an allotted sum of money each pay day. His hours make it hard, too, to live at my home, as he is called at night. Mother also says that he can get his own lunch while we are at business, but he doesn't agree with her there. His mother is home all day and could fix them for him, and I agree with him.

Please understand that mother wants me to marry him and wants us to live at home as long as I work and longer if we care to.

The question that is hard for me to solve is, would I be doing wrong by leaving my mother and going to live with his mother?

Thanking you many, many times in advance for your indulgence in this long letter. TROUBLED BRIDE.

It would be utterly silly to upset your entire household from grandfather down to the brand-new husband by trying to live with your mother. You start the experiment in discomfort and would end in seething misery.

Since you must live at either house, go to the one where at least there is room, where the doctor can have an office and proper food, and where your mother will still have your loyalty demonstrated in practical financial help.

Remember, the doctor comes first now. So live where he feels he will have the best chance to provide for you both. Mother will see it in the end.

And my best wishes for your happiness!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SEASON FOR SMALLPOX.

THIS is the smallpox season. This menace will hang over us until July. Severe smallpox surges out of the North and the mild disease flows up from the South, thus showing climatic heat to be an enemy of the disease. It is also true that there is no other cold weather and cold climate disease that holds on so well in the hot season. A spring epidemic of diphtheria, scarlet fever or measles will peter out a month earlier in the summer. It takes pretty hot weather to wipe out a smallpox epidemic.

No American community is satisfactorily vaccinated against smallpox. Even those cities that had epidemics of severe smallpox a few years ago are getting in dangerous waters again. Under the influence of fear of the old-fashioned smallpox then prevailing, some cities got their people satisfactorily vaccinated. But that happened several years ago, and meanwhile large unvaccinated groups have developed. Some of these unprotected people are children born since the epidemic, some are people who have moved in from elsewhere, some are people who were once protected but who are no longer so because their immunity has worn out.

Dr Mary T. Muldoon investigated the duration of immunity following smallpox vaccination in two schools located at Waverly and Baldwin, Mass. The number of children was 1,600. The revaccinations were done in 1928, the preceding ones in 1921 and 1923. In a group not vaccinated since 1921, 80 per cent were found susceptible to smallpox. The percentage found susceptible in the group vaccinated in 1923 was 44. Putting it differently, it was found that if 1,600 children were properly vaccinated now, five years later, or in 1934, more than 1,000 could be infected. In 1936 this number of susceptibles would rise to nearly 1,500.

As a rule, people who have been successfully vaccinated are not easily infected. But given enough exposure, they are liable to succumb. As a rule, when they have smallpox the disease runs a mild course. This, too, is a rule to which there are exceptions.

IT'S A SIGN OF NOTHING.

E. W. writes: What is the cause of electricity in the hair? When combing my hair I hear a crackling sound, and this is especially noticeable after a shampoo. I have been informed that this is a sign of good hair or a healthy condition.

REPLY.

It is a sign of nothing. Everybody has it. You will not be troubled after the weather warms up and the air becomes more moist. Try to worry along until Congress adjourns. Then you will be all right.

YOUR BOY—YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

The Parent Counselor.

Selling an Education.

A PROFESSOR of education in Columbia University has been investigating the money value of a college education. A year of study convinces him that a college education is a distinct detriment to the earning capacity, and the popular notion that every year spent in college adds a definite number of dollars to an individual's earning power is false.

The professor says: "You can not train 100,000 people for 90,000 jobs without creating pressure to decrease the remuneration of the 90,000. Education is just as much a commodity as wheat and must be governed by the laws of economics. You can not have the present percentage of high schools and expect them all to go into the 'higher callings.' If all tried to do so, salaries would drop to unbelievable levels. The higher callings might even be more overcrowded than the field of unskilled labor is today."

Well this is interesting! So education is a commodity to be bought and sold in the market! We can imagine youth as walking up to the sales counter of the college president saying, "Dad has given me $6,000. What can I buy?" The president might reply, "We have a special sale this week of masters' degrees at $5,850.48; the usual price is $4,500."

Under this plan of education as a commodity the student who graduated is to approach possible employers with the words, "What am I offered for one first-class degree which has never been used? You can see, sir, there isn't a scratch on it. If you prefer, I can quote you prices at carload lots."

This idea that education in general is a commodity is false. The only place where it is directly sold or bought like wheat is in colleges and schools. An education dub with a Ph. D. can buy a college position where a man with only a B. A. can only purchase a high-school job.

This coming summer thousands of teachers will go to school for a 30 hours' course, and as a reward for their sacrifice of time and money will receive under regulations of boards of education, an increase of salary. A recognition on the part of those who made these rules that education and wheat are both marketable products. Not education but credits transferred into dollars.

While this professor may know his onions as far as college jobs and the professions are concerned, he is laboring under that same type of delusion that an economist-banker had a few years ago when he told us that the automobile market would soon reach a point of saturation. He was wrong and two years ago acknowledged it.

In a distant past labor unions believed that there was only so much work to go around. A fallacy now disproved.

The professor is likely to recommend "a system of State control to limit the number of persons studying for the professions in order to keep the salaries from dropping lower and lower." About as sensible as for the automobile manufacturers to pass laws limiting the production of cars in order to keep the prices up. The young gentleman should take a job with Mr. Ford for a while.

Tomorrow—"False Doctrine."

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Gave Faith and Got It Back.

A young man whom I know quite well got into trouble and was sent to a reform school. He had two years in high school was a reader of good books and really loved nice things.

Now I want to help him at the time when he needs it most. I write him once in a while in order to instill confidence in himself and to help him keep the right perspective, not that he might forget his punishment but that he might remember it so it may bring about what is intended. Can you help me to help him? A FRIEND.

Answer—I seldom favor a young girl corresponding with a man, old or young, who has been sentenced to confinement. Most of these fellows behind the bars like to correspond with anybody and everybody for reasons which are not as above board as they would appear. This, however, is an exceptional case and I wish that all of the associates of this boy would write him, send him books, reading them beforehand just as you suggested, and then discussing the contents of the books in their letters to him.

There is no reason why this boy should not make good except that perfectly atrocious reason, namely, that the public will not always trust him, give him a job or relieve him from being suspected of every crime which appears on the surface after he is out. That is punishment enough for any boy who has a desire to make good. In proportion as his friends write him will this stress of the life after prison be relieved.

PRICES MOVE AHEAD AS TRADING SHRINKS

CALL FUNDS 12 PER CENT

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—Prices made substantial recoveries throughout the list in today's stock market, but speculative sentiment appeared to have cooled off, and the day's turnover fell off to 3,776,870 shares, in contrast to the record of 8,246,740 just a week ago.

While a number of cheerful news developments inspired professional traders to constructive operations, persistently high money rates and the widespread publicity given the credit situation during the past week seemed to have discouraged public participation for the moment.

The most unsavory development of the day came after the close, when the stock exchange announced that member loans reached a new high record at $6,804,457,408, on March 30, a gain of $125,911,491 since the end of February, more than offsetting the drop of $56,618,000 during that month. The new total compares with $4,640,174,172 at the end of March last year.

Call Funds Held at 12 Per Cent.

Call money held at 12 per cent all day. Late in the forenoon it appeared that the rate would go lower, but banks called about $40,000,000 around midday. Some time money for 30 to 60 days was said to have been loaned at 9 per cent, the highest rate since early in 1920, but funds of this character mostly moved at 8¾ per cent. Some improvement in credit is expected within a day or two, after the April 1 dividend and interest checks are cleared.

One of the brightest spots in the day's news was the statement of President Grace, of the Bethlehem Steel Co., that the outlook for the industry remained excellent. He said that Bethlehem had exceeded its rated ingot capacity during March, and new business warrants the prediction that the high rate will be maintained during April.

Vice President Brownell, of American Smelting, said the higher copper prices were adding about $1.40 a share to the company's current annual rate of earnings. Cerro de Pasco was another copper company to increase its dividend rate.

McFadden's Advice Satisfies.

Wall street found much satisfaction in the advice to the Federal Reserve Board of Chairman McFadden, of the House banking and currency committee board, "to let Wall street alone."

The oil shares developed outstanding group strength on reports that crude production fell off sharply last week. Houston and Indian Refining rose 4 and 5 points to new peaks, while Pan-American issues, Shell Union and Standard of New Jersey gained new high grounds in gains of 2 or 3 points.

Some of the high priced issues were bid up sharply. Adams Express was sent up 35 points to a record price at 625, American Express and American Railways Express were bid up more than 16 points each, but were unable to maintain their gains. Commercial Solvents mounted 26¼ points to a record price of 285. International Telephone advanced more than 11 points to 272¼, but closed at 268½.

Bethlehem Up More Than 3 Points.

Bethlehem Steel sold up more than 3 points on the statement of President Grace, and steels generally were firm. Motor shares started forward on report of record March production, but failed to attract a following, as unconfirmed rumors that the recent breaks on the stock market had caused considerable cancellation of orders persisted.

General Motors and Hudson gained about 2 points, and Pierce Arrow preferred sold up more than 9. In the coppers Greene Cananea made an extreme gain of about 6 points, while others made little headway. New York Central was a strong point of the rails, mounting more than 3 points.

Baldwin Locomotive was a soft spot, dropping 13 points on a small turnover. Eastman Kodak yielded 2 points on the 1928 earnings statement, showing a slight retraction from 1927. Chile Copper sold about 5 points at one time, but regained part of its loss.

The commodities were irregular. Wheat futures mounted about a cent a bushel on unfavorable weather in the Southwest, while corn eased. Cotton sold off on private estimates of increased acreage, but closed fairly steady.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, with sterling holding steady, and the Canadian dollar improving slightly.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Business: Fox Film Corporation is one of the largest companies in the world engaged in the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures and has 130 offices throughout the world. Its production embraces feature pictures, both silent and in sound, educational pictures, comedies and a three times a week "Fox Movietone News" service.

In the talking motion picture field the Corporation features "Fox Movietone", the leading sound-on-film system. This method of producing all-talking sequences in feature pictures is also utilized in the production of "Fox Movietone News", which has attained a great popularity with motion picture audiences.

Equity and Assets: As at February 23, 1929, the Consolidated Balance Sheet of Fox Film Corporation and Subsidiary Companies, after giving effect to this financing, as prepared by independent auditors, reveals net tangible assets of approximately $71,053,000, an amount equivalent to $5,921 for each $1,000 of Notes, and net current assets of $18,743,000. The Class "A" Common Stock of the Company is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and, based on current quotations, has a market value in excess of $65,000,000.

The Notes: These Notes, in the opinion of counsel, will be a direct obligation of the Corporation, which covenants in the Notes that so long as they shall be outstanding, it will not create or assume, or issue any indebtedness, except unsecured obligations arising out of current operations, and unsecured bank loans for current operating accounts made in the usual course of business, maturing not more than 120 days from the date on which such obligations were incurred or such loans were made, as the case may be.

Earnings: The Consolidated Earnings of Fox Film Corporation and Subsidiary Companies, available for interest on these Notes, after all charges, for the two fiscal years ended December 29, 1928, as reported by independent auditors, is given below:

Year	Amount
1927 (53 weeks)	$3,370,556.72
1928 (52 weeks)	6,473,092.70
Annual interest requirements on this Issue	720,000.00

The above earnings for the year 1928 do not fully reflect the employment of funds received by the Corporation from the sale of 153,444 shares of its Class "A" Common Stock at $85 a share, offered to stockholders of record as of October 1, 1928.

Management and Organization: Fox Film Corporation is under the management of William Fox and associates, men of long experience in the motion picture business. Mr. William Fox is also President of Fox Theatres Corporation which has acquired a substantial stock interest in Loew's Incorporated, who produce, through a wholly owned subsidiary, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures.

around on the outside gallantly. Princess Tina had broken rather slowly, but she quickly went into the front division, where Tutti Frutti seemed to be in trouble from the break and was unable to improve his position.

The Heathen Enters Stretch Three Lengths in Front.

Before the turn out of the back stretch was reached Night Life had moved into second place, and Mowlee was right at his tail, while Son of John was being shuffled back out of the contention, as his stablemate, Princess Tina, moved up resolutely.

Swinging for home The Heathen was still three lengths to the good and Schaeffer had saved ground with him into the stretch. He was sending the Son of Donnacona along at his best pace and the old fellow was showing no signs of stopping. Night Life hung to the place, but Mowlee was gradually weakening him down, after having lost some ground swinging for home. The Heathen was still two lengths clear at the end and Night Life had just lasted to save the place from Mowlee by a nose, while Princess Tina was lapped on the Rancocas colt and a length before Clean Play, the first of the winter campaigners among those that started.

The performance of Tutti Frutti was the distinct disappointment of the running. There may have been racing excuses for his showing, but he will not be taken seriously on his winter form until he shows more than he did in this running.

The sport opened with a dash of 4 furlongs for 2-year-old maiden colts and geldings and the full limit of twelve went to the post. Collectively they were a good-looking lot and like all races for 2-year-olds in the early spring there were tips galore. Swatter, from the Harry Payne Whitney Stable; Phillip, from the Nevada Stock Farm, and R. W. Carter's Wild Apple were well touted by the clockers and all had a following. Some of them were a bit fractious, especially Phillip, who repeatedly broke through the barrier. When they were finally sent away Phillip was first to show and in the run around the far turn he drew into a commanding lead.

Swatter Finds Foot in Time To Take First Dash.

Workman was trailing him with Swatter and hunching the latter along at every stride in an effort to keep up. Just before entering the home stretch Swatter found his foot and, moving up with a rush, was on even terms with the pacemaker entering the home stretch. In the final furlong Phillip weakened and the finish found Swatter drawing away to win by two lengths and a half. Phillip beat R. T. Wilson jr.'s Voodoo three lengths for the place and then followed Wild Apple, another two lengths away. The latter ran a smashing good race. Breaking with the leaders on the inside, Wild Apple was caught in a jam and Mergler was forced to pull up and was eight or ten lengths back of the leader before they had gone a furlong. The colt closed in resolute fashion in the stretch run and

RACING RETURNS TO MARYLAND UNDER IDEAL SETTING AT BOWIE TRACK

Twenty thousand turf enthusiasts crowded Bowie yesterday to pay homage to the return of King Horse. The big attraction was the Inaugural Handicap, $5,000 added, which was won by The Heathen from the stable of C. H. Pierce. At the top (Hugh Miller, Post staff photographer), The Heathen is shown passing the finish. Lower right (Henry Miller Service), the winner parading to the judges' stand after the race. Johnson Says Hayes Will Start Believes He Can Hit Better Than Cronin During Season.

Tampa as Nats' Future Camp Is Not Yet Settled.

Special to The Washington Post.

TAMPA, April 2.—Before leaving by automobile this morning for Daytona Beach, where the Nationals meet the Montreal Royals as part of a Walter Johnson Day celebration tomorrow, Johnson reiterated that his assignment of Joe Cronin to second base in yesterday's game was not because of any dissatisfaction of Jack Hayes' work.

"I have a limited supply of infielders and plan to break in the utility men, so that they can fill two or three positions. Cronin is a great all-around ball player, and I simply wanted to see how he would look at second. In the same game I had 'Stuffy' Stewart at third for a while, and I'm liable to do considerable shifting of this kind before the season starts.

"As to Hayes at second, I think he is a good man there. Cronin has been hitting harder in the exhibition games of late, it is true, but in spite of this I consider Hayes the better man against good pitching. I rate Cronin most highly, however, and consider myself fortunate to have a fellow like him around, not only because of his ability, but because of his pep and spirit. He's a fine type of athlete with a really great baseball future, in my opinion."

Clyde Milan's thoughts today no doubt harkened back to 1922 when he was manager of the Washington Club, for in Walter Johnson's absence the coach is in charge of the team. He also will command the second squad here when it meets the Tampa Smokers, while the regulars are battling in Daytona Beach tomorrow.

Tomorrow's contest here should be a most intertaining one, as few in the Washington line-up will be playing their regular positions. Muddy Ruel will do the catching while Kenneth Douglass, Florida boy, who has been working out with the Nats, will do the flinging. Coach Gharrity, a former catcher, will be on third, with Outfielder Spencer Harris on first and Pitchers "Sad Sam" Jones and Lloyd Brown helping Coach Milan chase flies. Gooch, at short, and Stewart, at second, are familiar with the duties of these positions.

Before leaving here this morning, Manager Johnson and Clyde Milan entertained the Athletes with a discussion as to which was the greener when he first reported for a trial in pro ranks. Johnson won the argument with telling points.

"In the second game I pitched," said Johnson, "I stood on the mound and continually made fake throws toward bases with men on. The umpire evidently thought I couldn't be so green as to make these balks if I was on the rubber, although he never looked to see if I was, and each time refused to allow the other team's protest. It wasn't until after the game that Manager Joe Cantillon told me what a balk was. I did not even know there was such a thing."

"But the funniest thing happened the first time I ever got as far as second. I thought you could overrun that base the same as you could first, and confidently made the turn toward third. I learned differently after that game."

Johnson also told of how he was a "spitballer" once. As soon as he reported to the Washington Club, Cantillon told Catcher Warner to take him into the bull pen and see what he had. "You can't get by in this league with only speed," Warner told Johnson, who knew nothing about throwing a curve. "Suppose you try a spitball." And so for several games Walter declares, he moistened the ball, but could never get it to bend an inch, finally convincing Warner as well as other players

Hopkins Gives Lone Hit in 6 Innings

Smoker's Slam Hadley to Take Lead in First Inning.

Nats Find Batting Eye as Barnes Is Leader With 4 Hits.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

TAMPA, Fla., April 2.—Irving Hadley gave such a pitiful exhibition of pitching in the first two innings of this afternoon's game with the Tampa Smokers that it looked as though they might break their losing streak of thirteen in a row at the expense of the Nationals. Paul Hopkins stepped in the breach, however, and stopped the aliens, while the Nationals got busy with their bats and the final result was an 8-to-3 Washington victory.

Neither Carl Spencer nor Cesare Alvarez was effective on the hill for the Smokers, or they would have won handily, for they were leading 5 to 2 at the end of the second stanza. A rally in the fifth and sixth, however, suddenly turned the complexion of the game and enabled the Nats to bring their "Grape-Fruit League" record to thirteen victories in sixteen starts

Myer Opened Hostilities With Long Triple.

Red Barnes was the hero in Washington's victory, as he was credited with two doubles and as many singles in four times up, and drove home two runs. West, Myer, Bluege and Ruel, with two safeties each, accounted for most of the remaining bingles.

With one dead, Myer tripled in the opening canto and scored on Goslin's sacrifice fly. Then Barnes doubled and Bluege singled him home. The Smokers countered with a three-run rally in their half, the result of Braly's opening double, singles by Dunham and May and Judge's error.

Round 2 saw the home team become 3 up, molding two more runs from singles by Ray, Spencer, Smith and Singleton, with a suicide tossed in for good measure. Hadley then stopped the visitors in the next frame and Hopkins had them eating out of his hand during the remaining six innings, granting but one hit. Three saw base life but solely because of the Nat pitcher's generosity with his pass book.

The Nats were satisfied to trail along until the fifth, when they suddenly

Comiskey Suspends Shires, To End White Sox Rebellion

CHICAGO, April 2 (A.P.).—Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago Americans, ruling with an iron hand, today stepped in to end the rebellion brewing among the White Sox.

The "Old Roman," in a long-distance telephone conversation with Manager Russell Blackburne, ordered Art Shires, recalcitrant young first baseman, to return to his home in Italy, Tex., and remain there at his own expense until he considers that he is in playing condition.

The order was received by Blackburne in Dallas, Tex., a few minutes before Shires was scheduled to board a Chicago-bound train for a star chamber session with the "Old Roman." Thus, Comiskey made it plain to the White Sox that Manager Blackburne could do all the dealings with the dissatisfied players, and that his word was law.

Shires and Cissell Were Benched Last Week for Celebrating.

Shires, a promising rookie first baseman, and Bill Cissell,, who cost the Sox $123,000 in 1927, were benched, and Shires dethroned as captain, at Ennes, Tex., last week when they were charged with celebrating too much and then refusing to obey Manager Blackburne. Cissell, reports to Comiskey said, has since made his peace with Blackburne, and other dissatisfied players also have quieted down.

Blackburne has the reputation of being a stern disciplinarian, a quality Comiskey said he found lacking in Ray Schalk, whom Blackburne succeeded.

The White Sox, having no game in Dallas today, broke camp tonight to start on a two-week jaunt northward, meeting minor league teams in fourteen daily exhibitions They engage Des Moines, Iowa, Western Leaguers, at McAlester, Okla., tomorrow.

Thevenow, of Phils, Is Critically Injured

Lakeland, Fla., April 2 (A.P.).—Tommy Thevenow and Harold Elliott, members of the Philadelphia National League Baseball Team, were injured near here tonight in an automobile crash. Thevenow's condition was reported as critical, but Elliott was said to have escaped with cuts on the face.

HARRIS AT 3D AS TIGERS LOSE

Pirates Finally Turn Tables on Yankee Sluggers.

BEAUMONT, Tex., April 2 (U.P.).—Even the presence of Manager Stanley Harris in the line-up could not bolster the Detroit Tigers enough to make them formidable, and the Cubs beat them today, 10 to 2. Harris played third base for six innings and made the star fielding play, a one-hand stop of Stephenson's torrid grounder.

Nehf gave two hits in four innings, a homer by Heilman over the left-field fence bringing the only Detroit scores. Hack Wilson drove in four runs and scored two more himself. He also stole a base.

Jack Scott finished the game and allowed only one hit—a home run by Earl Averill, Indians' $45,000 rookie outfielder, in the ninth.

Fred Fitzsimmons, Giants' star right-hand pitcher, was hit on the leg by a line drive in batting practice before the game, and had to be taken to the hotel. The drive knocked him off his feet, and probably will keep him from the game for several days.

D. C. Teams Lose in Finals; Grays at Baltimore Tonight

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 2.—Washington teams failed to gain a South Atlantic basket ball championship in the two intercity play-off games staged here tonight. In the 115-pound class, the Boys Club Optimists, of Washington, had a title virtually in their grasp only to see it slip to the Jewish Educational Alliance Five in the waning minutes of a game that ended 25-24. It was a thriller from start to finish and one of the best games since the annual play-off started.

Baltimore's fourth championship out of five starts came in the girl's senior class when the Eagles A. C. Sextet, of Washington, bowed to the Towson All-Stars, 33-24.

The last of the championship games will be played here tomorrow night at the Fourteen Martyrs Hall, Pratt and Mount streets. Local fans have installed both of the Baltimore teams favorites. The Celtics will meet the United Typewriter Grays, Washington champions, at 8:30 o'clock, with the Curtin Wonders, of Washington, meeting the Susquehannock Tribe at 7:30 o'clock.

Boys Club Optimists Lose By One-Point Margin.

The Boys Club Optimists lost out by one point to the Jewish Educational Alliance Quintet in a 25-to-24 encounter. The Washington club led all the way until the last three minutes of play, when a Baltimore rally won for that team.

The teams displayed exceptional basket ball ability for 115-pounders and more than once made the spectators gasp at the manner in which they handled themselves. The Baltimoreans out-shaded Washington in one respect in that their passing attack was a little faster than average.

Play was extremely close in the first quarter, with the Optimists ahead by 4 to 3 at the whistle. The half ended with the Optimists still ahead, 12 to 11 The Baltimoreans tied the core just before the close of the third quarter, 16 to 16, on a foul toss by L. Rosenfeldt, but a basket by Cole enabled the Optimists to get a slim 18-to-16 advantage at the whistle.

It was chiefly through the playing of this Rosenfeldt which aided the Baltimoreans to rally in the fourth quarter. It was his foul toss in the last three minutes to go that gave his team the margin of victory Cole was the best individual performer for the Optimists. He was in the game every minute in collecting his six baskets and one foul toss for 13 points

Brookhart Sisters Star In Baltimore Victory.

The Brookhart sisters, Helen and Mary, put on a sister act for the Towson All-Stars and led that team to a 33-to-24 victory over the Eagles. The two teamed very well together as forwards in scoring 13 and 11 points, respectively.

The Eagles played a much smoother game than the Towsons in that only five personal fouls were called against them to the Towsons' nine. Miss Ewers was the Eagles' best performer, scoring 23 of her team's 24 points. Miss Paynter registered a foul shot for the other point.

The Eagles led, 12 to 11, in the first quarter, but relinquished the lead shortly after to trail, 22 to 18, at the half. At the end of the third quarter they trailed, 28 to 19. Miss Hoerr in the last quarter exhibited excellent guard play for the Towsons. The Towsons, incidentally, have played together ever since their high school days.

Roanoke, Va., April 2 (A.P.).—Horton Smith, sensational young golfer of Joplin, Mo., said here last night that he had received "about $14,000" from golf since last fall but added that his expenses were "rather heavy." He declared, though, that he practiced thrift.

Smith, who played here yesterday, is at Winston-Salem, N. C., today to play an exhibition match.

3-Year Olds Clash at 7 Furlongs

Prospect Draws Good Field; Older Horses in The Flash.

Turf News and Notes From All Maryland Tracks.

THE spotlight on the Bowie program for today will be shared by The Flash, a 5½-furlong test for 4-year olds and upward, and The Prospect, a 7-furlong sprint for 3-year-olds. Both races, for $1,400, have drawn good fields. Some of the best 2-year-olds quartered at the track are named overnight for the 4-furlong test in the opener.

A fair brand of 3-year-old colts and geldings clash in the second race over a 6-furlong route. The claiming races again drew a large number of entries.

Jockey Peternel was kicked on the leg by a 2-year-old yesterday, and it required four stitches to sew up the wound. The lad's injuries will keep him out of the saddle for a few days.

Jockey Tommy McTaggart, who has been galloping horses at Pimlico since January 1, reports that he is down to 110 pounds and that he will be seen in action quite frequently this spring.

Reports from Philadelphia are that the mares, Two Step, by Bachelor's Double, and Glister, by Sir Martin, which were purchased by the Brooknoll stud from B. B. Jones, have arrived at their new quarters at Westchester, Pa. Both have yearlings at their side and are in foal. These mares cost their new owner $40,000. The imported mare, Hey Presto, has a handsome filly by Epinard at her side. There are some fifteen mares at Brooknoll and the stud groom reports a clean bill of health of all the horses at the farm.

Pete Walls came over from New York and immediately got into action. He had mount on Clean Play in the Inaugural handicap.

Two carloads of horses arrived from Keeney Park. The consignment included the horses of W. G. Dunkinson, O. Pons, J. Wilson and F. Jenkins.

Up to date 75 riders have been granted jockey licenses by the Maryland Racing Commission.

H. G. Bedwell reports the arrival of thirteen foals at the Yarrow Brae Farm near Laurel.

J. C. Mergler has signed to ride for Elmer Trueman for the season.

M. Maher, who recently disposed of Fairy Maiden and Fly Hawk to one of the Fischer brothers, of Detroit, was an arrival from Miami. Maher contemplates strengthening his stable for a campaign on the Chicago tracks this summer. The Maher horses are here in charge of A. G. Robinson.

with better racing luck would have been a mighty hard colt to beat.

Jefferson Livingston scored his first victory of the season when his Assagi colt, Burning Glass, carried his colors in the running of the second race. Ridden by George Fields and in close pursuit of the pace from the start, Burning Glass moved up with good speed, making the turn into the home stretch and easily disposing of Ruby Keller, drew away in the stretch to score by two lengths from Bocaratone.

The latter was a length in front of Ruby Keller, who beat William P. out a scant half-length. In the early running Ruby Keller showed lots of speed. Taking command when the break came she led to the top of the home stretch, where Fields charged on her with Burning Glass. Then she collapsed. With better racing luck the result of this race might have been different. When the field left the stalls Bocaratone, who had been quite fractious, broke slowly and before they had taken a couple of strides the gelding was in a jam and his rider was forced to pull up and was in front of only two horses passing the flagman. Lambertson then elected to take the overland route, and for the remainder of the trip went extremely wide. Despite this handciap Bocaratone closed an immense gap and inside the furlong pole made a desperate effort to take the lead from Burning Glass. Rockslide finished fifth.

Stand-By, Favorite, Keeps Up Winning Record.

Standby kept up his wonderful record of never having finished outside the money in all of his starts when he finished third in the Springtime purse, a dash of 5½ furlongs, which was run as the third race. The winner of this event was Essare, who scored in clever fashion when he beat Pagan Laddie out 1¼ lengths. The Okah, from the E. B. McLean Stable, started out like a winner. Breaking rapidly and showing keen speed during the early running, The Okah showed in front, but going to the half-mile pole Essare caught and passed him and for the remainder of the trip the latter held command. A. Robertson hugged the rail with Essare and for the remainder of the journey held his field safe. Standby, after racing in rather close quarters until well around the far turn, moved up and made a wide turn entering the home stretch. At the finish he weakened and in the final drive Pagan Laddie proved the gamer of the two and got the place by a nose.

The Kentucky sportsman, W. E. Caskey, jr., furnished the winner of the fifth race when William T. came from behind in the stretch run to wear Tiffin and Sunny Saint down to get up in the last 50 yards to beat Tiffin out a neck. Sunny Saint was a tiring third, beaten three lengths for the place. Sunny Saint and Sun Persian raced in close company from the start until entering the back stretch, where Sunny Saint began drawing away. The latter held command until making the turn for home, where Tiffin caught and passed him. Pascuma took William T. to the outside as they swung for home and charging for the leaders fought it out with them the last furlong. When the final test came he hung on with great courage. Sunny Saint, who was down next the rail, was bothered some the last sixteenth when Tiffin bore over and crowded him against the temporary fence.

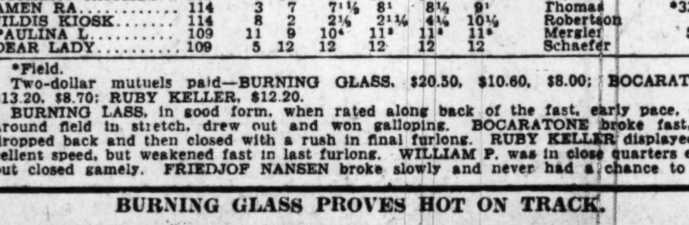
Two-dollar mutuels paid—BURNING GLASS, $20.50, $10.60, $8.00; BOCARATONE, $13.20, $8.70; RUBY KELLER, $12.20.

BURNING LASS, in good form, when rated along back of the fast, early pace, came around field in stretch, drew out and won galloping. BOCARATONE broke fast, but dropped back and then closed with a rush in final furlong. RUBY KELLER displayed excellent speed, but weakened fast in last furlong. WILLIAM P. was in close quarters early, but closed gamely. FRIEDJOF NANSEN broke slowly and never had a chance to run.

BURNING GLASS PROVES HOT ON TRACK.



THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200. The Springtime. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 3:44. Off at 3:46. Winner, Jacques Stable's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ESSARE, $6.30, $4.00, $2.80; PAGAN LADDIE, $9.70, $4.30; STANDBY, $2.50.

ESSARE, away fast, opened a wide lead, saved ground and held on gamely. PAGAN LADDIE, on the extreme outside, finished with a rush in final sixteenth and was second in last stride. STANDBY was poorly ridden and the boy tossed the place off right at the end. FORTUNE'S FAVORITE closed a big gap and should improve.

ESSARE, ROBERTSON UP, SCORES IN THIRD.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $5,000. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 4:25. Off at 4:33½. Winner, C. H. Pierce's b. h. (5), by Donnacona—Buda. Trained by W. Irvine. Value to inner, $3,590. Time, 0:23, 0:46 3-5, 1:11 3-5.

Tech High Nine Beats Episcopal by 13 to 6

The Tech High School Nine opened its baseball season yesterday with a 13-to-6 victory over Episcopal High at Alexandria. Heinie Gorman featured the clash with a three-base hit for Tech.

Coach Edwards used Spigel and Ensor on the mound and both hurled in creditable fashion. Brown was behind the bat with Gorman at first; English, second; Heflin, third and Collins and Wellens, short; Batson, the bespectacled pitching recruit, held down left field, with Capt. Drissel in center and Benner in right.

Despite the listlessness of the game, Tech made an impressive showing in its debut for the season.

SAM RICES GATHER.

The Sam Rice Midget baseball players will meet tonight at 1346 D street northeast at o'clock. The team plans to enter the Capital City League again this year and is seeking additional players.

New candidates are requested to attend the meeting tonight, at which time plans will be made for the campaign.

J. C. C. Unlimited Five To Face Grays Sunday

The Jewish Community Center Unlimited Five will endeavor to gain revenge against the winners of the local crown, the United Grays, in a tilt to be staged at the Center Gym Sunday night at 8 o'clock. The Center lost a terrific battle to the Grays in the final game of the South Atlantic tournament, 39 to 34.

A renewal of the Banta-Goldblatt, Forney-Kramer rivalry is expected to bring many lovers of the indoor sport to the Center Gym to witness the game that will close Coach Manny Goldfarb's court activities for the year.

COLLYER'S COMMENTS on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT E. COLLYER.

IF the early bird catches the worm, I'm ready to go fishing. Am out at Bowie on business and have doubled the clocking staff on the Maryland circuit, having veterans on the job at Pimlico and the "Graw," as well as the local course. Looks like we should have plenty of winners this season. POLY, which starts in The Flash, an allowance race and fourth on the card, seems to be the jammy good thing. I saw this trick burn up the track the other morning and know he is tuned to concert pitch. Sure thing not to stop. WAR EAGLE may need a race, while the route is just a trifle short for AUCILLA.

SAND FIDDLER is ready to hurl a wicked set of heels in the "baby" race and should win with something in reserve. The first-time starters in this race have not shown anything out of the ordinary. Maidens contest in the second heat. It is a most ordinary lot which will answer the bugle call. The H. P. Whitney pair will get the call, but they do not call for much, being selected because of the poor quality of their opponents. Billie Bozo has turned in a couple of good works and may upset the beans.

Nineteen are carded to start in the third. Don't be surprised if MINERVUS comes prancing home at a pleasing price. AVERSION and WATKINSON are sleepers. "English Tommy" fancies RED SPIDER, but I can't see it that way.

LETALONE looks like a million dollars and should be played in the fifth. He will be right there from start to finish. SPORTING GRIT has worked well and is just a trifle better than rated.

"Slim" Winfrey has the agents down on VIMONT in the sixth. This big boy is much better than a green hand. WRENCH and ATELIA are due to furnish the competition.

For the closing heat HANKY RICE is a real pickler. Just loves the local course and is due to mizzle home. Nuff sed. See you on the boat.

Miller, J. C. C., Wins From Meola

Championship Finals Scheduled Tonight at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 2.—One Baltimore champion was eliminated from the South Atlantic championship bouts at the One Hundred and Fourth Medical Regiment Armory tonight, but otherwise the battles went along with due regard for the dope.

Angelo Meola, of the Americus A. C., holder of Baltimore's 135-pound diadem, went under by the decision route in his test with Jocko Miller, of the Jewish Community Center, Washington.

It was the second time both had fought during the evening. In his first clash, Miller scored a technical knockout in the second round over A. Delmo, of the Belair A. C., while Angelo had duplicated the feat against T. Costello, of Camp Holabird. Leroy Bordeau, of J. C. C., advanced in the 175-pound class by defeating D. Green, of Washington.

The best fight of the evening from a slugging angle was that between F. Harmon, Y. M. C. A., State title holder, and C. Gomer, of the Y. M. H. A.

Harmon had a wicked left hand and plenty of courage, while his opponent had a punch and plenty of fighting heart. The result was a thumping bout, one in which both gave everything they had. Harmon's left, however, exploded oftener in vital spots than Gomer's right.

Sheppard Wins Heavyweight Clash by Knockout.

The final bout, a heavyweight clash, produced plenty of activity while it lasted, but it didn't last very long, for M. Sheppard, of Camp Holabird, galloped out in high gear, and before C. Seeback, of the Y. M. C. A., could get going he was on the receiving end of a cyclonic attack that, though wild, was too robust to be fought down.

Seeback staggered around in front of the storm but went down on his face as the bell rang. He was out and also outclassed, and Referee Charley Short awarded the fight to Sheppard without waiting for the next round

There will be eighteen bouts put on tomorrow night when the semifinals and finals will be fought. There are no South Atlantic champions defending their titles in the tourney.

F. Harman, Baltimore Y. M. C. A., won from S. Miller, Camp Holabird, technical knockout, second round.

J. Miller, Jewish Community Center, Washington, won from A. Delmo, Belair A. C., technical knockout, second round.

A. Meola, Americus A. C., won from T. Costello, Holabird, technical knockout, second round.

J. Delacey, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Washington, won from A. Stone, Belair A. C., decision.

175-POUND CLASS—L. Bordeau, Jewish Community Center, Washington, won from D. Green, City Club, Washington, technical knockout, second round.

W. Trail, Emory Wood A. C., won from J. Offshanty, Holabird, decision.

F. Harman, Baltimore Y. M. C. A., won from C. Gomer, Baltimore Y. M. H. A.

118-POUND CLASS—John Pritz, Y. M. C. A., won from J Meyer, St. Mary's Industrial School, decision.

HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS—M. Sheppard, Holabird, won from C. Heebach, Baltimore Y. M. C. A., technical knockout, first round.

Dempsey Denies Any Move to Buy Arena

Detroit, April 2 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey denied today, on his arrival here from New York, that he and Humbert Fugazy had taken steps toward purchase of the Olympia Sports Arena.

Commenting on reports that they planned to purchase the Olympia, Dempsey said:

"Of course, if the Olympia is for sale we would be interested in buying it. We would be interested in anything that would help our business; but I don't know that the Olympia is for sale and I doubt if it is. We have heard that the stock could be had for 50 cents on the dollar, but you know how those stories get around."

Jack said he would remain here about a week "looking over the situation." He added that he might investigate the possibility of purchasing the Olympia but was not at all hopeful such a deal could be made.

Charles A. Hughes, president of the Olympia, is in Asheville, N. C. He was quoted as saying recently, however, that no change in Olympia stock was contemplated.

CAPITOL CLUB BUSY.

The Capitol A. C. Girls will meet tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock at the E street Y. W. C. A. to practice swimming in the Y. W. C. A. pools.

The club will hold a card party Friday night at the Masonic Temple, Eighth and F streets northeast, at 8 o'clock to raise funds for sports equipment.

CORINTHIANS PRACTICE.

Two Corinthian Teams will practice today on the South Ellipse Diamond. The Insects will drill at 11 o'clock and the Midgets will work out at 1 o'clock.

Pitchers are needed for the Insect Team. Any candidates interested are requested to report at 11 o'clock.

AIRMEN WANT GAMES.

The Bolling Field Nine has begun preparations for the baseball season and is scheduling games with unlimited teams.

Games with St. Mary's Celtics, Hoffman Clothiers, A. B. & W. Busmen and other teams are sought. Corpl. Maude, at Lincoln 5887, is arranging the schedule.

Feret, French Net Star, Is Reinstated

Paris, April 2 (U.P.).—Paul Feret, one of the foremost tennis players of France, who turned professional and accompanied Suzanne Lenglen to the United States under the auspices of C. C. Pyle, has been reinstated as an amateur by the French Lawn Tennis Federation.

Special amnesty was granted Feret after he had turned over to the federation the amount of money paid him by Pyle during the American tour.

No such amnesty will be granted in the case of Mlle. Lenglen, the federation insisted.

The French amateur rule requires a professional to quit tennis for five years before he or she is eligible for reinstatement as an amateur. In the case of Feret, the rule was waived.

Strong influence was brought to bear on behalf of the young star. It was urged that he did not realize the seriousness of the step to which he was persuaded by Pyle several years ago.

Schmeling Besieged With Fancy Offers

New York, April 1 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, may have two managers working in opposition and four sets of promoters claiming first call on his services, but that does not seem to prevent other matchmakers from entering the bidding.

Dick Dunn, representing the Olympia Arena in Detroit, offered Joe Jacobs, American manager of the youthful Teuton, $100,000 today to meet the winner of a heavyweight tournament at Navin Field in June. The tournament is now under way among 30 entries.

Another bidder entering the list with the Madison Square Garden of New York, the Boston Garden, Jack Dempsey and Jess McMahon was Paddy Harmon, of the Chicago Stadium, who offered Jacobs $50,000 today for a match between Schmeling and Otto von Porat in Chicago in May.

The offers can not be considered, Jacobs said, until Schmeling returns from a visit to Germany late this month. While overseas, the boxer is attempting to break his oratorical contract with Arthur Buelow, German manager, who brought Schmeling to New York.

POSTONS WIN THRILLER.

The Postons counted five runs in the ninth inning yesterday to win over the Peerless Nine, 11 to 10. The victors scored nine runs in the last three innings, after trailing far behind most of the way. Roucher slashed out two home runs.

Simpson, Fourth, Now Leads in Bunion Race

Philadelphia, April 2 (A.P.).—Paul Simpson, of Burlington, N. C., took the lead in C. C. Pyle's bunion derby today by finishing fourth in the 29-mile run from Trenton, N. J., to Frankford, northeast Philadelphia.

He far outdistanced Juul Cools, a Belgium runner, who had led the pack by the narrow margin of 45 seconds at the start of the lap. Cools now is in eleventh place.

Simpson's elapsed time is 12:20.17 hours. Herbert Hedman, of Australia, is second with an elapsed time of 12:34.43 hours.

Troy Trimble, of Bakersfield, Calif., breezed into Philadelphia first today, covering the third lap in 3:38.40 hours. Herbert Hedman, of Australia, was second in 3.39.00.

The caravan was given a warm welcome in Philadelphia. Tomorrow's run will be to Wilmington, Del.

The leaders and time elapsed follow:

1—Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., 12:20:17.
2—Herbert Hedeman, Australia, 12:34:43.

Harvard Spring Grid Teams in Real Contest

Cambridge, Mass., April 2 (A.P.).—As Harvard's spring training football teams, the "Florida" and "Michigan" Elevens, ran through a regulation game here today, Walter Okeson, commissioner of officials for Eastern colleges, commented on each play to a group of more than 100 prominent football coaches and officials.

The game, a dull affair because of the high wind which ruined almost every kicking and passing attempt, was won by Charlie Hubbard's "Florida" Eleven, 2-0. The score came when the wind carried a punt behind the kicking team's goal line.

Okeson's running fire of comment stressed the new football rules and centered about the technique of officiating, the position of the officials on the field, the calling of penalties and their enforcement. Dr. Eddie O'Brien acted as referee; Tom McCabe, umpire; Dan Kelley, head linesman, and Bill Halloran, field judge.

Ashland Five Scores In Defense of Title

Chicago, April 2 (A.P).—Ashland, Ky., opened the defense of its 1928 national high school basket ball championship tonight by defeating Independence, Mo., 15 to 13.

Utilizing the same slow-breaking offense that carried them to national honors last season, the Ashland boys eked out the 2-point victory when Independence missed many crip shots in the last half. The Blue Grass boys were aslo missing their share of the shots.

Raton, N. Mex., 24; Portsmouth, N. H., 23.
Wheeler, Miss., 39; Winamucca, Nev., 9.
Jena, La., 27; Wheatland, Wyo., 24.
Heath, Ky., 48; White River Junction, Vt., 30.

YORKES TO GATHER.

All present members and new candidates are requested to attend a meeting of the Petworth Yorkes Baseball Team tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Jerry Richards, 4118 Third street northwest. Plans for the diamond season will be made.

NORTH-SOUTH CHOICES IN VICTORIES

Misses Collett, Hicks and Other Stars in Quarterfinals.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2 (A.P.).—While the lesser lights were falling by the wayside, the favorites marched through to the quarterfinals of the North and South women's golf tournament here today.

Glenna Collett, national champion, whose qualifying round of 75 won the medal yesterday, captured her first-round match from Miss Virginia Holzderber, Baltimore, 4 and 3, and will meet Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., tomorrow. Miss Orcutt eliminated Mrs. J. D. Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., 3 and 2, today.

Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, Long Island, advanced to the quarterfinal with a 2-and-1 victory over Mrs. Edith Baker, of Boston, and tomorrow will play Miss Marion Turpie, of New Orleans, the Southern champion, who won her first-round match from Mrs. Ronald Barlow, of Philadelphia, 4 and 3.

Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, Ohio, former North and South title holder, defeated Miss Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, 4 and 3, and tomorrow tries conclusions with Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa. Miss Quier eliminated Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, the defending champion, 2 and 1.

The other quarterfinal match will be between two Chicago stars, Virginia Van Wie and Virginia Wilson. Miss Van Wie beat another Chicagoan, Mrs. Melvin Jones, 4 and 2, while Miss Wilson defeated Martha Parker, of New York, 4 and 3.

Loughran Sets Price For Bout at $150,000

Philadelphia, April 2 (A.P.).—Tommy Loughran is willing to meet Mickey Walker in a 45-round return bout for the world light-heavyweight championship next summer, but will not consider going into such a match for less than $150,000.

This is the substance of a telegram sent today by Joe Smith, Loughran's manager, to Harry Pollak in reply to the Western promoter's offer of $100,000 for such a bout to take place in Tia Juana, Lower California.

The offer was received today, providing that $25,000 be deposited in Loughran's name the day Tommy signs a contract to meet Walker again, and the remaining $75,000 to be posted between that date and the day of the fight.

After wiring his reply Smith stated that he had demanded the following terms: $50,000 to be deposited the day contracts are signed and $100,000 additional before the day of the fight.

"Tommy won't hesitate about accepting a match for 45 rounds with any one," said the champion's midget manager, "but we won't enter into such an arrangement unless the pay comes up to our ideas of what the fight is worth to us."

POWHATANS PRACTICE.

The Powhatan Juniors will practice today and every day this week on Diamond No. 4, of the Monument Grounds, at 10:30 o'clock. The Powhatans, who expect to enter the junior division of the Capital City League this year, want games prior to the opening. Phone Columbia 2878.

PIN ROLL-OFF SOUGHT FOR CAPITAL

Local Bowlers Disapprove of Richmond Trip to Decide.

THE four Washington bowlers involved in ties for national duckpin titles announced last night their disapproval of the plan of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress officials to require them to go to Richmond to roll off the ties. Howard Campbell, Jack Whalen, Marjorie Bradt and Mrs Margaret Miltner, the bowlers concerned, declared last night that they will make every effort to have the post-tourney matches held in Washington.

George L. Isemann, secretary of the N. D. P. B. C., announced yesterday that the roll-off matches will be held at Richmond on any date convenient to the four bowlers involved. A three-game set will settle the ties now existing between Campbell and Whalen for the men's singles title, and Mrs. Miltner and Miss Bradt for the women's all-events honors.

Both Mrs. Miltner and Miss Bradt declared themselves opposed to returning to Richmond for the roll-off. Campbell and Whalen had planned a 10-game match, five games to be rolled at Convention Hall and the same number at Lucky Strike.

Secretary Isemann has announced that the congress officials have ordered the roll-off matches to be staged on neutral alleys at Richmond. The local bowlers plan to confer with Secretary Isemann in an effort to have the matches rolled on local drives.

Horton Smith in Match Today at Staunton

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., April 2.—Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., professional star, will play an exhibition match tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock on the recently opened eighteen-hole course of the Stonewall Jackson Golf Club near Staunton.

Smith, who is 21, has been a professional for only two years. He has been given a place on the Ryder Cup Team which will represent the United States in the international match in England April 26 and 27.

Cochran Twice Beats Grange for Match Lead

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—Welker Cochran won both blocks of his special 12-block 18.2 balkline billiards match with Felix Grange, of France, today.

Cochran won the afternoon block, 300 to 270, in six innings. He had a high run of 167; Grange, one of 107. Tonight Cochran won, 300 to 186, in eleven innings. His high run was 96; Grange's, 44.

KENNEDYS TO MEET.

The Kennedy A. C. Nine will hold a meeting for baseball tomorrow night at the home of Ted Otte, 4213 Georgia avenue northwest, at 8 o'clock. Members of both the junior and unlimited teams are requested to be present.

MEMORIES

JOSEPH MURPHY, prominent figure about the lawns of every major race track in the country and a leading betting commissioner, who passed away during the winter. His absence was notable as turf enthusiasts gathered for yesterday's opening at Bowie.

N. Y. Commission Fails To Reinstate Wrestler

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—When the State Athletic Commission today refused to reinstate Ed ("Strangler") Lewis, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, because his application was not made in person. Lewis was set down originally for reporting late for bouts.

Baby Joe Gans, Los Angeles lightweight, was suspended indefinitely today when he failed to answer a summons to explain his participation in two bouts last week in violation of a rule against fighting so often. He appeared in Philadelphia on Monday and in New York Saturday.

Cagle, Gridiron Flash, Scored for Tardiness

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—The New York American tomorrow will say that Christian Keener (Red) Cagle, captain-elect of the 1929 Army Football Team, is about to begin a 22-hour stretch of extra guard duty in penance for an infraction of regulations at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Ironically enough, Cagle's fall from official grace was caused by too much interference. The dashing and elusive Cagle of football fame found New York's traffic too much even for his nimble feet. As a result he missed a ferry, then a train and brought down upon himself the wrath of West Point officials.

With a party of cadets Cagle came to New York last Saturday. The party had been ordered to catch the 11:45 Weehawken Ferry for transport to New Jersey in time to catch the midnight train for West Point. Cagle, however, overestimated his own speed and, delayed by traffic, arrived at the ferry station just in time to see the boat pull away.

SPENCE SETS NEW WORLD RECORD

NEW YORK, April 2 (A.P.).—Two Walters—Spence, of Philadelphia, and Laufer, of Chicago—shared honors in the National A. A. U. swimming championships in the New York A. C. Pool here tonight.

Spence, competing unattached, broke the world's record when he won the 300-yard individual medley swim in 3 minutes and 40 seconds. Laufer, entered from the Lake Shore A. C., set a new championship mark of 51 4-5 seconds when he captured the 100-yard free-style event.

Spence was forced to shave 3 2-5 seconds from his own world's 300-yard medley mark to beat back Laufer's challenge. Only an inch or so divided the two stars at the finish line.

The race was a duel all the way between the two Walters. Spence jumped into the lead in the first 100 yards of breast stroke swimming, but Laufer caught and passed him in the second hundred yards of back stroke. The Chicago star clung to this margin during the last 100 yards of free-style, but Spence put on a brilliant spurt to nip him at the finish line.

Austin Clapp, of Stanford University, was third; August Harms, of the New York A. C., fourth, and Boyd Liddle, of the University of Iowa, fifth and last.

Laufer won the 100 yards free-style final by 5 feet from George Kojac, of Rutgers, with Spence third and Johnny Rowland, of Yale, fourth and last. Laufer's time of 51 4-5 seconds eclipsed the championship record, set by Johnny Weissmuller, by 1-5 of a second.

In the first match of the water polo championships the Illinois A. C. crushed the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., 12 goals to 0. The match was halted at the end of the first half because the Brooklyn Team was not in condition.

Zorilla Hopes to Lift Crown of Tod Morgan

Los Angeles, April 2 (A.P.).—Tod Morgan's junior lightweight championship belt, originally held by Johnny Dundee, will go to Santiago Zorilla if the little San Blas Indian defeats Morgan here next Thursday night.

Zorilla, who has been working one day and laying off the next, boxed several rounds yesterday and planned to repeat the same training today. The Panama Indian has been traveling through his workouts like a whirlwind.

IN SPECIAL MATCH.

The Stanford Paper Co. Rollers will engage the Hyattsville All-Stars Saturday in a special match on the Coliseum drives, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. This match will mark one of the series of special matches listed for Saturday at other alleys in the city.

MARYLAND U. NINE OPENS SEASON WITH PENN TODAY

College Park Is Scene of Contest

Demarco to Start on Mound for Shipley-Coached Club.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY'S 1929 nine enters the local college baseball picture today in opposing the University of Pennsylvania in the inaugural contest at College Park, starting at 3 o'clock. The collection of tossers Coach Burton Shipley will trot out for the Old Line appears to be one of the best gathered together at College Park in several years.

Six members of last year's campaign will be in the Maryland starting line-up, and the three others who will round out the team are promising sophomores, one of whom, Bob Gaylor formerly of Hyattsville High School, has beaten out Jim Wilson, a 1928 regular for the third base job.

The presence of Morty Wilner, former Central High School athletic star of this city, in the Pennsylvania line-up adds attractiveness to the occasion Many local fans and Pennsylvania alumni are expected to make the suburban trek to watch him especially The former Blue and White mainstay captains the Quakers and plays second base, which position he has handled ever since his grade school days here.

Large Numbers of Washington Boys on Old Line Nine.

A luncheon in honor of Coach Walter Cariss and the Pennsylvania squad will be held by the local chapter of Penn alumni at the University Club starting at noon.

As usual, a large number of Washington high school products will be found in Maryland togs. The starting battery—Jim Demarco, southpaw pitcher, and Burton McGann, catcher—graduated from Tech, as did Capt. Gordon Kessler, center fielder. Julie Radice, veteran second baseman, formerly sported the colors of Eastern High. Among the available reserves, George Phipps, Jack Batson and Henry Milburn, pitchers, and Jim Wilson, third baseman, are local high school graduates.

In addition to the regulars already mentioned, Coach Shipley will start Melvin Derr at short, Fred Hetzel at first, Frank Leschinsky, right fielder and Jones, left fielder. Roy Tansil, a regular in 1928, and John Kay will be ready for emergency duty in the outfield.

Two other games are on the Old Liners' schedule for this week. Vermont University's nine will visit tomorrow and Cornell, with Henry Gichner, formerly of Western High School, will appear on Saturday.

Boyd Named Manager Of Manhattan Nine

"China" Boyd has been named to manage the Manhattan Senior Nine this season. Among the promising candidates he has signed are J. Wade, I. Wade, P. Jarman, R. Jarman, Swan, Knorr, Reid, Richards, Rice, Brown, Stone, Thomas, Crintz, Hill and Ware The latter will join the team after the close of the high school series.

A meeting will be held tonight at 1723 Bay street southeast, at 7 o'clock, at which time officers will be elected, uniforms distributed and plans made for holding a benefit dance. New candidates are invited to attend.

Manhattans are now booking games with out-of-town teams. Write "Bill" Rice at 1114 Oak street, Silver Spring, Md., or call Silver Spring 172-J after 5 o'clock. Aztecs, Moose, Auths and Takoma Tigers are challenged.

Swanson, Recruit Gardener, Is Out With Tonsilitis.

Atlanta, Ga., April 2 (U.P.).—Evar Swanson, recruit outfielder from the Pacific Coast League, who has been making a strong bid for a regular berth in the Cincinnati Reds' outfield, was unable to practice today because of tonsilitis. The remainder of the squad worked out for two hours under a hot sun. Red Lucas will start tomorrow's game against the Atlanta Club.

Rally Nets Five Runs and Phillies Take 8-4 Verdict.

Winter Haven, Fla., April 2 (U.P.).—A five-run rally in the seventh inning enabled the Philadelphia Phillies to beat the Columbus American Association Club today, 8 to 4.

SCHOOL NINES IN 2 GAMES TODAY

Central Plays Uniteds Here; Business at Manassas.

TWO baseball games will occupy the attention of a pair of local high school teams today. Central will entertain the United Typewriter Uniteds at the Central Stadium and Business will meet the Swavely Prep Nine at Manassas, Va. Both contests will mark the debuts of Central and Business for the season.

Much interest will be centered around the exhibitions of each nine, as in each case it will give players, coaches, students and followers of the two teams an opportunity to see their favorite in actual competition for the first time of the year.

Business will go into its fray with one of its greenest line-ups in years, as only Charlie Rich will be a player of experience. He will hold down the first-base position. Others whom Coach Woodworth will use in the infield include Brown, second base; Lucas, shortstop, and either Singman or Sargent, third base.

Bill Duryee to Play in Outfield for Business.

Bill Duryee, a brother of Eddie Duryee, will perform in one of the outfield positions, flanked by Smith, Kraiser, Winberg and Wall, all of whom will be given a chance to play. Behind the bat Woodworth will use Roland Hargett, who forms a one-man catching staff of the Business Team.

In the box Nate Newman, of basket ball fame, will start, followed by Pete Loftus, Ed Leonard and Louis Silverman. None of these boys has had any real experience in high school competition, and they will be closely watched by Coach Woodworth, who hopes to find a pitcher for the forthcoming high school series.

Central will have a much stronger line-up against the United Typewriter Tossers than will Business against Swavely. This is mainly because it has been in practice longer than the Stenographers and because it has several more veteran players.

Kimbel Plans to Give All His Pitchers a Chance.

Coach Kimbel in all probability will use every pitcher on his staff, including Sanford Ross, captain, and hoped-for mainstay this year; Willie Parks, a real comer; Charles Jorg and George Mehler. Jorg is a left-hander.

In the infield every man will be a veteran with the exception of Louis Beazley, first baseman. He has looked good, however, in practice. Oliver "Bits" Shriver will be at second base; Kenneth Fisher, short, and George Brandt, third base. This infield looms as the best defensive combination in the high school group. Kimbel's outfield array will be led by San Blease, diminutive centerfielder and left-handed batter; Gene Colella, Bill White and others. Holding down the catcher's position will be Stan. Millwitt and Cochran, a trio of likely looking backstoppers.

Devitt Track Meet Attracts Cream of Eastern Athletes

THE best track and field athletes of Eastern prep school, high school and playground ranks will be seen in competition here in the Devitt Prep second annual meet to be held at Georgetown University on April 20. Coach Walter Palmer, of the host institution, announced last night. Invitations to enter teams have been accepted by many of the leading schools throughout the East, he declared.

Outstanding among the early prep school entries are those from Newark Prep, Mercersburg Academy, 1928 winner; Hun Prep, of Princeton, N. J., and Gilman Country School, of near Baltimore. The Devitt mentor was especially pleased in receiving the entries from Newark Prep, as that school will send the relay team here that recently broke the world's 1-mile scholastic indoor relay record.

In addition to entries from all of the local high schools, the Frederick High School, of Frederick, Md.; the Fredericksburg High School, of Fredericksburg, Va.; the Schenectady High School, of Schenectady, N. Y., and three high schools of Baltimore and vicinity have accepted invitations to compete. Many additions are expected in this division within the next few days.

Virginia Schools to Figure In Two Special Events.

Two special events for Virginia high school relay teams and a 440-yard relay race between Washington, Philadelphia and Baltimore 115-pound relay teams are expected to prove feature attractions. The two events open to Virginia high school relay teams are 440 and 880-yard races.

The meet will necessarily be a full day's program, as 21 events are listed.

Central High School will defend the scholastic team championship won last year. Eastern and Tech are expected to give the Columbia Heights Team a real battle for that honor. Some formidable competition is also expected from Baltimore and Philadelphia high school teams.

Public Tennis Courts Will Open Thursday

Washington's three principal public parks tennis centers will open Thursday morning at 6 o'clock, it was announced last night by Director of Public Parks Clyde Burton. The Henry, Potomac and Rock Creek No. 1 courts will be opened to the public at that time.

All of the courts have been reconditioned for the season. Applications for reservations will be received at the office of Mr. Burton as in former years.

WONDER INSECTS WIN.

The Wonder Insects outclassed the Rover A. C. Insects yesterday in a one-sided contest on Holy Name diamond, 10 to 1.

Vic Mollett hurled for the winners and held the opposition to a lone hit. Dick Collins' triple in the second with the bases loaded was the offensive feature.

JESUIT NINES TO MEET AT HILLTOP

Boston College Nine Here Today; White Hurls for G. U.

BOSTON COLLEGE, which annually is one of the leading collegiate baseball teams of the East, will be Georgetown's first Jesuit diamond opponent of the season today on the Hilltop Field in a game starting at 3 o'clock. The contest will be the first of four in as many days for Coach Bucky O'Neil's charges.

In all probability O'Neil will nominate Russell ("Packy") White, a husky left-hander, to do the pitching for the host club, but if the mentor changes his plans Higgins may get the assignment. Either Donovan or Phelan will be on the other end of the Hilltop battery.

Coach O'Neil is hoping that whoever he selects to pitch will go the full route because the remaining games of the Georgetown schedule this week are caculated to tax the strength of his slab corps. Princeton, Cornell and Holy Cross, ordinarily strong teams, will invade the Hilltop field during the next three days.

Fans who have watched Georgetown in its first two games have been impressed by the team's good defensive work. The infield quartet of Bozek, first; Scalzi, second; Dunn, short, and Leary, third, have executed several notable fielding plays, while the outfielders, Duplin, McCarty and Wholey, have performed almost flawlessly.

In the New York University clash last Monday the Hilltoppers showed an improvement in hitting over their first performance of the previous Thursday. Leary, Dunn, Scalzi, Duplin and Wholey punched out sharp drives which sounded like midseason hits when they left the bats.

Hilltop adherents now feel fairly confident that the team will enjoy a successful season with the only condition of doubt being in the pitching staff. Harold Poole and Jack Edmonston have done all of the pitching under fire so far.

C. U. in Practice Game With Alexandria Nine

Coaches McAuliffe and Clark will send their Catholic University baseball players through a practice game with the St. Mary's Celtics of Alexandria this afternoon in the C. U. Stadium, starting about 4 o'clock. The contest will afford the Brookland mentors another chance to experiment with the Cardinal Nine in an effort to assemble the strongest team that can be built from the talent on hand.

Thus far, the Cardinals have lost all of their three early season games, but have not looked particularly bad despite this. Pitchers Jack Conlon and Lou Hurley have been the only ones to show their wares in these brushes, and they have satisfied the coaches that they will do.

The main problem confronting McAuliffe and Clark now is that of finding the best offensive combination. The Cardinals will swing back to regularly scheduled games on Friday, when Boston College will invade the Brookland diamond. On Saturday, Vermont University will be their opponent.

April 16 Reservations Will Go After Sunday

All persons holding reservations for the opening game between Washington and Philadelphia on April 16, will have until Sunday to get their tickets. Pasteboards not called for by that time will be sold starting the next day.

Secretary Edward Eynon announced last night that there were 5,100 seats still available for those wishing to witness Walter Johnson, the Nationals and President Hoover open the local 1929 major league season.

ST. THOMAS NINES MEET.

Candidates for the St. Thomas Apostle insect and midget baseball teams will meet on Friday night in the gymnasium of the school, Twenty-seventh and Woodley road northwest, at 8 o'clock for organization for the season.

Gallaudet Nine Opens Short Season Today

An abbreviated and unpretentious baseball schedule will be opened by Gallaudet College today on the Kendall Green diamond when Coach Wally Krug's new team meets Sid Lodge's Maryland All-Stars, of Poolesville, Md., starting at 3 o'clock. Baseball thus will return to Hotchkiss Field after an absence of one year.

Konrad Hokanson, sturdy little left-hander, and Henry Drapiewski, catcher, will form the Kendall Greeners' battery. Both played together during the basket ball season. Hokanson is the only hurler of known ability on the Gallaudet squad, having accomplished some good work during the 1927 season.

Charlotte Hall Military Academy, of Mechanicsville, Md., will be Gallaudet's opponent on Saturday, also on the local diamond. The Kendall Greeners this season are limiting their opposition to a class of prep school, secondary college and independent nines.

ROYAL MIDGETS MEET.

The Royal Midget Nine will meet Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Fred Miller. All members are asked to be present. The Royals are seeking games for Saturday and Sunday. Call Lincoln 4218 for arrangements.

in the league that a fast one like he had was all any pitcher needed.

Milan's contribution to the debate was that he had played no more than eight or nine games before given a trial in the North Texas League, and didn't even know what a hit was. "I thought," said Milan, "that just so you didn't strike out you were credited with a hit. Of course I had sense enough to know that drives which fell safe did your team more good, but I thought everything was a hit that wasn't a strikeout, until I heard the players talking about it."

Both veterans declare on honor that the above stories are true, but it would not be possible in this day and generation for them to be duplicated as baseball is so well "covered" in the newspapers these days and the game has such a hold on the public that the average 10-year-old boy knows the rules of the national game almost as well as he does his ABCs.

Pitcher Irving Hadley reports that his ailing feet are fast getting back into normal condition. An X-ray treatment turned the trick

The question as to whether or not the Nationals will continue to train at Tampa is still unseuttled. It is understood that while the mayor is favorable toward the Washington Club, he feels that he can not side against the home team. As a result, he is sitting on the fence, hoping that the two club owners will get together and iron out their differences.

rallied and knotted the count. The ingredients used in the making of this trio of marks were singles by Goslin, Barnes and Ruel, a base on balls and a double by Bluege.

Barnes' Blow Decides Game In Sixth Inning.

GENERAL BOND LIST DISPLAYS FIRMNESS

Public Utilities Issues Alone Suffer Losses as Trading Slows Up.

FOREIGN GROUP IS DULL

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—The bond market today plodded steadily along an even path as prices held firm in the face of higher time money rates. Some dealers were demanding 9 per cent for the short maturities in the time money market—the highest rate since 1920. The volume of sales once more slipped below $9,000,000. Public utilities were the only group to show a loss.

Trading was considerably slower in the convertibles. Anaconda Copper 7s and International Telephone 4½s rose more than 3 points. American International 5½s were the feature of the investment trusts, with a gain of 1½ points.

In the stronger industrials, oils moved irregularly higher, reflecting improvement in the stocks on the agreement of producers to curtail crude output. Colon Oil 6s and Transcontinental 6½s gained a point and White Eagle nearly 3. Sinclair Consolidated 7s were heavy. Anaconda Copper 6s were a weak feature, declining fractionally to their previous low level at 103¾. The 6s are to be redeemed at 105. Colorado Industries 5s were at a new low for the year.

Baltimore & Ohio, Pittsburgh Lake Erie Division 4s and Burlington General 4s were at new lows for the year in the otherwise improved rail group. A gain of a point was registered by New Haven Collateral 6s.

U. S. Government securities moved irregularly higher, Liberty Fourth 4¼s, on a turnover of $229,000, accounting for the bulk of the trading.

The foreign list was dull. Canadian Dominion 5s were at a new low for the year, and Pirelli 7s, usually an active performer, broke more than 2 points. The Belgium issues worked higher on fairly active buying.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 2 (A.P.).—Wheat prices rallied in lively fashion today after an early setback. To an important extent, the late upturns were responsive to buying here aganist simultaneous selling at Winnipeg, and evening-up process to balance recent large spread trades which were of exactly a reverse character—sales in Chicago with purchasing at Winnipeg equal. Late advances of wheat values here were also in a measure traceable to renewed strength of the stock market.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were firm, ¾ of a cent to 1⅛ cents net higher, whereas corn finished ⅛ to ½ of a cent off, with oats unchanged to ¼ to ⅜ of a cent lower, and provisions varying from 5 to 7-cent decline to a raise of 40 cents.

Final transactions in wheat here were at the day's top figures, more than 2 cents a bushel above the earlier bottom level. Meanwhile, the Canadian wheat visible supply total was announced as showing 995,000 bushels decrease for the week, and Canadian country marketings were reported as smaller than at this time a year ago. Messages toward the end of the day telling of need of rain in parts of Kansas were also something of a stimulus to wheat buyers here, and so also was the fact that speculative trade was larger than yesterday on account of better wire service.

In contrast with the strength which the wheat market developed during the last half of the day was the notable downward trend that at first was in evidence. Despite the fact that in connection with Argentine port labor troubles Liverpool wheat quotations were higher than due, the Chicago wheat market early was without buying support except on declines or what came from previous sellers who were in a position to collect a profit. Reports current at the time were indicative that as a whole the domestic winter crop of wheat was making satisfactory progress, with a new authoritative estimate out putting the condition percentage at 82.5, abandoned acreage at 7.1 per cent, and the probable yield 580,000,000 bearish factor was 2,048,000 bushels' inbushels compared with last year's final total of 579,000,000 bushels. Another transient crease this week of the amount of wheat afloat on ocean passage.

Corn rallied with wheat, but failed to recover in full from downturns which went before. Commission houses were persistent sellers of corn future deliveries, ignoring good shippnig demand here and a cash corn trading basis unchanged to 1 cent higher. The Argentine corn harvest was reported to be proceeding rapidly and promising to surpass earlier expectations. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were firmer early, responsive to upturns in hog values, but best prices failed ot hold in the face of scattered liquidation.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—Early declines under renewed liquidation, Wall street and Southern selling, promoted by a favorable view of the weather news and relatively easy cables, were nearly all recovered in cotton today on trade buying and covering. July contracts, after selling off at 19.82, advanced to 20.02, and closed at 19.99. The general market closed steady at net declines of 2 to 6 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2 to 7 points in response to lower late cables. There also seemed to be some selling in anticipation of a favorable weekly review by the Weather Bureau tomorrow. Active months sold about 18 to 23 points net here during the early trading, with May declining to 20.40 and the new October contract to 19.81.

There was probably some selling on a private report pointing to a prospective increase of 4.7 per cent in acreage and estimating the area likely to be planted at 49,137,000 acres.

Offerings were not particularly heavy or aggressive, however, and the market steadied up during the afternoon on covering. Some trade buying also was reported. Support became a little more active late in the afternoon when there appeared to be further covering and some Wall street and New Orleans buying promoted by the better tone of the stock market. Old crop positions fully recovered their losses, while the new crop regained all but a few points of their earlier declines. The close was a point or two off from the best.

Part of the late afternoon buying may have been inspired by expectations of a bullish report on boll weevil survival, as traders appeared to be expecting a report from the Bureau of Entomology within the next few days. Another private report on acreage intentions was issued pointing to an area between 45,400,000 and 46,710,000. This report said plowing was about 25 per cent completed, compared with 35 per cent last year. It also forecast a reduction of about 28 per cent in the use of fertilizers.

Cable advices from Liverpool said there had been some covering there against 3,000 bales of cotton involved in a warehouse fire.

Exports today, 19,446, making 6,862,292 this season. Port receipts, 15,424. United States port stocks, 1,724,031.

Mr. Ross McIntyre, President of MacMarr Stores, Inc., has summarized his letter dated March 23, 1929, regarding this 7% Preferred Stock with Common Stock Purchase Warrants, as follows:

ORGANIZATION: MacMarr Stores, Inc., a Maryland Corporation, has acquired, directly or through subsidiaries, the assets and businesses of International Sales & Produce Company; "Marr's," a chain of grocery stores operated by Charles E. Marr, individually; Stone's Cash Stores, Inc.; Consolidated Stores, Inc.; LaGrande Grocery Company; Western Piggly Wiggly Company; MacLean Bros., Inc.; Eagle Stores, Inc. The properties thus acquired comprise 387 grocery stores, of which 23 include meat markets, located in California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, and eight warehouses in connection therewith.

SALES AND EARNINGS: The combined net sales of the predecessor companies and the net earnings for the three years ended December 31, 1928, applicable to the assets actually acquired by MacMarr Stores, Inc. and subsidiaries, after reducing executives' salaries to basis of present contracts (such reductions amounting to $24,537.20 in 1926, $61,619.52 in 1927 and $65,347.15 in 1928) and after Federal Income Tax at 12%, as certified by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., were as follows:

1928	387	20,304,201	536,682	4.74	1.86

FINANCIAL CONDITION: The pro-forma consolidated balance sheet of MacMarr Stores, Inc., and subsidiaries, as of December 31, 1928, giving effect as at that date to the formation of the company and other transactions mentioned therein, as certified by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., shows total net assets of $2,299,011 and net current assets of $1,730,793.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of this issue of $1,614,600 of Preferred Stock have been used in part payment for the acquisition of the assets and businesses above mentioned.

COMMON STOCK PURCHASE WARRANTS: This 7% Preferred Stock will be accompanied by Warrants entitling the holders to purchase on or before December 31, 1933, at the price of $30 per share, one full paid and non-assessable share of Common Stock without par value for each share of Preferred Stock.

PROSPECTIVE ACQUISITIONS: The above information has to do only with the assets, sales and earnings of the properties actually acquired. We have now under contract additional chains of stores, which should bring our total units actually acquired to more than 800 by July 1st. With our present volume of business of over $20,000,000 per annum we rank second among the grocery chains West of the Mississippi. When the acquisitions above referred to are consummated, our annual sales will be more than $40,000,000. On March 25, 1929, MacMarr Stores, Inc., acquired the assets and business, subject to liabilities, of Piggly Wiggly Company of San Joaquin Valley, through the issue of 22,000 shares of Common Stock.

MANAGEMENT AND FUTURE: The companies acquired and to be acquired by MacMarr Stores have been chosen not merely because of past results or territory served. In every instance more consideration has been given to the character and ability of those responsible for the development of these chains than to any other single factor. I believe that few chain store systems of our size have so many thoroughly qualified executives, and my conviction is that with their larger opportunities they will be able to show even better results in the future than they have in the past.

The statements contained above are obtained from sources which we believe reliable, but in no event are such statements to be regarded as representations by us or as guaranteed by us.

Legal proceedings have been approved by Messrs. Chadbourne, Hunt, Jaeckel & Brown, New York, for the Bankers, and Messrs. Joseph, Haney & Littlefield, Portland, Oregon, for the Corporation. Audits by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.

Price $110 per share and accrued dividend

BLOOIE!
A HURRIED FLIGHT INTO THE WOODS ON HIS RANCH TO ESCAPE THREE LADIES SENTIMENTALLY INTERESTED IN GUINEA-PIG WELFARE, GAVE THE COLONEL TOO LITTLE TIME TO LOOK BEFORE HE LEAPED INTO A HOLE IN THE GROUND WHERE, AFTER A LONG FALL, HE FOUND ONLY DARKNESS—UNTIL HE STRUCK A MATCH.
WHOOIE......WHAT HAPPENED..? ....HOW DID I GET AWAY UP HERE IN THIS TREE WITH?.....OH YES NOW I REMEMBER STRIKING THAT MATCH......THEN BLOOIE!
WHAT HAPPENED...... AN EXPLOSION.......WELL OUTSIDE OF BEING SCARED SILLY I'M NOT HURT.......WELL THE FIRST THING TO DO IS GET DOWN OUT OF THIS TREE.
OH JAKE! OH JAKE! MY WORD! I WONDER IF I'M GOING IN THE WRONG DIRECTION......I WONDER IF ?..........AH, AT LAST THERE'S THE SHACK......
OH JAKE!
OH, IT'S YOU CHIEF! WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN? I LOOKED ALL OVER THIS PLACE TEN TIMES...... YOUR WIFE HAS BEEN PHONING. YOUR DISAPPEARANCE WAS A BIG MYSTERY. WE'RE OUT OF FEED AGAIN AND.......
LISTEN, I'VE BEEN IN AN EXPLOSION THAT BLEW PRACTICALLY EVERY STITCH OFF OF ME. I'LL HAVE TO STAY HERE UNTIL YOU GET ME SOME CLOTHES, JAKE

Our Pledge
To the Public on USED CAR SALES

1 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

2 All STUDEBAKER automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

3 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used. (It is assumed that the car has not been damaged in the meantime.)

TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE APARTMENT HOUSE LOCATED AT THE NORTHEAST CORNER OF NICHOLS AVENUE AND TALBERT STREET SOUTHEAST, ANACOSTIA, D. C., CONTAINING APPROXIMATELY 26 APARTMENTS.

By virtue of a certain deed of trust, dated April 2, 1928, being instrument No. 201, recorded April 11, 1928, among the land records of the District of Columbia, in liber 6137, folio 161, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned trustees will sell, at public auction, in front of the premises, on WEDNESDAY, THE 10TH DAY OF APRIL, A. D. 1929, AT 2 O'CLOCK P. M., the following-described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia and designated as and being lot numbered three hundred and four (304) in square numbered five thousand eight hundred and five (5805) in the subdivision of lots made by William J. Latimer and William J. Tucker, trustees, as per plat recorded in the office of the surveyor for the District of Columbia in liber 85 at folio 51; subject to the building restriction line as shown on said plat and subject also to covenants of record.

TERMS OF SALE: Sold subject to a first trust of $65,000, further information concerning which will be given at time of the sale. One-third of the purchase money above said first trust to be paid in cash, balance in two equal installments, payable in one and two years, with interest at 6 per centum per annum, payable semiannually, from day of sale, secured by deed of trust upon the property sold, or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. A deposit of $1,000.00 will be required at time of sale. All conveyancing, recording, etc., at cost of purchaser. Terms of sale to be complied with within 30 days from day of sale, otherwise the trustees reserve the right to resell the property at the risk and cost of defaulting purchaser, after five days' advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C.

Curb Review

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—Heavy buying of the oil shares based on reports of a sharp decrease in crude production and expectations of general approval of the recent curtailment agreement featured an otherwise irregular curb market today. Continued firmness of money rates had a sobering effect on speculation and brought about further liquidation in a number of specialities, a dozen of which sank to new low levels for the year. The New York Stock Exchange monthly compilation of brokers loans, issued after the close of the market, showed an increase of nearly $126,000,000, bringing the total to another new high record just above $6,800,000,000.

Imperial was the outstanding strong spot in the oil group, moving up more than 7 points to 103⅛, which duplicates the high price of the year. Gulf of Pennsylvania, which is again being mentioned in connection with a merger of Standard Oil of California, closed 3 points higher at 163 after having touched 164¾. Vacuum, Standard Oil of Indiana, Lion, Louisiana Land & Exploration and Salt Creek Producers all closed 1 to 2½ points higher.

Despite a belief in some quarters that the recent development of aviation companies had been too rapid, several issues in that group displayed strong rallying tendencies. Wright Aeronautical (new) closed 8¼ points higher at 128¾ after having touched 131. Alexander Industries, Aviation Corporation of America, Consolidated Aircraft, National Aviation and Universal Aviation moved up a point or two, but Aviation Corporation of Delaware sank to a new low at 18½ and heaviness cropped out in the United Aircraft issues.

Ford of Canada soared 52 points to 1110 on a relatively small turnover, and Checker Cab advanced 2 points, but Auburn Auto fell back 3. Some of the recent liquidation in the motor stocks has been attributed to reports that many dealers are over-stocked, and that there has been some cancellation of orders as a result of the recent break in stock prices.

Public utilities moved irregularly lower, American & Foreign Power warrants, American Gas & Electric and Electric Investors all losing more than 2 points.

New low prices for the year were registered by Camco Preferred, Columbus Pictures, Fajardo Sugar, Kimberly Clark, Penn Salt and U. S. Gypsum preferred.

SEEKS BANK POST

T. HUNTON LEITH, of the Security Savings & Commercial Bank, who will be backed by Washington bankers to represent this city on the executive council of the American Institute of Banking. His campaign will be launched today.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, April 2 (A.P.).—An international banking group, including the Chase Securities Corporation and Blair & Co., of New York, is cooperating in the establishment of a central bank in Poland for long-term agricultural loans. A bond issue of $20,000,000 is to be offered in connection with the bank.

The Turkish Tobacco Monopoly, Ltd., has been incorporated with capital of $1,000,000 to act as American representative of the Turkish Tobacco Monopoly of Turkey, which controls production of Turkish leaf tobacco. The American branch plans to manufacture cigarettes in this country.

Alexander Smith, president of the Abitibi Power & Paper Co., Ltd., forecasts operations of the Canadian newsprint industry will probably be at about 75 per cent of capacity through 1929. Prices, he said, have been stabilized at a level that is not likely to encourage new production.

General Realty & Utilities Corporation recently organized with cash capital of approximately $42,000,000, for investment in realty and public utility projects, announces it has made commitments for new construction totaling $15,000,000, including a 22-story office building in the Boston financial district.

General Gas & Electric Corporation is offering holders of class A and class B common stock and dividend participations rights to subscribers at $70 a share to one additional class A common share for every three shares or dividend participations held. Contingent upon the success of this offering, a recapitalization plan will be effected providing for a split-up of common stocks and dividend participations to enable directors to offer additional rights when deemed desirable. The offering is to stockholders of record April 15.

Steel ingot production is reported to be at nearly 93½ per cent of capacity, compared with 94½ per cent a week ago, and 94.2 per cent two weeks ago. The gain was the result of independent companies stepping up production 1 per cent, to 93½ per cent. United States Steel Corporation operations are placed at between 97 and 98 per cent of capacity.

The Schiff Co. has added three new stores at Danville, Ill., Muskegon, Mich., and Detroit to its chain of shoe stores, giving it a total of 111 units.

LEITH WINS SUPPORT OF CAPITAL BANKERS

Washington Man Seeks Place on American Institute Governing Body.

MOST STOCKS WEAKEN

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Asking representation for the National Capital on the executive council of the American Institute of Banking, junior bankers comprising the Washington Chapter of the institute today will initiate a two-month campaign for the election of their candidate, T. Hunton Leith, to the governing body of the national organization.

Headed by James A. Soper, president of the chapter, a campaign committee of 25 outstanding representatives of both the Washington Chapter and the District of Columbia Bankers Association will meet at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at association headquarters to draft plans for the movement, which will culminate at the annual convention of the institute in Tulsa, Okla., June 10 to 14.

President Soper explained yesterday that there were twelve members of the executive council of the institute, four of whom will come up for election at Tulsa to serve three-year terms. Leith, it will be remembered, made an admirable run for a similar national office last year, and the friendships made in that campaign are being counted on by his local supporters to bring to a successful termination his present candidacy. Associated with the Security Savings & Commercial Bank as assistant cashier, he is active in the local chapter as one of the governors and a member of several important committees.

The campaign committee named yesterday to work in the interest of his candidacy, and which will hold its first meeting this afternoon, is as follows:

Mr. Soper, Lincoln National Bank, chairman; I. J. Roberts, past president of the chapter, Riggs National Bank; Francis G. Addison, jr., Security Savings & Commercial; Charles D. Boyer, past president, Federal-American; Harold W. Burnside, past president, Riggs National Bank; Aubrey O. Dooley, Commercial National Bank; James C. Dulin, jr., past president, American Security & Trust Co.; Joshua Evans, jr., past president, District National Bank; Robert V. Fleming, Riggs National Bank; August E. Hense, W. B. Hibbs & Co.; H. F. Kimball, American Security & Trust Co.

Miss Catherine M. Krieg, Riggs National Bank; E. J. McQuade, past president Liberty National Bank; A. M. Nevius, Riggs National Bank; Richard A. Norris, Lincoln National Bank; Frank M. Perley, American Security & Trust Co. John Poole, past president Federal-American National Bank; Mrs. Helena D. Reed, Lincoln National Bank; Miss Rose L. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; Miss Mabel V. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; Frederick P. H. Siddons, American Security & Trust Co.; W. W. Spaid, past president W. B. Hibbs & Co.; Wilmer J. Waller, past president Federal-American National Bank; Miss Lois A. White, Federal-American Bank and Robert G. Whitton, First National Bank of Alexandria.

Loading of Revenue Freight.

Loading of revenue freight cars for the week ended March 23, totaled 960,698 cars, an increase of 10,504 over the corresponding week last year, but a reduction of 42,838 cars under the same week in 1927, the American Railway Association reported yesterday.

The total was an increase of 3,238 above the preceding week this year, increases existing in the loading of live stock, merchandise less than carload lot freight, forest products and miscellaneous freight.

Miscellaneous freight loading for the week aggregated 398,378 cars; merchandise less than carload lot freight, 263,143; ore, 11,886; coke, 13,124, all representing increases over the same week last year. Coal loading, totaling 186,579 cars, grain and grain products, 42,071, and live stock loading, 26,050, represented decreases under a similar period in 1928.

Loading of revenue freight this year with comparative figures for the two preceding years follow:

	1929	1928	1927
Four weeks in January	3,570,978	3,448,895	3,756,660
Four weeks in Feb'y	3,767,758	3,590,742	3,801,918
Week ended March 2	976,987	959,494	989,863
Week ended March 9	945,770	951,556	1,000,754
Week ended March 16	957,460	942,572	1,001,332
Week ended March 23	960,698	950,194	1,003,536
Total	11,179,651	10,843,453	11,554,663

Securities Definitely Weak.

Yesterday's local securities market was definitely off. On the Washington Stock Exchange, five lots of bonds and seven stocks showed drops from a quarter of a point to 10 points. Mergenthaler Linotype and National Mortgage and Investment preferred alone held former ground, 20 shares of the former going at 107½, and 100 of the last named at 5¾.

In bond transactions, one $4,000 lot of C. & P. Telephone 5s went at 99½; $3,400 of Washington Gas 6s Series A, at 102⅞ and 102½, and $500 Washington Railway & Electric 4s, at 86¼. After call, a $200 lot of Washington Gas 6s, Series B, 105 on last sale, brought 103½, while a $500 lot of Capital Traction 5s went at 99¼, a quarter point lower than last sale figure.

Bankers Plan Convention.

Plans for the annual convention of the District of Colmbia Baunkers Association at Montauk Point, Long Island, June 20, 21 and 22, are rapidly taking shape, and the official "call" for the conclave will be issued early next week. C. H. Pope, of the Munsey Trust Co., general convention chairman, announced yesterday.

Chairman Pope said that present indications point to an attendance at least equal to last year's delegation of approximately 300, with a strong likelihood of this number being exceeded. The local bankers will leave here the night of June 19 and return Sunday, June 23. Several changes in program are contemplated. A novel entertainment on the night of June 20 will take the place of the usual "cotillion," it is understood, and the annual dinner will be held the evening of June 22.

Chapter's April Calendar.

The April calendar of the Washington Chapter, America Institute of Banking, is one of unusual activity. According to President James A. Soper this schedule provides for the nomination of delegates to the Tulsa convention on April 11 and the election of convention delegates on April 25. The midyear open meeting will be held April 18 in the auditorium of the new McKinley High School, where first semester certificates will be presented, and a program of entertainment offered by the women's committee. On April 28 chapter officers will be nominated for the new year. The annual election is to be held May 9.

Bondholders to Name Committee.

Persons holding the bonds of the Southern Consolidated Granite Co. were requested yesterday to communicate with the Continental Trust Co., so that a bondholderss' protective committee may be formed, which can act in conjunction with the trustee, for the protection of the bondholders.

ATTORNEYS' GROUP PLANS DEFENSE OF JONES ACT VICTIMS

Ralph J. Kelley Declares That Court Services Will Be Free of Charge.

LEGAL DISCRIMINATION CAUSES RESENTMENT

Recent Enforcement Incidents Cited as Reasons for Formation of Body.

Persons arrested in the District of Columbia on charges preferred under provisions of the Jones liquor law may soon get their legal defense free of charge. Ralph J. Kelley, an attorney with offices in the Insurance Building, secretary to former Senator Edward I Edwards, of New Jersey, until last March 4, has announced the organization of a group of attorneys in the District who will defend Jones law defendants without cost to those arrested.

While the formation of this group of lawyers is still in the early stages of organization, Kelley said last night that he had talked to a number of his fellow attorneys and indications were that many members of the bar here feel that the Jones law is unjust and are ready to proffer their services to those facing charges under it.

This action by Kelley follows the organization of a group of attorneys in New York for the sole purpose of giving free legal aid to those who face five-year prison terms and $10,000 fines for infractions of the Jones law passed at the last session of Congress.

Reasons For Committee.

Confirming the announcement of the District band of lawyers to defend Jones law defendants, Kelley said that an official statement from him would be released this afternoon in which he would discuss a number of reasons for the formation of such a group.

Among these, he declared, were the shooting of a woman in Illinois during a liquor search, the sinking of the I'm Alone, a British ship, by the Coast Guard after a command to halt the British ship to allow a rum search, and the case of Representative W. W. Morgan, of Ohio, who was cleared of any possible charge under the Jones law after an investigation by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, of New York. The investigation followed reports that Morgan had brought liquor into the United States on his return from an "official" trip with a party of representatives.

Legal Discrimination Seen.

Mr. Kelley said that he and his associates, whose names he refused to reveal, felt that the hip-flask violator of the Jones law was entitled to legal assistance as well as "wet-drinking, dry-voting" legislators who escaped penalties of the law through the "courtesy" treatment accorded them by other Government officials.

That the aim of the attorneys is to show that real enforcement of prohibition can not come through large fines and long terms in prison, was indicated by Mr. Kelley, in discussing the movement.

Kelley, who resumed the practice of law March 4, after his service with former Senator Edwards, was associated with Joseph P. Tumulty in the latter's law firm some years ago.

IRON WORKERS QUIT; WIN A 15-CENT RAISE

U. S. WORK TO CONTINUE

Affirming that no strike existed among the structural iron workers in Washington following a number of the workers "quitting" their jobs Monday morning, when a demand for 10 per cent increase in wages was not met by some local contractors, John A. Locher, business agent for Local No. 5, of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, announced last night that all the men would return to work on the Internal Revenue Bureau Building early Wednesday morning.

Six iron workers left the job on that building Monday. These and about 40 others who quit other jobs, will go to the Internal Revenue Building work, according to Mr. Locher.

"We gained our point; the increase was granted," Mr. Locher said, following a meeting of the executive committee of the union and representatives of the subcontractors, the James H. Elkins Construction Co., who are doing the structural steel work. "A most pleasant discussion and agreement was effected," he added.

"Seventeen of the contractors had already met the demand for the increase, effective April 1. A few other contractors had not, but it is believed they will. Some 50 men quit their jobs Monday on several commercial jobs here when they learned the contractors had not entered into the agreement.

"Now all these men will go to the Internal Revenue Building job in the morning And if any of the other contractors want to treat with us we will entertain them, and if they grant the increase, we will assist them to get all the men needed," Mr. Locher said.

Boxer Struck Her, Suing Wife Asserts

Henry Harold Bowen Made Defendant in Action for Divorce.

Henry Harold Bowen, professional boxer and swimming instructor, of 1413 A street southeast, was sued for limited divorce yesterday in the District Supreme Court by Mrs. Emma Marie Bowen, of 1426 K street southeast, on charges of cruelty and desertion.

They were married at Fort Wayne, Ind., on December 17, 1927, and have one child, according to the wife's bill, which was filed through Attorneys Needham C. Turnage and G. Lyle Hughes. Failure of her husband to support her adequately forced her to work to support herself and their child, she declared.

On several occasions, according to the wife, Bowen used his ring tactics and beat her. On January 14, last, she declared, he deserted her and has since failed to contribute to support her and their son.

Ivy City Association To Seek Improvements

A meeting of the Ivy City Civic Association last night in the Crummell School was devoted to development of measures looking toward improvement of streets and lights. This improvement has been sought at the hands of the commissioners for the past five years with no result.

A committee composed of Hezekiah Randolph, Frank Hawkins and the Rev. E T. Lewis was directed to tell the Commissioners that a growing colored settlement at Ivy City is being neglected and to ascertain "if the present 'no man's land' could expect improvement within a reasonable time."

Banquet Plans Made By Electrical Group

Extensive preparations have been completed for the annual banquet of the Electrical League of Washington scheduled for tomorrow evening at the Mayflower Hotel. Harry R. Carroll will talk and there will be ten acts by entertainers as well as music, it is announced.

Ralph P. Givson, vice president of the league, is in charge of the program, being assisted by the following committeemen: M. C. Clay, J. D. Mackessy, Jack Burns, C. E. Raymond, W. H. Rogers, B. E. Dement, E. W. Gill, Paul West, A. P. E. Horn, N. H. Barnes and J. T. Kirchner.

District Heads Rename Part of 42d Street

The District Commissioners yesterday changed the name of Forty-second street southeast, between Southern avenue and Burns street, to Burns street.

Due to certain changes in the highway plan, the street changed had become a duplication and its name was changed when the building inspector's office complained about the difficulty of numbering houses on Alabama avenue because of the two Forty-second streets.

Still Size of Tea Kettle Seized in Capital House

A still no larger than a tea kettle, with an estimated capacity of several drinks a day, was found among the rafters of the house 1531 Sixth street northwest yesterday afternoon by Policeman B. L. Hinton, of the Second Precinct. The still was in operation, the policeman said.

Hinton had been dispatched to the neighborhood to investigate a reported fight. He reported he saw a case of whisky being transported into the house at 1531 and followed it in. Both still and whisky were carried to the station house.

No arrests were made, but shortly after Hinton returned to the station house Sarah Davis, 45 years old, appeared and stated she lived at the house. She was charged with disorderly conduct and released on $25 bond.

Allen Will Retire From Active Duty

Major General, Detached as Infantry Chief, Quits on August 25.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Allen, who was replaced early last week as chief of Infantry, will retire from active service August 25, it was announced yesterday at the War Department.

Gen. Allen requested his retirement and under provisions of the act of June 4, 1920, he will retire with the rank of major general, which he held while chief of Infantry.

With his retirement in August, Gen Allen will have completed 36 years of service. He entered the Army June 8, 1893. He holds the Distinguished Service Medal and the Silver Star Citation.

At present Gen. Allen is on leave of duty. He was made chief of Infantry in March, 1925, with the rank of major general. Last week he was removed from that station under the War Department's policy of rotation.

Inspection Ordered In Plant Shipments

Shipments of plants and plant products, in and out of the District of Columbia, must be inspected under the revised rulings of the Department of Agriculture, which becomes effective this week.

Special quarantines on Japanese Asiatic and Asiatic garden beetles prevail in the District, causing this restriction. Nursery stock and similar material must be inspected, either at the Plant Quarantine and Control Administration Inspection House, Twelfth and B streets northwest, or approved by an inspector of the department at any other releasing point.

Will Bequeaths Skins And Skulls to Museum

A collection of mammal skins and skulls, reptile skins and a variety of insect species was willed to the National Museum, of this city, by Wirt Robinson, of Colleton, Va., who died January 19.

The will, which was filed for probate at the District Supreme Court yesterday, stipulated that the collection bequeathed the museum shall not include his collection of Indian relics and library. The brick museum building at Colleton, in which the collection was kept, with the grounds and an adjoining piece of land, was left to his son, Wirt Russell Robinson, and the residue of the estate, the amount of which was not disclosed, was willed to his widow, Mrs. Nancy Hinman Robinson. The widow was named executrix.

POLICEMAN HURLED UNDER CAR IN CRASH

AUTO DRIVER IS ARRESTED

Motorcycle Policeman Deney L. Guest, 34 years old, of the Ninth Precinct, was severely injured late yesterday afternoon, when his motorcycle was in a double collision with an automobile and a Washington Railway & Electric Co. street car at Ninth and H streets northeast.

Guest was thrown under the moving street car and barely escaped having his leg amputated, while his motorcycle caught fire and was demolished before the arrival of the Fire Department. The policeman was taken to Casualty Hospital and treated by Dr. M. F Ottman for a fracture of the leg and numerous briuses about the body. His condition was said to be good last night.

The machine that collided with Guest, forcing him, in turn, to collide with the street car, was operated by Percy Blaine, 21 years old, of 1611 Good Hope road southeast, who was arrested by police of the Ninth Precinct on charges of reckless driving and bad brakes.

According to the police, the impact of the collision with the street car threw Guest under it, and it was only by the greatest effort that the injured policeman was able to pull himself clear of the oncoming wheels. Motorman Thomas R. Wells brought the car to a stop shortly afterward, and the motorcycle burst into flames. Guest lives at Landover, Md.

$10,000 Damage Asked For Fall Through Door

Suit to collect $10,000 damages on charges of personal injuries growing out of negligence was filed in the District Supreme Court by Anna M. Davis, a minor, through Ralph Davis, as next friend, of 720 Twenty-second street northwest, against Hugh C. Trower, of 700 Twenty-second street northwest.

Through Attorneys Charles V. Imlay and George McLeish, the girl charged she fell through a cellar door which had been left open, in front of premises occupied by Trower as a delicattesen store.

Park Tennis Courts To Be Open Tomorrow

Tennis courts in three parks will be opened tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock, provided bad weather does not intervene, F. W. Hoover, general manager of the Welfare and Recreational Association of the Public Buildings and Grounds, announced yesterday.

The courts are at the Reservoir, at Sixteenth and Kennedy streets; Potomac Park, near the Tidal Basin, and Henry Park, Seventh and B strets. The favorable weather so far this year had made it possible to open the courts earlier than usual.

Regulation of Gasoline Labels in City Planned

Proposal of an ordinance in the District to prohibit sale of inferior gasoline under fictitious labels will be discussed today at a meeting of the District Commissioners and members of the Washington Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

A law of that kind was passed this week by the Maryland State Legislature. If such a law were passed in the District it would require that all gasoline be correctly labeled. It is claimed that certain dealers in Washington sell inferior gasoline on the pretense that it is a high-grade brand

Irish Policemen Highly Paid, Says Aiken, De Valera's Aid

Officers in Charge of 30 Subordinates Receive Nearly as Much as Chief of Capital Force, General of Republican Party, in City, Reveals.

Irish policemen in charge of groups of 30 subordinates receive practically the same salary paid the chief of police in the District of Columbia for supervision of 1,300 men, Gen. Frank Aiken, of the De Valera forces, declared yesterday in an interview at the Mayflower, where he is staying during a visit to Washington.

Aiken, called "the fighting general," is touring the United States in the interests of the Republican party of Ireland, his chief purpose being the promotion of a new national Irish newspaper.

Discussing the police situation in Ireland, Aiken said that the policemen there are overpaid, a force as large as that of New York City being maintained and this despite the fact that the average number of murders per year is only two, compared to the hundreds who die by violence in New York.

The Irish police, however, are not confronted with the traffic problems which face police in the larger cities of America. Salary scales for high officers in the Irish police force range far above the $5,000 paid men in charge of squads of 30, this salary being comparable to the $5,200 paid the superintendent of police in the Capital.

Aiken expressed surprise at the low salaries paid here and blamed exorbitant salaries of officials in his own country for some of its economic difficulties.

Concerning the newspaper for which he is seeking backing in America, Aiken said that De Valera intends the periodical be a nonparty organ devoted to the building up of Irish industries, promotion of Irish culture and supporting of Irish interests generally against any foreign domination.

A commander of the Fourth Northern Division of the Irish Republican Army, Aiken fought in the series of battles from 1919 to 1921. He was imprisoned, but escaped, and has long been considered a real leader in the movement for Irish freedom. He held the position of chief of staff of the Republican army

Aiken is at present under the same roof with Michael MacWhite, minister of the Irish Free State to the United States, but the men have not met. Their views on Irish political questions differ greatly.

POLICE PROMOTIONS ARE GIVEN APPROVAL OF COMMISSIONERS

Maj. Pratt's Recommendations of New Assignments to Go Into Effect.

SHELBY WILL BECOME HEAD OF DETECTIVES

Inspector Brown Is Elevated to Rank of Assistant Superintendent.

Promotions of several officers, recommended by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, new superintendent of police, to fill the vacancies incident to his elevation to command of the department, were approved by the District Commissioners yesterday, effective at 8 o'clock this morning.

Maj. Pratt immediately issued two general orders announcing the promotions and assigning the officers to new places.

Under a new arrangement put into effect by Pratt, one of the three inspectors will be in command of the police department at night, with headquarters in the Detective Bureau, but charged with visiting precincts at "odd and unexpected hours" and in general supervising the functioning of the department while the major and the assistant superintendents are asleep.

Shelby Heads Detective Bureau.

Assistant Superintendent of Police William S. Shelby, administrative assistant to the chief, was placed in command of the Detective Bureau, retaining general supervision of the personnel work of the department, with which he has been charged. Lieut. I. H. Edwards will take active charge of the records.

Inspector E. W. Brown was promoted to be assistant superintendent of police and retained in charge of traffic, with such other duties as may be assigned to him by the major. Pratt said traffic was a subject of constantly growing importance and warranted the assignment of a high police officer to the job of handling it.

Capt. Thaddeus R. Bean was made inspector and assigned to night supervision of the Police Department until May 1. Inspector Albert J. Headley will take over the night post on May 1, and a month later Inspector Louis J. Stoll will have the task, each of the inspectors having the assignment in rotation a month at a time thereafter

Davis to Head Second Precinct.

Capt. F. S. W. Burke, newly made captain, who succeeded Capt. Guy E. Burlingame in command of the Second Precinct, was transferred to command of the First Precinct, and Lieut Ogden T. Davis was promoted to be captain and assigned to command the Second Precinct.

Sergt. James E. Bobo was made a lieutenant and assigned as night inspector. Private William P Barnes was promoted to be sergeant and transferred from the Tenth to the Fifth Precinct, succeeding Sergt A W Guyer, who was assigned to the night inspection force.

Lieut. Joseph C. Morgan was relieved from assignment to the night inspection force and assigned to duty at police headquarters as liaison officer with the Civil Service Commission and as a member of the uniform board Private Samuel S. Biddle was transferred from the Sixth to the Third Precinct.

Others to be Retired

There are no other important changes contemplated by the new chief at this time, it was stated when Pratt made public his first general orders as chief of police.

Despite this, however, it is reported that one or two of the older captains who are eligible for retirement because of age and years of service, are contemplating asking for retirement in the near future. There are four captains who are eligible for immediate retirement, Capt. Charles Peck, Capt W E. Sanford, Capt. C. E. Bremmerman and Capt C. P. W. Lord.

Capital Trips Offered In Safety Competition

A trip to Washington is offered as the principal award to the elementary grade pupil and teacher in the respective competitions arranged by the Highway Education Board on traffic safety subjects, according to announcement made by the board yesterday The competitions are national and there are to be a number of State awards

The subject for the essay assigned pupils is "My Duty as a Junior Citizen to Observe Traffic Rules." The teachers in their competition are to write a lesson on the subject, "Training Future Citizens in Street and Highway Safety." In addition to the trip to Washington and other awards for the successful contestants in both competitions, many awards aggregating $6,500 are to be given in every State and possessions, the announcement states.

$10,000 and Injunction Asked in Use of Name

An injunction and $10,000 damages was petitioned in a suit filed yesterday by the Diener Cash and Carry Cleaners, Inc., against Thomas W. Howard trading as Howard's French Dry Cleaning Co., in equity division of the District Supreme Court.

The plaintiff, through Attorney Alvin Newmyer, contends Howard is about to open an establishment on Fourteenth street northwest and plans to use a similar trade name to that which the plaintiff has employed for many years. The Diener concern claims to be the originator of the "Cash and Carry" trade name, and declares Howard has already displayed a sign over the Fourteenth street place as the original "Kash and Karry" concern.

Board of Trade to Talk Over Buses Terminals

Establishment of a bus terminal in Washington, for the use of all bus lines operating from the Capital, will be discussed at a luncheon meeting of the public utilities committee of the Washington Board of Trade at noon today at the City Club.

The insurance and fire protection committee of the board will meet at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at Board of Trade headquarters.

A. D. Parr Sued for Absolute Divorce.

Charging infidelity and naming a corespondent, Mrs. Gladys Parr, of 436 F street southwest, sued her husband, Aubrey D. Parr, of 837 Third street northeast, for absolute divorce yesterday in the District Supreme Court. The parties were married September 16, 1924, and have one child, whose custody the wife seeks, according to the bill of complaint filed through Attorney M. J. Lane.

Thief Steals Whisky From Doctor.

Thirteen pints of whisky were the loot of a thief who forced the door of the office of Dr. William F. Nelson, at 729 Twelfth street northeast. Dr. Nelson reported yesterday to police.

Havill to Get Medal For Propeller Study

Navy Officer Wins Wright Brothers' Award for Research Paper.

LIEUT. COMDR. CLINTON H. HAVILL.

Lieut. Comdr. Clinton H. Havill, United States Navy, in charge of the propeller section of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, has been awarded the Wright Brothers' Medal for 1928 for his paper on Aircraft Propellers, which he submitted to the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Although the idea of awarding a medal for the best paper on aerodynamics, structural theory or research or airplane design or construction originated in 1924, this is the first year that the board of awards has felt that a paper submitted complied with the requirements.

Lieut. Comdr. Havill's paper described research work performed by him while on duty in the Bureau of Aeronautics. In addition to designing a number of propellers for new types of planes he has tabulated the data on many types of propellers and has arranged it so that the proper propeller may be selected for an airplane of any given weight, speed, climb, &c., by consulting his chart.

The medal will be presented him at a dinner to be held at the conclusion of the Detroit Aircraft Show, on April 14. Lieut. Comdr. Havill was commissioned an ensign in 1916, after he was graduated from the acamedy. Previous to coming to the Bureau of Aeronautics here he was stationed at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst. His home is in Rochester, N. Y., where he was born November 25, 1892.

1,000 ATTEND BALL OF ALMAS TEMPLE

NOVEL LIGHTING FEATURE

Five hundred couples swayed to entrancing music last evening in both the large ballrooms of the Willard Hotel at the ball of the uniformed bodies of Almas Temple Shrine of the District of Columbia.

The ball was declared to have been the largest in attendance of any yet held by the uniformed bodies of the temple. The participants were pleased with novel colored lighting from concealed apparatus.

One might start a waltz under the clear, silver moonlight of Washington and in a moment dance into the effulgent glowing yellow sunlight of Miami. One danced in all of the varicolored lights from dawn to dusk.

The ball was in honor of Edwin C. Dutton, illustrious potentate of Almas Temple. Other officials of the order present were James C. Hoyle, chief rabban; Robert S. Regar, assistant rabban; J. T. Prendergast, high priest and prophet; Edward D. Anderson, oriental guide; Frank E. Ghiselli, treasurer; F. Lawrence Walker, recorder; Leonard P Steuart, imperial marshal; George E. Harris, president of uniform bodies; C. J. Benner, manager of the band and drum corps; Capt. Harry Weirich, captain of the Legion, and Louis S. Yassel, director of bands. The dance committee, comprised W. E. Lawson, general chairman; Dwight L. Bromwell, John J. Taucill, jr., Charles S. Watson, Frank Jones, Jesse Newton, Raymond A. Florence, George E. King, Charles H Purcell and William F. Auerhamer.

Rent Agreements On Sites Signed

30-Day Writs Are Allowed on Land Affected by Building Program.

Thirty-day rental "agreements" for buildings on a number of sites now controlled by the Government on which the Federal building program will encroach, have been signed by Frank A Birgfeld, chief clerk of the Treasury, who will handle this property until actual construction of the Federal buildings begins.

As a start on this program of keeping the buildings in use until the Government is ready to use the land on which they stand, agreements to rent for 30-day periods have been made on property on East Capitol street, Maryland aveune, First and Second streets northeast, on the proposed site of the new Supreme Court Building.

The Government's plan of handling this situation is to keep the properties operating as usual with fees going into the Treasury and annual reports being made to Congress. On large apartment houses, where the Government has taken over the ground on which the building stands, bids will be asked and only responsible managers will be permitted to rent such places.

Mayflower Departs From Washington

Sylph Also Leaves City for Decommissioned Berth in Philadelphia.

The U. S. S. Mayflower, for many years the presidential yacht, and the U S Sylph, yacht used by the Secretary of Navy, made their adieu to Washington yesterday as they left to be decommissioned.

Capt. Wilson Brown was in command of the Mayflower as it steamed away for Philadelphia, where it will be retired. The yacht drew away from the docks at the Navy Yard promptly at 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Sylph is being towed to Norfolk, Va., where it will be put in condition for selling. It left at noon yesterday in the wake of the Mendota. Commander Gordon Sherwood was the commander of the Sylph.

Orphanage Benefited In Hockemeyer Will

An orphanage and homes were named beneficiaries in the will of Caroline M. Hockemeyer, filed for probate yesterday in the District Supreme Court. The will directed the following bequests: Masonic and Eastern Star Home on Sligo Mill road northwest, $200; the Christian and Elenora Ruppert Home on Good Hope road southeast, $300; and the German Orphan Asylum on Good Hope road, $300. The Masonic home was also given $100 additional for the upkeep of a memorial room dedicated to John and Carolin Hockemeyer.

After making bequests to various relatives, the will bequeathed the residue of the estate to her nieces, Irene Hazel, Caroline G. Sartain, Ruth Doheny and Eleanora Sartain. The American Security & Trust Co., was named executor.

GORDON JUNIOR HIGH EXPANSION SOUGHT

Citizens Assert, 12 to 15, New Classrooms Are Needed to End Congestion.

DRUGGISTS' SIGNS FOUGHT

The Cathedral Heights-Cleveland Park Citizens Association, meeting last night at the St. Alban's Guild Hall, Massachusetts and Wisconsin avenues northwest, indorsed a proposal that from twelve to fifteen new classrooms be constructed at the Gordon Junior High School.

Mrs. Franklin D. Jones, president of the Gordon School Parent-Teacher Association, and Frank Woodward, school principal, addressed the meeting on conditions at the school. The school, Mrs. Jones said, will be crippled in efficiency and overcrowded unless steps are taken to meet the inflow of pupils, who are expected to number 1,000 by next September. At present the school is taking new pupils but none have reached the ninth year course, the highest course given, she said, and there is a large annual inflow of pupils with no outflow.

The association voted to protest against the use of display advertising in the windows of the Alban Tower drug store, in the Alban Towers Apartment Building, Massachusetts and Wisconsin avenues northwest, and to protest against the opening of any new stores in apartments in the vicinity. The resolution will be sent to the District Zoning Commission. Motions that the meeting indorse a proposed increase in District budget items for new school construction were rejected.

The Columbia Heights Citizens Association indorsed four delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations at a meeting last night at the Hubbard School, W. B. Todd, J. Clinton Hiatt, A. B. Carty and Lewis D. Peppler. William McK. Clayton was indorsed for membership in the Public Utilities Commission.

A resolution was adopted recommending that the main vestibule entrance of the Hubbard School be remodeled to relieve congestion.

Talks on the cultivation of flowers and trees were heard by the Devonshire Downs Citizens Association. The speakers were David Lumsden and R. Westover, of the Department of Agriculture.

The association planned to send a large representation to the meeting of the District Commissioners April 17 to consider relocation of Van Ness street. The association is indorsing this action.

Annulment Sought By Mrs. Adams, 17

Bride, Whose Father Was Arrested for Threats, Asks Freedom.

Mrs. Ethel Marie Adams, a bride of two months and a minor, through her father, Julius H. Krause, of 342 N street southwest, petitioned the District Supreme Court yesterday to annul her marriage to John Q. Adams, employe of the Peoples Sausage Co., First and I streets southeast, on the ground that her husband misrepresented her age in obtaining a license to marry.

Through her counsel, M. J. Lane, the girl bride declared her husband obtained a license by telling the clerk at the local courthouse she was 18 years old. The petitioner declares she is under 17. The license was taken out February 9, and they were married the same day.

As a result of the marriage the bride's father was haled into Police Court on a charge of threatening neighbors at whose home the wedding ceremony was performed. The charge was dismissed. Testimony in the case tended to show that the newlyweds returned home and announced to Mrs. Krause they had been married. The girl's mother screamed and Krause came to the door. Upon learning of the wedding he pursued the newlyweds back to the home of the neighbors, it was said, where he upbraided them for aiding his daughter's marriage In dismissing the charge Judge John P. McMahon declared Krause had acted as any other "red-blooded American would have done under the circumstances."

Unbelief Has Passed Peak, the Rev. A. E. Kirk Tells Methodist Conference.

BISHOP WELCH BEGINS SLATING ASSIGNMENTS

Announcement of Changes in Pastorates to Be Made Next Monday.

Unbelief has passed its peak in the colleges of America, and the time has come for a great religious awakening in which schools of religion will be established on all the campuses of this country, the Rev. Albert E. Kirk, of Chicago, declared last night at the opening of the 145th session of the Baltimore annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at the Foundry Church.

Dr. Kirk is a former college president, and is now secretary of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The subject of his address was "The Contribution of the Christian Movement to the Education of America."

After asserting that the age of materialism had passed in the United States, Dr. Kirk said schools of religion should be built on campuses beside schools of medicine and law and other collegiate branches. He declared there can be no education where the religious element in life is ignored. He pointed out that the church was bearing half the burden of education in this country.

Bishop and Cabinet in Session.

An important feature of the opening of the conference was the meeting yesterday afternoon of Bishop Herbert Welch and his cabinet to consider candidates for appointment. Bishop Welch and his cabinet, composed of district superintendents of the Baltimore, Washington and Frederick districts, will meet each day at the conclusion of the conference next Monday.

Another speaker at the opening session was the Rev. N. E. Davis, corresponding secretary of the board of hospitals, homes and deaconess' work, who spoke of the progress of the board's work and what was needed for the future.

Bishop Wilson to Be Honored.

A memorial service will be held this morning. Among those whose memory will be honored is the late Bishop Luther B Wilson.

The annual meeting of the Baltimore Conference Mutual Relief Association will be held this afternoon, as will also the anniversary celebration of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the Rev J. T. Wardle Stafford will speak on "The Eagle, the Athlete and the Ordinary Man." At the meeting tonight the principal speaker will be the Rev. Donald H. Tippett, pastor of the Church of All Nations, of New York City.

Lutheran Church Gets $15,000 in Himes Will

The will of James M Himes who died on March 19, was filed for probate yesterday at the District Supreme Court and named the Church of the Atonement, Rhode Island avenue and U street northeast, and the Luther Home for the Aged ultimate beneficiaries to a portion of his estate. His estate was valued at $72,000.

The home is to be given $5,000 also upon the death of Mrs. Himes. The will provided in the event any remainder from the estate exists after all claims are paid, the sum shall go to the most needy Lutheran institution in the District. Robert S. Himes, a son, is left $30,000, and Marvin Himes, another son is left $10,000 Semiannual payments of $30 over a period of five years was also provided for the Church of the Atonement and the Luther League of that church. The will named Clyde J. Crouch and Maud M. Himes executors.

Latin-American Music Presented at Concert

A representative audience, including many diplomats and social celebrities of the Capital, attended the forty-fourth concert of Latin-American music in the Hall of the Americas at the Pan-American Union Building last night.

The United Service Orchestra of 90 musicians was led jointly by Capt William J. Stannard, leader of the United States Army Band, and Lieut Charles Benter, leader of the United States Navy Band. The assisting artists were Margarita Cueto, Mexican soprano; Lecuona, Cuban pianist, and instrumental and vocal selections by the Hernandez Brothers Trio, from the Republic of Colombia, who made their debut in a Pan-American program.

Employes Promised Federation Support

A. J. Oliver, staff representative of the National Federation of Federal Employes, stated at a meeting yesterday in the board room of the District Building that bills will be introduced at the next regular session of Congress to level up the present temporary salary range and to liberalize the retirement act and to extend its provisions to cover per diem employes.

"The National Federation of Federal Employes offers you its services and places the machinery of its whole organization at your disposal when these matters come up before the Personnel Classification Board and congressional committees," Oliver said. Another meeting will be held.
